ACTION APLENTY IN STARRETT HIT

Charles Starrett, Dub Taylor, Julie Duncan and Jimmy Wakely and his Saddle Pals will once again ride, shoot and sing their way across the screen of the Empire Theatre in Columbia's "Cowboy In The Clouds" opening tonight.

Starrett is starred in the role of Steve Kendall, ranch boss who goes to the aid of the Civil Air Patrol under fire from the richest man in the state. The story carries Steve and his friends through the dangers of thundering hoofs, gunfire, thrilling airplane exploits and the menace of a roaring forest fire.

Written by Elizabeth Beecher, it is a most unusual plot for a western. In addition to the two-fisted men of the plains riding hard and shooting straight, they roar through the clouds. Western fans have not encountered as engrossing and thriling a film in many a day.

Ben Kline directed "Cowboy In The Clouds." Jack Fier produced it.

McBRIDE - WESTHAVER WEDDING — A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. John the Baptist Glebe, Armdale, N. S., on Nov. 15, when Lilian Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Westhaver, Halifax, N.S., and Joseph Gerald, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McBride, Cape Traverse, P.E.I., were united in marriage by Rev. Father Martin. The bride looked very charming in a floor length gown of white chiffon and shoulder length veil and carried a white prayer book. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Preston Champion of Travellers Rest. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous buffet supper was served to 150 guests. The dining-room was tastefully decorated in pink and white streamers. Previous to her marriage the bride was given a shower by her girl friends, when she received many beautiful gifts. The happy young couple will reside in Halifax, N.S.

PRESENTATION AT NORTH RIVER—On Friday evening members of the Women's Missionary Society of Fairview Baptist Church met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Todd for a social evening and presentation. On behalf of the Society Mrs. Amassa Horne, the secretary, read an address of appreciation to the Pastor and Mrs. Todd for their services to the Church and congregation at Fairview during the four years of their present ministry to that church. Mrs. William Nunn, the President of the Society for many years, then presented Mr. and Mrs. Todd with a beautifully autographed quilt, to which they responded briefly but most appreciatively expressing at the same time their regrets that many more of the people of Fairview could not be present on this happy occasion. Following a singsong and social time together, the joyous event was brought to a close with mutual well-wishes to all who had assembled for the occasion.

Disposition Of Draftees

OTTAWA, Nov. 25 — (CP) — The Sept. 30 disposition of 16,000 operational Home Defence infantry from which most of the 16,000 men likely will be drawn for the overseas reinforcement stream under the government's partial conscription policy showed that Pacific command had the most—17,900—and Quebec the least—200.

Figures released today by wartime information board's publication "Canada at war" showed there was a total of 22,000 draftees of this category in Canada and 3,800 in "adjacent territories"—in operational units.

Besides the total mentioned as being in the Pacific command and Quebec there were 4,700 in the Maritimes, 2,200 in the Prairies and 1,500 in Ontario.

A comprehensive W.I.B. table broke down the effective draftee strength of 60,000 and showed the various stages of training of the total infantry potential of 42,000 men.

The table showed the districts where the men were serving Sept. 30 and not where they were enrolled. The figures were not adjusted for Quebec and Ontario military districts that overlapped in each province.

Tomorrow is Forever
by Gwen Bristow

Dick swallowed and wet his lips. He had heard stories like this before, but hitherto they had been something that happened to people who had the far-off quality of anonymity. Hearing it reported as a matter of course by a little girl in his own home town was something else again. He looked at Kessler, and back at Margaret Cherry who had sat down on top of the ladder, was looking at Kessler too, as though they both wanted him to say it hadn't really happened like this.

"Come here, Margaret," said Kessler gently.

She went to him, and he put his arm around her.

"It was dif... in Germany," said Kessler. "But we aren't afraid anymore."

She looked up at him artlessly. "Oh no, of course not. Not here."

"Nobody does things like that here," said Kessler. "There aren't any Nazis in America."

"Oh no," Margaret said again. She laughed at a recollection. "When we first came here," she said to the others, "I was scared of the men in uniform. But they were just policemen and soldiers. They didn't bother anybody."

"No, everybody is safe here," Kessler went on. "Nobody comes into a house without being asked. If they want to come in they ring the bell, and if you tell them not to come in they stay outside. Nobody is scared in the United States. Margaret used to be scared, but she isn't any more."

"It's different here," said Margaret.

"And your supper is getting cold," Kessler suggested. "You'd better go eat it."

"All right."

"And aren't you going to thank Mrs. Herlong and Dick and Cherry for helping you with the tree?"

"Oh yes! It's just wonderful. Thany you so much."

"We're glad we could help," said Elizabeth. She took Margaret's hand and went with her into the dining room where her supper was ready. Margaret started to eat with a healthy appetite, evidently not appalled by the story she had told. When Elizabeth returned to the front room Dick was still standing by the tree and Cherry still sat on the ladder, apparently too horrified to move. Kessler was speaking to them.

"If it seems cruel to let her go on talking, it's less cruel than making her shut it up inside herself. I thought it was easier on you to listen than it would have been on her if I had told her to stop."

"But what sort of cattle are they?" Dick exclaimed. "We hear a lot of things about them, cruel, and vicious and all that, but not just going around kicking little girls."

"I told your mother once," said Kessler, "that your only fault was that you didn't realize how superior you were to your neighbors."

"To my neighbors? But I don't know anybody like that."

"No, you don't know anybody like that."

"Good Lord," said Dick. He went over to another side of the room and sat down.

"Why did they kill her parents?" Cherry asked breathlessly.

"They didn't. Her parents killed themselves."

"Ah!" Cherry let her breath go audibly.

"Margaret thinks the Nazis killed them. They killed so many others I haven't tried to tell her any differently. She doesn't understand suicide."

"But why?" exclaimed Cherry. Then she added apologetically, "I'm sorry, I guess it's none of my business."

"There's no reason why you shouldn't know," Kessler answered. He glanced at Elizabeth. "Shall I go on, Mrs. Herlong?"

"Yes, if you can bear it. After all, Mr Kessler, we've heard it before. It's been in the papers and on the radio."

Cherry said what they had all been thinking. "But it's different when it happens to somebody you know. You mean it happened to Margaret's family like what we read about?"

"Why yes, the same old story," Kessler answered. "She and her mother were shoved off the sidewalk, she didnt have enough to eat and even when her parents went without there wasn't enough for her, they saw other children beaten and starved and knew there was nothing else in store for Margaret. Their old friends crossed the street when they saw Margaret's parents coming because they were afraid to be seen speaking to the Jews. They tried and tried to get away and every door was shut against them. They stood it as long as they could. They were a brave and gallant pair. But that day Margaret told you about, her mother's spirit broke. She tried to kill Margaret, and she succeeded with herself. She was a doctor and there were still a few drugs in the house. The only reason she didn't succeed with Margaret was that she wanted the child's death to be quick and easy, and she gave her too much."

Cherry was staring at him, unconscious that there were tears in her wide-stretched eyes.

"And her father?" Dick blurted.

"He and I came in together. We had been out to buy food. We had to stand in line to buy it, and I tried to help him, because as I am not Jewish things were easier for me. But I can't stand in line very long, or carry any parcels except what I can put in my pockets. We used to do the buying, it was too frightful for Margaret and her mother on the street. When we came in we thought they were both dead. We knew the house had been searched because it was in such disorder. Jacoby, Margaret's father knew they would come back for him. With Margaret and her mother gone he had no more reason to keep trying. He was like an insane man. He had no gun— they had taken that long before—so he stepped out of the window."

Answeer to a Question

(The following verses which appeared in the Canadian army paper The Maple Leaf, published in Italy, has been sent to relatives here by Trooper Clarence Arsenault, City.)

You, who have never heard the sound of shells,
Have never trembled from a mortar bursting close
Have never seen your friends lie mangled, dead,
Nor fought beside them when they went to meet their God.
You know not what it means to live in winter
Crouched in a burrow scraped from oozing mud,
Nor yet, to stand and say farewell
To a friend who faced death with a smile.

The flares at night, the diving planes,
The awful tearing sound that chills the spine,
You know them not, nor have you seen
Men rise to heights which you will never gain.
You, who have never sailed in a fighting ship
And manned her guns in heat and freezing cold,
Or flown through hell, while friends on either side
Plummet to earth, a blazing ball of fire.

You ask us what we think of men like you?
Who stand apart, content to serve at home,
Cov'ring your shrinking souls with Hero's garb,
While girls in England died beside their guns.
Have you forgotten Singapore where British girls
Choose to stay and tend the wounded men?
Where are they now, and where, we ask
Are your brothers, cousins, friends who heard the call.

What do we think? The answer's plain,
We, who have known these things which you do not,
Pity you, each one of you afraid
To take your rightful place with fighting men.
You'll never know the pride men feel
Who come through hell and live to tell the tale,
That brotherhood, sharing every joy and pain,
Founded on common danger and pride of work well done.

We see the crosses standing stark and think
Of friends who lie beneath the winter sky.
We ask, how can our home breed such as you
And call you men, while heroes gladly die?
The men who fight don't want your kind.
We'll finish this with what we have.
Five years of war, and yet you waver still!
Be not afraid, stay home, we'll carry on—alone!

Pilots Ass'n May Extend Organization

MONTREAL, Nov. 27 — (CP) — The Canadian air lines pilots association probably will extend its scope to permit radio men, ground personnel and stewardesses to join the association, it was announced today following a meeting under President R.E. Hadfield of Montreal.

The Association has a working agreement with Canadian Pacific Air Lines and has submitted to local branches the draft of an agreement it intends to ask Trans-Canada Air Lines to discuss.

Under the proposed expansion, the constitution and by-laws of the association would be amended—if found necessary—to permit entry of air personnel other than pilots. Those joining from other categories would form distinct sections, subject to the control of the association which would make representations to air transport companies on their behalf.

Capt. Hadfield said that one group wishing to join the association were already members of another organization and that in order to do away with any jurisdictional dispute, they would have to obtain permission from the body to which they belong at present. He did not identify the group.

And whereas it has now become necessary, in order to ensure provision of adequate reserves to meet requirements for the reinforcement of the Canadian forces fighting in Europe and in the Mediterranean, to extend the locality of service of certain personnel who have been called out for training, service or duty, pursuant to the provisions of the National Resources Mobilization Act, 1940.

A Moot Question

Rev. E.G. Hansell (SC —McLeod) asked in the Commons if Col. J.L. Ralston's resignation as Defence Minister would have been necessary had the order-in-council making 16,000 draftees available for overseas service been passed earlier.

Prime Minister MacKenzie King rreplied that if the Government had attempted to do a month or two ago what it had done today, "I venture to say that its action would have frustrated the ability of the Defence Department to give to the other side the reinforcements needed at the time they were needed.

"There are some things that can be done at one time which cannot be done at another," he said.

(Col. Ralston resigned Nov. 1st. after failing to have the cabinet approve his recommendation that Home Defence Army troops be made available for service overseas.)

Mr. Hansell said Canada had the right to know the answer to his question.

Ralston's Reaction

Col. Ralston wore a broad smile when asked for an opinion on the scope of the order, but he explained he preferred to express his views on the floor of the Commons.

War Services Minister LaFleche said he would continue his campaign for voluntary enlistments.

Transport Minister Michaud said: "I'm sticking with the chief."

Private Liberal members from Quebec riding appeared disappointed.

"I shall never be able to be elected as a Liberal in my riding," said Vincent Dupuis, who represents Chambly-Rouville.

Fearful Record of Nazi Atrocities

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — (AP) —The war refugee board—three members of President Roosevelt's cabinet—sponsored today a 25,000-word detailed report of brutal cruelty and murder by the million in German extermination camps.

Said the board comprising state secretary Hull, treasury secretary Morgenthau and war secretary Stimson:

"The board has every reason to believe that these reports present a true picture of the frightful happenings in these camps"

The report consisted of two eyewitness accounts of life in the Nazi camps at Auschwitz and Birkenau in southwestern Poland, prepared independently but almost precisely parallel.

Each included an estimate that more than 1,500,000 Jews from various European countries were gassed and their bodies cremated at Birkenau alone between April, 1942, and April, 1944.

British Disapprove Of Italian Count

ROME, Nov. 28 — (AP) —Count Carlo Sforza, on whom British Ambassador Sir Noel Charles reportedly has turned thumbs down as either Premier or Foreign Minister of Italy because of "political unreliability," resigned tonight from chairmanship of the six-party conferences which have been seeking solution to Italy's cabinet crisis.

British disapproval of Sforza is a major obstacle in the settlement of the government crisis which led two days ago to the resignation of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi and his cabinet.

FERTILIZER FACTS

In the following table, we make an endeavour to show the plant food content of various Mixed Fertilizers and to indicate the relation in quantities of the materials from which they are made.

Formula	Units Plant Food in one ton	Price per ton ex our Factory	Pounds Materials That Will Make One Ton
			Sulphate of Ammonia 20%	Super-Phosphate 20%	Muriate of Potash 60%	Other Materials Sometimes called filler	Total Pounds
2-12-6	20	$29.00	200	1200	200	400	2000
3-15-6	24	33.50	300	1500	200	None	2000
4-8-10	22	32.40	400	800	334	466	2000
5-10-10	25	36.00	500	1000	334	166	2000
4-12-6	22	32.75	400	1200	200	200	2000

2-12-6 and 3-15-6 are largely used for similar crops — Grain, Hay, Turnips and Pastures. The latter contains more plant food and less "other materials", resulting in a lower cost per unit for the plant food.

4-8-10 and 5-10-10 are largely used for Potatoes. The latter contains more plant food and less "other materials", resulting in a lower cost per unit for the plant food.

4-12-6 is occasionally used for Potatoes. It is a good Grain, Hay and Pasture fertilizer on soils where grass and straw do not thrive.

We manufacture 2-12-6 only for specially placed orders.

We make 3-15-6 with 3% Borax at an extra cost of $3.00 per ton.

We make 4-8-10 and 5-10-10 with 1% soluble Magnesium Oxide at an extra cost of $1.00 per ton.

"Other materials" is usually Limestone, Sand, or a mixture of both. There is a limit to the quantity of Limestone that can be safely added to Mixed Fertilizers.

We can make prompt shipment of well cured Mixed Fertilizers, and would suggest your taking delivery as early as possible. THE LABOUR SITUATION IS STILL ACUTE AND WE MAY NOT BE ABLE TO GIVE YOU SATISFACTORY SERVICE IN THE SPRING.

The car shortage is also a matter for consideration and may prevent us from making shipments when needed.
