THE RED FOLD.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT RAILWAY EMPLOYEES' MAGAZINE.

A time table folder is perhaps the largest and most direct medium of intercourse between the Passenger Department of a railway and the traveller, actual and prospective. It is necessary information the railway wishes to impart should be accurate and comprehensive. To the proposition in the preparation of a time table folder is to reduce a mass of figures, instructions, general information and advice to an easily understood and quickly understood basis.

In recent years the railways of Canada and the United States in their haste of progress have not neglected the time folder and marked advancement can be noted in the simplification and tabulation of the material published, and the erstwhile rather common expression "as puzzling as a railway time table" is rapidly becoming a misnomer.

Though retaining the familiar red cover, the other issue of the Canadian Government railway time table folder, to use a printer's expression, appears in a new dress. Each page is now of uniform size bordered by a blue rule, with an electrolyte heading indicated whether the information contained on that page pertains to the Government railways in general or a division of the system in particular. The border and rule are printed in red and the text in black, a combination most pleasing to the eye. Commencing in logical order, is a table of contents alphabetically arranged accounting for each of its thirty-eight pages. Following this is an index with the designating letter in prominent and plain face type so that the reader can find any station on the International, Prince Edward Island Railway, National Transcontinental, International and New Brunswick & P. E. I. Railway, and having found it, is referred to the table in which such station will appear. The table number is another feature of the October issue and has been adopted with the view of referring the reader more quickly to the relation the station he has in view bears to the other stations and the trains run by which it can best be reached. A list of the officers of the Government railways, there sphere of action and office address, with the Canadian ticket agencies will be found on page 5. Then follows the time table proper. A first glance will show there has been a house cleaning. The odds and ends which had crept into the older issues have disappeared. There has also been a combing out process in the footnotes—where explanations are given as to the particular conditions under which trains will stop at certain stations. All the reader now has to do is to note the train number and the particular letter prefixed before the time opposite the station in which he is interested and a heavy faced letter easily picked out in the footnotes will indicate just the conditions under which that particular train will stop at that particular station. A very plain and up-to-date map occupies the four centre pages. Still another new feature, and one that will be appreciated by passengers to Portland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Ottawa, Toronto, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, etc., is the arrangement of condensed time tables of connecting lines. The sleeping, dining and parlor car service is all contained on one page. The general information has been revised with a view to making it more readily understood.

All the reader is now asked is to apply the alphabet to his quest for information and the railway has done the rest. The October folder is certainly a distinct improvement on any previous issue.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. NEIL M. MACKENZIE.

On Tuesday, Dec. 23rd, 1914, after a long illness, passed away peacefully, beloved wife of Neil M. MacKenzie, one of the prosperous and highly respected residents of that community. Mrs. MacKenzie was a woman of quiet disposition, an affectionate and loving wife, and one of the best of mothers. She will therefore be greatly missed in the community in which she lived her whole life. She was a devoted and faithful mother, and her death is a loss to her husband, who within a few hours after the death was called upon to bear a second trial, in the loss of his sister Josephine, in the loss of his wife, and whose death is a double portion of sympathy. Too much can hardly be said in praise of these two women and in appreciation of their lives. Mrs. MacKenzie was seventy-one years of age. She died after an illness of three weeks. Besides a sorrowing husband she leaves to mourn, one son, James who resides at home. A brother, Neil M. MacKenzie of Fairview, also survives. In extending to these their deep sympathy the Guardian joins the many friends.

The funeral was held on Thursday, Dec. 24th, at 10 o'clock in Canon Cove cemetery. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Daniel MacLean, a first cousin of the deceased, assisted by Mr. W. C. McKinnon. The pall-bearers were Messrs John MacKellar, John MacKinnon, Neil M. MacKenzie, Douglas MacKenzie, Thomas Barrette and John D. MacKinnon. (Pat. and Exam. please copy.)

MRS. NEIL M. MACKENZIE.

On the morning of Dec. 23rd, 1914, when Christmas was being observed, she was preparing joyfully to celebrate the anniversary of her King's first coming and she came again in fulfillment of his promise to receive his own to himself, this time to remove from the weary struggle Jesus beloved wife of Neil M. MacKenzie. Canon Cove. From her place on earth to her place on high her spirit winged its free and sunny guided flight to rest at home with Christ in God. She has left the community in gloom because it has lost in her a friend and neighbor loved by all who knew her. And in her home loved one still in grief because of their interparting loss. As their outlet is a vacant chair never again to be used by her familiar form. They long for the touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still, a hand ever faithful to minister help, and a voice that never failed to comfort and cheer. In a sense they have lost all time, but in a truer sense she is always with them as an undying influence for good. She has left many to mourn. Their loss, not here, and who would wish her back. For she knew the Saviour as her own. Always a consistent Christian, her trust was in Him. Her faith increased and her last illness, which lasted nine days, was but the background for the bright light of her strong Christian faith.

The deceased was sixty-eight years of age. She leaves to mourn the loss of a loving wife, a grief-stricken husband, to whom as to all her mourning family a wide public extends deep sympathy. Mr. MacKenzie is very desirous of expressing the heartfelt thanks of himself and family to the friends and neighbors, who showed marked kindness and sympathy in this sad bereavement. The sons and daughters left to mourn are: Robert in Chicago, Ben in Maine, John Edward in Victoria, B.C., Malcolm in New Westminster, Catherine (Mrs. John E. MacKenzie) in Canoe Cove, Florie (Mrs. John M. Dwyer) in Jamaica Plains, U. S., Jessie (Mrs. Mark Inman) in Canoe Cove, and Neil at home. Other mourners at home are two grandchildren, Marion and Everett MacKenzie and Mr. MacKenzie's mother, an elderly lady now in failing health. Besides a brother, Neil R. MacKenzie, resides at Canoe Cove.

The funeral was held on Thursday, Dec. 24th at Canoe Cove cemetery. The services at house and grave were conducted by the Pastor, Rev. Daniel MacLean, assisted by Mr. M. C. McKinnon. The pall-bearers were Messrs Douglas MacDougal, Ewen D. McKinnon, Charles McLean, Paul MacPhee, Jr., Hugh MacPhee Sr., and MacKinnon, Charles MacLean, Paul Daniel MacPhee. W. N. Tanton Jeweler — Sunnyside

19 weeks of tremendous success it is about to be withdrawn to give way to some lighter form of entertainment for the early Spring season.

The last call has been sounded for those who would enjoy for some trifling cost a two dollar bill the magnificent creation that cost more than $250,000 to stage. Little more than a fortnight remains before the gaiety, mirth, music and song that characterize "Wars of the World" will be a memory, and this most stupendous of spectacles will have faded away. Therefore it behoves all who have solicited a trip to the Hippodrome among their holiday engagements to make haste.

It don't cost much—any part of $2.00 that the tentative Hippodrome visitor cares to invest—$2.00—$1.50—50 or 25 cents at night, or any part of $1.00 in the afternoon—but in return for that the buyer gets all that the investment of a quarter of a million dollars can give.

Of all the friends of the children there is none that compares in popularity with Archie Gunn, the cartoonist of the New York American. Mr. Gunn, says of "Wars of the World"—"Where is there another show in town to appeal to the little ones like this? We have no pantomimes as they have in London."

"No enterprising American manager caters particularly to the children at Christmas. Why Heavens only knows it a country where children are so considered."

"The Hippodrome, with his soldiers, clowns, fairy spectacles and living dolls, etc., is a show to appeal to our little friends particularly, and bring sweet wonder to their eyes."

"It would take a page or two of this paper to describe the various scenes and kaleidoscopic changes in 'The Wars of the World'."

"History appears in the darkness, and like the ancient chorus unfolds the plot. Gradually the stage lights, and like a vision are seen the cave-people, then the Romans, and the Dawn of civilization. We are carried to the times of the Crusaders, with knights in armor, a lust in the forest and the mighty victor receiving a wreath from the princess."

"The scene changes to Versailles during the licentious time of Marie Antoinette, with dancing, Watteau shepherds and love scenes galore, closing with a gloomy vision of Marie going in a tumbril to the guillotine, surrounded by soldiers of the Republic and dishevelled sans-culottes."

"The next scene, a Southern homestead at the beginning of the Civil War. Dainty misses in old-fashioned crinolines, saving goodness to the gallant boys in grey. All light and cheer, changing to a dreary battlefield early morning, strewn with dead, and history silently and sadly holding up his hands in pity and sorrow."

"And so the pictures change every now and ever engrossing. From Hieney, with the roadside inn, costumed men, their dusters and mules to the vastness of the desert; from there to the Riviera, bright with the spirit of carnival, to Mexico, winding up with the dazzling, fairy spectacle, 'The Palace of Fountains'."

MR. WILLIAM DEHON KING.

The following reference to the late Mr. William Dehon King who died from the effects of a broken leg secured while out hunting will be of deep interest to his many friends on P. E. Island where he spent the summer months shooting and fishing with his friend Mr. Robert Jenkins of St. John's. While here he made his home with Mr. W. Jones, Hazelbrook, by whose family his death is keenly felt. It will be remembered that about three years ago Mr. King had the misfortune to break his arm while fishing, near Morell and was tenderly nursed back to health before returning to his home in Boston.

AN APPRECIATION OF AN INTIMATE FRIEND.

Beautiful were the wreaths of floral tributes lovingly laid upon the casket of William Dehon King who, at the age of 76, closed his earthly career in Boston on Thursday evening, December 10. The following lines constitute a tribute to his respected memory and, although not so fragrant as those floral tributes, yet are they not less affectionately offered, as they come from the lips of an intimate friend's heart. The words only slightly express his real feelings.

Rememberable was Mr. King's faithfulness to and thoughtfulness of his friends. He was an expert in art of being a friend. In the strength, warmth, sincerity, devotion and duration of his friendship, he was like Bishop Brooks of blessed memory, to whom an intimate friend said one day, "Brooks, if you like a man, you swallow him whole." Perfectly disinterested was he in his friendship. When I call on him at the hospital, he was in great pain. Yet almost his first words to me were those of friendly sympathy in my recent bereavement. In his solicitude for my grief, he had forgotten his own sufferings.

Every such a perfect gentleman he was a man untalented and boundless courtesy, in the discharge of which he was prompt, exact and courtly. Gentleness was one of the innate and distinctive traits of his life.

Possessing a sensitive heart, he was responsive to the call of need, whenever the call reached his ear. His eyes were accustomed to shed tears with the mourner and his soul was no stranger to the touch of religious impulses. Well developed was the sense of appreciation, which he exercised constantly and promptly toward those who had, in any way, rendered him some service. His upbringing in the formative period of his life in a home of ideal beauty and culture, his liberal academic training, his wide business experience in China in his younger days, his travels in Europe and in the homeland, his distinguished forbears and family connections and his large circle of choice friends and acquaintances and his long and faithful service as a highly honored official of the Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati—these and rendered him broad-minded, friendly and companionable. He was a connoisseur and a ready memorizer of good literature in general and of choice poetry in particular, in both of which fields he occasionally showed his proficiency by his own pen.

A lover of indoor life in the pleasant company of his books, he was no less an ardent lover of God's out-of-doors and a sportsman of no mean ability. Death has claimed him; he is lost to our inner sight. What we tho-

JURY'S VERDICT IN NORTH SYDNEY MURDER CASE.

NORTH SYDNEY, Jan. 2.—The inquest on the body of Miss K. C. Dunn, who was murdered in her house on Queen Street on December 21 was continued before Coroner A. H. Forbes Wednesday. The verdict of the jury was as follows:

"We find that the deceased, Katherine C. Dunn, came to her death by blows inflicted on the back of the head by some blunt instrument between the hours of five and seven-thirty o'clock on the afternoon of Monday, December 21, 1914, in her residence on Queen street and that the said blow or blows were inflicted by some person or persons unknown to us."

Only one new witness was sworn a boy named Ernest Sudbury, who was in the habit of visiting Wm. Connolly's house, where the two colored men under arrest boarded. Young Sudbury faintly while being cross-examined.

Mrs. Connolly, Alfred Willis and George Taylor were also examined tonight. Taylor was questioned with reference to Willis' past.

The evidence of Mrs. McLean and Rindress, who examined the body, was submitted in writing. It was to the effect that death was due to a blow on the back of the head. Warrants have been issued against Willis and West.

Before He Became Famous as the Author of Dr. Chase's Receipt Book.

Here is a letter from an aged gentleman who consulted Dr. Chase, long before his Receipt Book attained a world-wide circulation or the fame of his family medicines became known to the ends of the earth.

Like most people of advanced years his kidneys were the first to break down and when doctors failed to help him he remembered the physician who cured him of pleurisy in his younger days.

Mr. O. D. Barnes, R.F.D. 1, Byron, Mich., writes:—"About fifty years ago, when living in Ann Arbor, Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, was called on to treat me for pleurisy. Ever since that I have used and recommended Dr. Chase's Medicine, and have two of his Receipt Books in the house.

"Some time ago a cold settled in the kidneys, causing backache, frequent urination, dizziness, and affected the eyesight. My appetite failed and I could not sleep nights. Two doctors failed to do me any lasting good, so I started using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Nerve Food. The result have been highly satisfactory to me. My appetite improved, I gained in weight, sleep and rest well, and feel strong and well. My kidneys resumed their natural functions, and I believe that my cure was due to Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Nerve Food. I am 78 years old, superintend work on my farm, and can turn in and do some work myself."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. All dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

EVENING PRAYER OF A PEOPLE

(By Neil Munro, in the Glasgow Evening News.)

Lord, from this storm awakened isle, At this dark hour on land and sea, 'Twixt bugle call and Sabbath bell, Go up our prayers to Thee.

For the long years of sanctuary We tender thanks, O Lord! For peaceful fields and sacred hearths, And the unused sword.

Thine be the praise! And now when quakes, The world, and trials' come O God! preserve inviolate Our ancient Island Home!

O! had we died untried, unproved, And missed this hour of stress!— Praise be to God for this last gift, The joy of steadfastness!

Where'er our people be tonight, Our husbands or our sons, Tossed on the thunder-bolted deep, Or bivouacked by the guns;

Treading the mire of a foreign land, Or guarding our native coasts, Be Thou their Shield and Comforter, We pray thee, God of Hosts!
