PRINCE ON LAST LAP OF CANADIAN TOUR

On His Way to Ottawa to Say Good-bye to Governor General and Canada was Presented with Canadian Book for Voyage Reading.

(Special to the Guardian.)
TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Sleeping, the Prince of Wales came into Toronto two days ago and sleeping he left it. The C. P. R. Royal Train pulled out of North Toronto Station at 9.30 this morning on the last lap of its 10,000 mile journey with the Prince still in bed. The curtains were all drawn on the private car, Killarney even the three feathers on the side had a sleepy early morning look about them despite the brightness of the sunshine and the clearness of the air. Not a sign was made to indicate that the heir to the throne was leaving Toronto. Not a cheer was heard, not a sound to disturb the slumbers of the boy within. When he awakens up he will be well on his way to Ottawa and his final farewell to Canada.

GRAND TRUNK BILL NOW BEFORE SENATE

Letter from Sir Robert Borden Denies Rumour that He was not in Favour of Purchase and States that He, Sir Robert had Opened Negotiations for Sale in London.

(Special to the Guardian.)
OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—Debate on the second reading of the Grand Trunk Bill, which was given third reading in the Commons early this morning, was proceeded with in the Senate today. As soon as the bill received first reading, the second reading was moved and Sir James Loughheed the government leader rose to speak to the motion. Before proceeding with his argument Sir James read a letter from Sir Robert Borden dealing with a rumour that Sir James said had been circulated that the Prime Minister was not in sympathy with the measure. Sir Robert in his letter which was written under date of November 1st characterized this rumour as being utterly unfounded. Had this been the case, the letter went on to say, the bill would not have been introduced in Parliament. Sir Robert pointed out that he had himself commenced the negotiations in London two years ago. He did so because the government realized that the national system of railways is so incomplete as to jeopardize successful operation. The negotiations had also been entered into because the only other alternative was to allow the Grand Trunk to pass into the hands of a private company, thereby putting all the railways under one company, a situation so dangerous as to constitute a menace.

Gen Fournier Faces Trial By Court Martial

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Brig-General Fournier, who commanded the French fortress of Maubeuge at the outset of the war, appeared today before a special court martial to answer for the surrender of the fortress to the Germans in September, 1914, during their great sweep southward toward Paris in the first stage of the war. A large audience comprising many generals and higher officers, were in attendance. The government applied for a postponement which was granted against the objection of the defendant.

Coal Strike Likely to be Long

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Despite the spirit of hopefulness in official quarters that the end of the coal strike was near, spokesmen here for miners and operators declared tonight the country was in for a protracted industrial struggle in the bituminous fields.

Labor leaders, a bit more specific than operators, estimated that all union mines would remain closed at least four weeks. Other estimates cut that time in half, but officials although without word of direct efforts to bring the two sides together, still held firmly to the view that the strike would not run that long.

Yarmouth Co. Man Was Shot

YARMOUTH, November 5.—George Cromwell, (colored) Pleasant Lake, seven miles from this town was shot last evening and severely wounded in the right wrist, the fleshy part of the left arm, and through the chest, it is alleged, by J. A. McGray of the same place. The shooting was the outcome of McGray paying rather marked attention to female friends of Cromwell, and which was strenuously resented. Last evening McGray met Cromwell, when some words were exchanged, and the former produced a 38 calibre revolver and fired three shots at Cromwell, all taking effect as stated. The one in the chest is a bad wound, and the bullet is so embedded near the right lung that physicians have as yet been unable to locate it, and the man lies in a serious condition. A warrant for McGray's arrest was issued today, but before officers could go to his home he came in town and gave himself up to the authorities. Tomorrow he will appear before Stipendiary Pelton for preliminary examination.

Canada Labor Group Thinks Proposed Convention of 48 Hour Week Doesn't Go Far Enough

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 5.—In the view of the Canadian labor group the proposed convention of the forty-eight hour week does not go far enough. The group holds that the eight hour day should be the basis with a forty four hour week. They argue that under the proposed forty-eight hour weeks it would be possible for an employer to have his men working considerably more than eight hours in any day providing that the total number of hours worked in a week does not exceed forty eight.

"We prefer the resolution adopted at the International Congress of Working Women," Tom Moore President of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress said today. That resolution favored an eight hour day without overtime, except in cases of great emergency, with a thirty six hour rest weekly to include Sunday wherever possible.

The preponderance of government voting power is still causing much heartburning among the workers' delegates. The question has been under discussion at the meeting of the Canadian labor group and decision was reached to render every assistance possible to any move to disfranchise government delegates from States which have not sent a delegate representing their workers. General discussion on the eight hour day is due to open at this afternoon's meeting of the conference.

Gay, pointing out that he was really not the Labor candidate, but an Independent Laborite, and had boasted that he had evaded military service.

FIGHT NOW ON FOR 48 HOUR WEEK

(Special to The Guardian.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The fight on the eight-hour-day has begun. The first rounds indicate that it will be prolonged, and that some time will probably elapse before the International Labor Conference pronounces its opinion. It came before the conference this afternoon, in a resolution submitted by the organization committee of the proposed convention for a 48-hour week. Mr. Barbles, British Government delegate, and member of the British war cabinet, pleaded for the convention and was supported in his view by Mayor Desplanches, government delegate from Italy. "We cannot do less at this conference," Mr. Barnes argued, "than adopt a convention for a shorter working day. To do this would be to break faith with Labor."

Sensation in Diamond Robbery Case

MONCTON, Nov. 5.—Something of a sensation has been created in court circles on account of the mysterious disappearance of the jewel box in connection with the Moncton diamond robbery case to come before the Supreme Court at Dorchester this week. In August last three thousand dollars' worth of diamonds were stolen from Melanson and Company's jewelry store at Moncton, and a little later a Chinaman named San Toi, alias Brown and his white woman companion were arrested at Sydney charged with the robbery. Suspicion was attached to the pair on account of the finding of the stolen jewel box in a Moncton boarding house from which San Toi and his alleged white wife had made a hasty departure shortly after the robbery. The jewel box was regarded as the main link in the chain of circumstantial evidence against the accused. The jewel box was taken to Dorchester at the opening of the court at Dorchester last week and placed among other documentary evidence for the use of the crown in other cases in the barristers' room in the court house. Recently it was discovered that the jewel case was missing, and a diligent search has failed to reveal its whereabouts. The result is that the Crown, when the Chinaman's case comes up will likely be minus its piece of evidence. Meantime the disappearance of the jewel case has created a stir among the Crown officials which may develop into the sensation of the diamond robbery trial.

Rumanians Will Annex Bessarabia

(Special to The Guardian.)
LYONS, France, Nov. 5.—L'Intransigeant announces that the Rumanians intend to annex Bessarabia and will inform the Supreme Council of the fact. This will cause less embarrassment than the Rumanian-Iungarian tangle for the Council will not greatly concern itself should Rumania of its own initiative appropriate a valuable slice of Russia. The Council will simply not act in the matter, neither by sanction nor disapproval, but Rumania will have no support if thereby it may have to fight the whole of Russia. American delegates to the Peace Conference have taken the attitude that the dememberment of Russia will be a dangerous course, that the council has gone as far as was safe in the construction of Poland and Finland and that there is danger in the establishment of small Baltic States. In this view Rumania will be no better able to hold Bessarabia than would the Poles to hold all Bessarabia. The test will come when Russia shall be itself again.
