NO POSSIBILITY OF RUSSIAN SURRENDER

Russian Commander Holds That if Russia Concludes Dishonourable Peace She Would Become German Colony.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON.— A correspondent of the Times at the Headquarters of the Seventh Russian Army talked with General Korniloff on the eve of his departure to take over the supreme command. General Korniloff said: "the first stage of the war is over, the second phase begins today." The correspondent says the Russian commander repudiates the possibility of the Russians surrendering. He holds that if Russia concludes a dishonorable peace to which traitors have been driving her she will become a German colony forever. The Germans would seize her foodstuffs, enroll her men and treat her as a conquered country.

MAY HAVE TO PUT FLIVVER IN BARN

NEW YORK.— The great demand for gasoline makes it quite probable that many pleasure automobiles and pleasure craft will be forced by the government to cease operations in case the war continues for three years, according to C. E. Pochel, interested in several oil companies of Oklahoma, who is visiting at The Butler for a few days.

"Increasing motor power is taking up all the surplus and even most of the reserve gasoline," says Pochel. Because of this, gasoline will never be cheap again. If the war keeps up for two or three years, it is reasonably certain that pleasure will have to take a position of little importance. Automobiles and all kinds of pleasure craft would be classed as unnecessary luxuries because of the great need of fuel in battleships and war automobiles and airships."

PRESENT MEMORIAL TO HON. R. ROGERS

Seventy Members of House Congratulate Him on Vindication.

OTTAWA.— Hon. Robert Rogers was the central figure at an interesting function in Room 16—the Conservative members' room in the House of Common s yesterday afternoon, when he was called in and surprised with the presentation of a memorial signed by about seventy members of the House, congratulating him upon his vindication at the hands of the McLeod-Tellier Commission, in regard to the findings of Mr. Justice Galt.

The memorial expresses confidence in the minister, and hope that he may long be spared to the service of the country. It also taxes Mr. Justice Galt with malice, venom and spleen in his allegations regarding the Manitoba agricultural college contracts. The text of the memorial follows:

"We, the undersigned Members of the House of Commons of Canada, have learned that the base attack against your character as a public man has been, by the Honorable Sir Ezekiel McLeod, and the Honorable Mr. Justice Tellier, the Royal Commission appointed to investigate, found to be without foundation of any kind whatever, and that the said judges have unanimously exonerated you in every particular from the unsupportable charges made against you by Mr. Justice Galt.

"We beg to assure you that the result was anticipated, as from even a casual reading of the charges made against you by Mr. Justice Galt, whose venom and malice were so plainly visible, we had long been convinced that there was nothing on which to base his splenetic utterances, except feelings of resentment at your manly and outspoken expressions, reflecting upon him, as a judge accepting public money contrary to the statutes in that behalf.

"Your colleagues in the House of Commons, congratulate you upon the result of the investigation, and desire to avail themselves of this occasion to express their unbounded confidence in you as a representative of the people, unafraid to speak the thing you will, when the public interests demand it. Please let us offer you our best wishes and kindliest thoughts, at the same time hoping that you may be long spared to work for the welfare of the constituency you represent, and for the benefit of the people at large."

SIR R. McBRIDE DIES IN LONDON

Former Premier of British Columbia Passed Away at Six o'clock Sunday Morning.

MADAM, YOU HAVE DECEIVED ME

PREMIER TO MAKE ANOTHER EFFORT TO FORM UNION GOV'T

Sir Robert Borden Tells Members of Win-the-War Delegation That He Hopes to Succeed. Such a Government Will Receive Undivided Support of Best Elements in Country.

TORONTO.—Following an interview with Sir Robert Borden on Saturday, the members of the Toronto Win-the-War delegation handed out the following statement:

"The members of the delegation wish it to be known that they are entirely satisfied with the Prime Minister's reception of the views put before him. They were particularly impressed by the earnestness and sincerity of Sir Robert Borden's exposition of the steps he is taking to form a non partisan union Government. They are confident he will succeed and that such a Government will receive the undivided support of all the win-the-war element throughout the Dominion. Sir Robert convinced the delegation that, for constitutional reasons, it is now impracticable to avoid a general election. The delegation believes, therefore, that a nation-wide campaign of education must be at once launched, to demonstrate the essential unity of Canadians for the utmost prosecution of the war."

At the conference held in the morning the Premier made the following clear-cut statement to the members of the delegation:

"I hope that in the near future a Government may be formed, based upon a union of all persons without regard to party, race or creed, who believe that the struggle which we now wage is for the cause of liberty and justice, who believe that it concerns the world's destiny, and who are willing to join in a determined effort to throw the full power and strength of this Dominion into a supreme effort for the winning of this war."

The delegation included: Messrs. J. M. Godfrey, A. E. Ames, C. C. Start, W. C. Mikel, N. F. Davidson, Col. G.T. McCullough, F. B. Fetherstonhaugh, J.G. O'Donoghue, W. R. P. Parker, Aemelius Jarvis, Frank Wise, Arthur Hawkes and Col. W. R. Leonard, Mesdames Torrington, A. E. Goodeham, A. E. Stevens, Campbell MacIvor, C.M.R. Graham and H. C. Carpenter.

Election Not Wanted

Resolutions deploring an election in war time, recommending the equalization so far as possible of the burden of taxation, taking care that every soldier's vote is recorded if an election is held, better pay for officers and men, and a three months' furlough for the men of the first contingent were presented.

"It is with the greatest satisfaction," said Sir Robert Borden to the delegates, "that I have listened to the addresses with which I have been favored, and I congratulate you upon the labors of the convention which has recently assembled in Toronto. Canada could not have reached the achievement of the past three years if the heart of her people had not been profoundly stirred. You happen to present these resolutions on the anniversary of the day on which this world-wide struggle began three years ago. Then there were none who imagined that it could last one-half the time that has since elapsed. As the conflict proceeded it became more and more evident that the full strength and power of our Imperial Commonwealth, throughout all its constituent nations, must be thrown into the balance if victory was to be assured. It became evident also that minor issues and party differences must be laid aside in order that our supreme effort might be gathered and exerted.

Responsibilities are Great

"The responsibilities entailed upon the leader of a Government in a country such as ours and under the conditions which have prevailed during the past three years are extremely onerous; more so than could be realized by anyone who has not striven to fulfil them. But, however severe and even overpowering, they must be fulfilled to the full limit of one's strength and capacity. Like the men in the trenches, a Minister under such conditions must remain at his post until he is granted an honorable discharge.

"And he must not shrink from his duty, however stern it may be; his appointed task must be performed without regard to aught save the need of the hour for the safety of the state. It is not an agreeable duty to summon the splendid youth and manhood of our country by the hundred thousand to take up arms, to undergo untold hardship and suffering, to make perchance the supreme sacrifice. Still more would one shrink from the necessity of enforcing military service save for the utmost need. But no state can endure, no nation can survive unless its people are prepared to fight for their existence when that need does arise, and in my judgment it has never been more manifest in the world's history than at this moment.

Must Forget Differences

"It has become more and more apparent during recent months that party differences must be sunk and all forces united in efforts to win the war. I hope that in the near future a government may be formed based upon a union of all persons, irrespective of party, race or creed, who believe that the struggle that we now wage is for the cause of liberty and justice, who realizes that it involves the destiny of our Dominion, of this Empire and even of the world.

"Mere profession is hollow and futile it is my desire, therefore, that not only shall both political parties be fully and fairly represented in the Government, but that it shall also include special representation of the great agricultural interests and of labor. You have my pledge that no future effort shall be wanting to consummate this great purpose."

SOLDIER BROTHERS MEET IN FRANCE

Lieut. James Leightizer, 98th Siege Battery and his brother B-Sergt. Major John Leightizer of the Expert Railway Operating Battalion

Those who followed the field of sport here some ten years ago or so will remember John Leightizer (Big Jack) and his younger brother James.

They were the stars on the Abegweit football team when it toured the Maritime Provinces clearing up victories in every town. "Jim" added to his other abilities unusual speed as a cyclist and played with the "Abbie" hockey team when that organization was the chief game-winning amateur septette in the Provinces.

Both have been members of the famous 4th Regt. C. A. "Big Jack" was Sergt. Instructor for several years while "Jim" was one of the most popular company Sergeants the Regiment ever had.

Now both are playing at the Big Game of war in France and making a record there as they have in all their efforts. James left Charlottetown with the 2nd (now 98th) Siege Battery, acting as Sergt.-Major. Later in England he was promoted to a Lieutenancy and has been in France for over a year.

John through family ties, could not enlist as early as he wanted to, but left for England last spring with the Expert Operating Battalion of the Canadian Railway Division, among his fellow-soldiers being some of the best railway men in Moncton and the Montreal Angus Shops. He had less than a week in England before his detachment was detailed to France.

A few weeks ago both boys met in a small town in France, where the above photograph was taken.
