

Crown Withdraws Case Against Margaret McRae

The case of Richard Keefe, charged with retaining in his possession stolen goods...

On the suggestion of the court the case against Margaret McRae was withdrawn by the Crown...

Both cases were in connection with the break at the store of Mr. Even Campbell, North Wilshire on February 22 last...

The witness then went on to describe further the four barrel in the kitchen. There was a rolling pin in the barrel partly covered by the flour...

The person of Keefe was next searched and forty copper coins wrapped in a rag were found in his pockets...

Constable Swindell in searching outside had found near the door the lid of a tobacco caddy with the name of Ewen Campbell on it...

Following the search Richard Keefe was placed under arrest and brought to Charlottetown...

Margaret McRae, the next witness for the Crown, testified that she had been employed as housekeeper...

who had been working out at ordinary farm work, came home sometimes. For the two weeks previous to February 22 he was home off and on.

Under the new scale the city lights or a proportionate number of larger lights at no additional cost. It would mean about $1200.00 worth of extra current at no extra cost he informed the council.

A letter was read from the Exhibition Association asking that two Councilors be appointed to the advisory board of the association. Couns. McLeod and Hennessey were appointed.

Coun. Chandler announced that he was in touch with a man as a possible valuator of the Maritime Electric property in the city. He hoped that at the next meeting he would be in a position to inform the council what it would cost to have the valuation made.

Of other resolutions passed at the meeting one provided for the conveying of the deed of the gravel pit at Surrey to the Modern Paving Co. The property had been sold last year.

Cross examined by Mr. Bell, the witness stated that she was 30 years of age and a native of New Brunswick. She came to this province eight years ago and had worked various places at house work.

She had never been arrested or in trouble with the law before. After she had baked the bread on Friday the week-end, the package of tea found in the house had belonged to two weeks. She had had no conversation with Christopher on Saturday morning.

Constable Swindell told of going to the Keefe barn making the search. He had found the lid belonging to a caddy of tobacco. Richard Keefe claimed he had no knowledge of it and did not know how it got there.

He also told of the finding of the two sacks of goods covered in a pile of straw. The goods were produced in court. It would not have taken long to cover it, in his opinion. He also described finding the corn meal in the barrel in the stable.

It was covered with a layer of oats. On Saturday, before he arrested Richard, he had, before he went into the house to feed the cattle. He found a box of aspirin tablets on a shelf in the house that had not been there on Saturday or Sunday.

ITALY SEEKS Any Attack Upon France

At the worst, it can be said of us that we performed the burial rites for the Locarno pact. Locarno's death, however, must be ascribed to others.

Would Thresh Whole Problem Should Germany be formally invited to the meeting Friday will urge that a whole series of international incidents having to do with Locarno be taken into account, not merely Germany's action of Saturday.

There was unfeigned disappointment in the Wilhelmstrasse over Sarraut's sharp rejection of Hitler's peace offers. Officials here said the rejection was partly an "election manoeuvre."

In general, there were indications that Germany is undergoing something like a diplomatic hangover after two days of delicious jubilation following Reichsuehrer Hitler's violation of Locarno Saturday by sending troops into the Rhineland.

Several factors combined to dampen somewhat the enthusiasm of the weekend. One was Sarraut's speech. Another was the apparent disappointment of some of the Berlin star reporters of large dailies who had been rushed off to the Rhineland to witness the celebrations of the "liberated province."

They reported in part that the Rhenish people, while happy, were much worried about what might happen next.

A third damper consisted of reports from London and Rome that Premier Mussolini had notified the British government of his willingness to accept League negotiations to end the Ethiopian war one hour before Hitler spoke to the Reichstag.

Puzzled At Italy's Action Foreign Office officials here were puzzled over whether this means Mussolini is trying to re-enter the scene of the "liberated province" and Britain and thus aid in the enforcement of Germany.

While it is taken for granted some day soon Germany will announce she considers herself no longer bound by Versailles restrictions on international rivers, such as the Rhine, Danube, Elbe and Moselle, the British notification was made at this time.

Rumors regarding such an alleged notification apparently arose from a brief editorial comment in the newspaper National Zeitung of Essen, owned by General Goering, Minister of Air. This paper said yesterday the "restoration of the full sovereignty of the Reich," of course, also includes the abandonment of other existing discriminations of the Versailles treaty, such as the abolition of the international commission for large German rivers.

Immediately following the statement Eden left for Paris with Lord Halifax, Lord Privy Seal, for discussions with representatives of France, Italy and Belgium. From there he will proceed to Geneva for Friday's meeting of the League Council.

The real business before the House of Commons was debate on the government's immense re-armament scheme. But after Eden's statement it lacked vigor.

Prime Minister Baldwin saw no hope except in an agreement between France, Germany and Britain. Until that was secured, Europe would suffer periodic panic crises, he said.

Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition in Parliament, attacked the whole philosophy of the government's rearmament plan. He charged the government had done nothing to remove the causes of war.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the Opposition Liberals, challenged the government's defence white paper as vague and without frame-work.

"We are only asked to pay and pay with a blank cheque," he said.

FRANCE DESIRES (Continued from Page 1) The Chamber of Deputies tomorrow is expected to ask a vote of confidence for the official program.

Ministers said the Premier looked forward to a "bary" party difference in the face of the present international crisis.

French officials criticized the British declaration by Eden expressing a desire to negotiate new peace treaties with the Reichsuehrer. They contrasted the British vigor in demanding sanctions against Italy with Eden's proposal for discussion of the new pact with the German leader.

"Public opinion will not understand why treaties in Europe are not as important for Great Britain as those in Africa," officials said.

CONTESTATION DISALLOWED (C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) THREE RIVERS, Que., March 9. — Petition of contestation against election of Maurice Duplessis, K.C., as member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly for Three Rivers was declared irregular, illegal and null by Justice Noel Belleau in Superior Court today.

Justice Belleau declared the petitioner, Dr. Henri Lacroix, had not acted in the public interest in seeking to have the Conservative leader unseated and stated the Doctor was not qualified to introduce the petition.

Fire Chief Slept Through First Fire (C.P.—) "A Deep in the sleep," might well be the title of this little story.

John Andresen celebrated his election as chief of the volunteer fire brigade by sleeping through the first fire.

The station siren aroused the whole town but not the chief, just a block away. His wife, a night telephone operator on duty couldn't raise him either.
