He saw me descending the stairs, and apparently took me to be one of the officers coming off watch. At any rate, he stepped back into the cabin and stood there, waiting to give me room. The passage was not more than fifteen or sixteen feet long, and as I approached him I smelled again that rancid, musky odor—the body smell, as I afterward discovered, of the savage, black or red—which had overwhelmed my nostrils just before I was pitched over the side.

"Twas that decided me. I took a firm grip on my improvised club and stepping into the pool of light in the main cabin, swung square around, face to face with Tom. He threw up both hands and staggered back with a wild scream of terror, eyes popping from his ashen-grey face.

I gave him no time for recovery, but brought down the iron-tipped end of the handbar with all my force against his skull. The blow would have killed any save a black man. I meant to kill him. As it was he dropped like a slaughtered ox, and lay in a crumpled heap of tawny finery on the floor.

Doors banged in the passage, and I stepped to one side, setting my back to the bulkhead, the while I fastened my eyes upon the startled what we undertake to do. Is any fate too hard for him? Why should you concern yourself?"

"Then there has been fighting?" she asked.

"I could stand it no longer. 'Fighting!' I snapped. 'And, if you call assassination fighting. An attack in the dark upon an unarmed man, throwing him over-board to drown as you might a blind puppy, never a chance for his life!'"

"Yet you are here, sir?" she said quietly.

"'Tis only by the intervention of Providence that I was saved—or the untidiness of our captain, who left a rope trailing over the side. God hath protected me against your father's—"

"My father?" she repeated questioningly.

"Well, what is he?" I returned cuttingly. "Mayhap you have some pet name for a parent who practices assassination. Did not you yourself say Tom never acts without orders?"

"But—"

"And furthermore, if this case is not enough, let me tell you that this man here—I pointed to Murray; for some reason I disliked to call him my father, even in wrath—set a gang of ruffians to murder a friend of mine in London."

Murray rose from his seat behind the table.

"Your proof, sir?" he said coolly.

"Proof?" I answered weakly.

"Why, I was there!"

"Aye, sir," he rejoined with dignity. "But your proof that I hired assassins? Could you prove before the captain or any court of law?"

"I saw the twinkle in his eyes and knew that he was playing with me."

"No," I said shortly; "I could not prove it. I have no witnesses."

"And yet you could not even go

"There goes another thoroughbred"

THOROUGHBREDS have both beauty and peace of mind and certainly the 1931 Pontiac Six qualifies on these counts!

This fine car has the sleek grace of a blooded horse. Indeed it has a beauty and luxury much greater than its low price implies.

Large, spacious Fisher Bodies are tastefully upholstered in rich fabrics. They are carefully insulated against cold and noise. Rubber insulation at 43 chassis points smother noise and vibration, and eliminates many bothersome points of lubrication.

As an instance of added value, note also that the 1931 Pontiac has 5 wire wheels as standard equipment on all regular models without extra cost. You will also find Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers on all four wheels.

Then too, you will discover the 1931 Pontiac Six, easy and comfortable to drive. It's a real thoroughbred, easy to manage, eager to obey. The famous 60 horsepower motor has speed for acceleration and speed for steady going. . . and either kind comes easily, quietly and economically.

Put this car through its paces yourself. We will gladly furnish a car for you to drive. Consider its value. . . a General Motors value, easy to buy through GMAC, General Motors' own, time payment plan, and with complete and continued satisfaction pledged by the General Motors Owner Service Policy.

Nostrils tainted by Catarrh Quickly Spread disease

If your nose is unclean, or even tainted with the germs that cause colds and catarrh, you are likely to spread diseased conditions to other members of your family.

Most colds start in the nose. Stop them in the nose and you avoid lots of trouble later on. The most effective disinfectant is the healing vapor of Catarrhzone.

The medicated vapors of Catarrhzone spread a thin film of healing oils over the entire breathing apparatus; it cleans away nasty discharges, stops spitting and sneezing, does away with headache, coughing, throat trouble and catarrh. To prevent winter ills, stop the nose and throat, use Catarrhzone. Complete outfit for one dollar. Smaller size 50c.
