Naturalized Canadian

Harry Oakes, a native of the State of Maine, discovered the Tough Oakes and Lake Shore Gold Mines near Kirkland Lake in 1912 after searching for gold in many parts of the world. He was naturalized as a Canadian in 1924 but left about 10 years later to make his home in the Bahamas.

In the West Indies colony he has contributed to several charities and in 1937 he donated $374,400 to St. George's Hospital in London.

The Duke of Kent, who will leave next autumn for his post as Governor-General of Australia, was gazetted rear admiral of the Royal Navy, major general of the army and air vice-marshal in the Royal Flying Corps.

Among civilians receiving knighthoods was Max Beerbohm, noted caricaturist and author of the novel Zuleika Dobson.

Seven officers of the fighting forces also were included in the list of knighthoods.

Sir Findlater Stewart, permanent under-secretary at the India Office, was made Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath.

Sir William Bartholomew, aide de camp to the King and officer commanding the North Command, is promoted to Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath.

Sir Edward Harding, permanent under-secretary at the Dominions Office, was made a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

INTERESTING ADDRESS BY DR. PATTERSON

University President Guest Speaker At Rotary Luncheon Yesterday.

Taking "liberty" as the theme of his address while speaking before the District Rotary Convention yesterday, Dr. F. W. Patterson, President of Acadia University, Wolfville, N. S., said that to maintain this "priceless heritage," individuals, world groups and nations must interpret the privilege to provide for the well-being of the whole.

Dr. Patterson discussed liberty from the standpoint of the individual, explaining how personality was created socially. The individual enjoyed unrestricted personal liberty until he infringed or came in contact with the liberties of others.

The University President showed that the word "liberty" had many interpretations and exemplified his contention with a number of illustrations covering the political, individual and national fields. He pointed out that in this "troubled world" liberty was the most important heritage and discussed its evolution which commenced from childhood.

He said it was not enough to live and it was not enough to live well, for society did not guarantee the existence of liberty until the state of living well with fellow men was achieved.

Work of organizations like international service clubs could arrest world catastrophies, he continued.

During the course of the luncheon delegates to the convention were favored by vocal selections by Miss Pearl Burns accompanied on the piano by Miss Lillian MacKenzie, vocal selections by Big Ben Hokea, King of the Hawaiian Guitar from Honolulu who is appearing nightly at the Hospital Bazaar. The singsong was led by Rotarian Reg March, Saint John, ably assisted by Rotarian George (Sir Echo) Finnlan, Fort Fairfield. Entertainment was under the direction of Rotarian Arthur Cooper, Charlottetown.

Tokyo

The Domei dispatch was dated from Taihoku, Formosa, whence the airplane departed at 8.15 a.m. bound for Tokyo by way of Swatow.

While "far outside British waters" and cruising at 5,000 feet altitude, the pilot was quoted as saying, a warship carrying a British flag and similar insignia painted on her sides, suddenly swung her anti-aircraft guns into action.

After the first shot the pilot began climbing and zig-zagging. He returned to Taihoku after escaping the shots.

While some Chinese gunboats are known to be equipped with anti-aircraft guns, Japanese naval sources said none had been sighted in South China waters for many months.

ector of Cable and Wireless, Limited, who was responsible for the reduced cable press rates between Empire countries, was made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. A similar honor was conferred upon Sir Robert Hodgson, former British agent to the Spanish Nationalist Government at Burgos during the civil war.

The two privy councillors named in the list are J. S Stuart, Conservative member of the House of Commons, and Herwald Ramsbotham whose selection as first commissioner of works to succeed the late Sir Philip Sassoon was announced yesterday.

Among the fighting services, knighthoods were given to:—

Vice-Admiral C. E. Kennedy-Purvis, president of the Royal Naval College at Greenwich; Vice-Admiral J. F. Somerville, Commander of the East Indies squadron; Vice-admiral P. T. Nicholls, medical director general of the navy, Lieut-General G. S. Williams officer commanding the eastern command;

Lieut.-General W. D. S. Brownrigg, military secretary to the War Ministry; Lieut.-General W. P. MacArthur, director general of the Army Medical Service and Air Marshal C. L. Courtney.

Among civilians receiving knighthoods or promotions in different orders ranking as knighthoods were S. J. Aubrey, chairman of the Committee of Lloyds; William Fraser, adviser to the War Office on Petroleum; W. W. Gibson, president of the council of the Law Society; R. E. Kelly, professor of surgery at Liverpool University, and Professor O. W. Richardson of the University of London.

Miler Enroute To The States

LONDON, June 7—Sydney Charles Wooderson, Britain's little distance runner, sailed for the United States aboard the Normandie today to run in "the mile of the century" at Princeton University June 17.

He carried a diary to "list my impressions", and was accompanied by his brother Stanley and trainer Albert Hill. An enthusiastic delegation from Covent Garden, where his family peddles vegetables, saw him off.

Wooderson, who now has run the mile, the three-quarters, the half and the 800 metres faster than anybody in the world, plans to do light sprinting and a great deal of walking around the Normandie's decks.

RECALL VISIT OF SOVEREIGN WHEN CADET

King George and Queen Elizabeth will be winding up their strenuous tour of Canada and the United States when they visit Prince Edward Island on June 14. But judging from old newspaper files dealing with the three-day visit of the King to Charlottetown aboard the H. M. S. Cumberland in 1913 as a cadet, his life was filled with activity even then.

Known at the time as H. R. H. Prince Albert, the young cadet was not excluded from the daily duties of his shipmates. Here is the schedule of a typical day in the life of the Sailor Prince:

7:30 to 8.00 A. M. flag signalling etc.
8.00 to 8:10, stand easy
8:10 to 8:30, gymnastics
8:30 to 8:55, breakfast
8:55 to 9.00, prayers
9:00 to 11.00, work
11:00 to 11:10, stand easy.
11:10 to 12.30, work.
12:30 to 1.30, dinner
1.30 to 3.30, work
3.30 to 3.45, tea.
3.45 to 6.00, shore leave when in port.
6.00 to 6.30, dress etc.
6.30 to 7.30, supper
7.30 to 9.00, work
9.00 to 9.30 work
9.00 to 9.30 stand easy
9.30, prayers and bed.

His work included practical engineering in addition to the usual instruction in seamanship and naval warfare.

The tulmultuous welcome planned for Their Majesties next week in Canada's smallest province will be different from the less demonstrative reception tendered Prince Albert 26 years ago.

Festivities on a large scale were not held during his visit because the court was still in mourning for the death of the Prince's uncle, King George of Greece, brother of the Queen Mother Alexandra.

A ball at Government House highlighted the entertainment but for the most part the Prince and his fellow officers participated in sport here. Cricket, football, fishing, tennis, and golf were the principle amusements.

It was recorded in the papers of the day the Prince made friends on all sides. He was "retiring in disposition but is amiable and genial and puts acquaintances at ease with his frank manner." At all times the present Sovereign wore his cadet uniform when on shore.

Reporters of the day did not miss much. Their stories included an incident that was not part of the official program. One observant newspaperman recorded that the King and three fellow cadets made their way back to the H. M. S. Cumberland after the Government ball carrying their dancing shoes in their hands. While waiting for the pinnace to come ashore for them the Prince took great interest in a dog fight on the wharf and did not leave until a man threw both dogs into the water, terminating the brawl.

And so the Sailor Prince will return to the garden province accompanied by his charming Royal Consort and a new generation of Islanders will be on hand to watch and record every move of their King and Queen.

ROTARIANS

and the presentations by Rotarian P. W. Turner of Island earthenware vases to Mrs. Alline, wife of the District Governor, and Mrs. W. J. Cairns, wife of the International Representative at the District Conference.

In acknowledging the presentation Governor Barrow said that he had been looking forward for a long time to a visit to Prince Edward Island and that now with the fulfillment of his desire both he and Mrs. Barrows had one of the finest and most enjoyable times of their lives and his only regret was that his visit was of such short duration. In closing he, on behalf of Mrs. Barrows and himself, thanked all for the lovely time they had had and expressed the hope that at some future date he would be privileged to welcome them to the State of Maine.

During the dinner Mrs. Charles Hunt of St. John's, Newfoundland, favored the audience with a beautifully rendered solo, 'Just A Song At Twilight."

Stoker Radburn of H.M.S Berwick was also heard in several solos and his fine voice made an instant hit with the gathering.

In opening his remarks Mr. Hunt, after expressing his pleasure at being privileged to be in attendance at the Conference, stated that it was not his purpose to delve into the fundamentals of Rotary. The speaker stated that it was a pleasure to greet the International representative of Rotary Mr. W. J. Cairns and he felt a deep sense of gratitude to Governor Barrows for the honor he has done the Conference in attending, expressing that all felt particularly honored by His Excellency's presence. The speaker also paid tribute to the work of District Governor Alline who had done splendid work despite a hard year, but in so doing had only lived up to what Rotarians knew he would do when he assumed his office.

District Governor Alline has seen the dream of an International District come true, and he urged all members to have faith in what Rotary can accomplish in these days of nationalism and autocracy. "We owe it to Rotary to put lots of work into it" the speaker said. He admired Rotary tremendously but if we doubted our own contribution it would be a difficult matter to advance world fellowship Rotary can do us good in the future as well as it had in the past", the speaker stated, "and fellowship established through it had brightened the lives of each one of us; Rotary had brought us priceless friendships, and taught us to think more and do more for those who are underprivileged and distressed," Mr. Hunt concluded.

At the ball following the dinner a highly entertaining floor show put on between the dances and arranged by Rotarian Arthur Cooper was successfully carried out and added much to the enjoyment of the evening's program.

Highlight of the "show" was a chorus, composed of 20 young ladies under the direction of Mrs. G. E Full who were heard in two opera selections. Solo parts were taken by Miss Vera Malcolm Campbell, Mrs. Bertram Patterson, Mrs. Frances Holl Trainor and Miss Margaret Stearns.

Other numbers on the program were a highland Fling by Miss Margaret McIntyre, tap dancing by Miss Mary Walsh, Miss Peggy Campbell and a tap dancing trio by three young girls. Mr. William Trainor in feminine impersonations was the recipient of several encores from the assemblage while Dr. Leonard Campbell entertained the audience highly with some mystifying tricks of magic.

Rotarian Wallie Scantlebury was seen in a spectacular, colorful exhibition of illuminated Indian Club swinging.

With addresses of welcome from Hon. B. W. LePage, President of the Executive Council, from Mayor Foster, and from George J. Tweedy, K.C., President of the Host Club, Prince Edward Island, the City of Charlottetown and local Rotarians greeted the visiting Rotarians from Maine, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland at the opening held in the Prince Edward Theatre of the 192nd District Conference yesterday morning.

Walter S. Grant, Conference chairman, presided at the opening session and after invocation by Rotarian Norville Luck, Y. M. C. A. secretary, and the singing of O Canada, The Ode to Newfoundland and America, the addresses of welcome were given.

His Excellency Lewis O. Barrows, Governor of Maine, replied eloquently to the addresses. Included in the business was the report of District Governor Alline and an address by William J. Cairns of Montreal, Past International Director. At one o'clock the luncheon was held in the Charlottetown Hotel, the speaker being Dr. Patterson, President of Acadia University, Wolfville.

The afternoon was free for the visitors to enjoy golf, auto drives, etc.

Morning Session

Chairman Grant after a few introductory remarks expressing his pleasure at seeing the Rotarians present then called upon Hon. B. W. LePage, who spoke as follows:

Welcome By Hon. B. W. LePage

Your Excellency, Your Worship, Mr. Chairman, District Governor and Fellow Rotarians:—

It affords me very great pleasure, on behalf of the Provincial Government, to extend to you a warm welcome to our Island Province. On two occasions we had the pleasure of entertaining the Rotary District Conference, but this is the first time since the enlargement of the Rotary District that we have been privileged to entertain a conference of an international character, and we are especially pleased to welcome the Rotarians from the neighboring republic. We greatly appreciate the courtesy of the District Governor in selecting the Charlottetown club as the host-club for this conference and in persuading the Governor of his state to honour the occasion with his presence. We are also pleased to extend a special welcome to the delegation from Newfoundland, which Island we would gladly welcome into the membership of the Maritime Provinces of Canada. Though the season has not brought to full perfection the charms of our Island, I would like to quote from the last McLean's Magazine, a statement found in a letter written by a settler here to a friend in England about 160 years ago. The letter contains this interesting sentence: "The beauty of this Island fascinates all who see it and it is a place where the heart feels at home." Its restfulness was recognized by the primitive settlers as shown in its Indian name of Abegweit, which means "resting on the wave." It may not be known, however, that this peacefulness was rudley disturbed in the summer of 1775, when two privateers from Boston entered the harbour here, ravaged the town and carried off as prisoners to General Washington Mr. Phillip Callbeck, the Attorney General who was acting as Governor, and George Wright, the Provincial Secretary. This act of piracy, however, was severely condemned by General Washington who immediately released the prisoners and made all restitution possible, while the captains were dismissed from their commands and never afterwards taken into the continental service. The courteous treatment by General Washington restored peaceful relations between the Island and the New Republic, which have continued ever since. Many of our sons and daughters have made their homes in the New England States and this week we all rejoice in the friendly relations shown by the historic visit of our King and Queen to that great country, and the hospitality with which they are being received is a manifestation of the Rotary principles of goodwill and international peace. In our Provincial Building was held in 1864 the first meeting of delegates from the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, whose deliberations later brought about the consummation of this great Dominion. I trust that you will have time to visit our Provincial Building and see the Confederation Chamber, with the original table, chairs, etc., which were occupied by the fathers of Confederation.

During your visit we trust that your program will permit you to visit our National Park and to observe its extensive bathing beaches which, unfortunately, you have come too early to enjoy, and that you may see something of the countryside and find that it is still a place where the heart may feel at home.

Address By Mayor Foster

His Worship Mayor Foster after extending a welcome to the delegates, stated that Charlottetown is fast becoming a city of conventions, and rightly so, as it has many features which contribute to the holding of the successful conventions. After enumerating these and giving a short history of the city, he said that it was one of the finest and most beautiful in Canada considering its size.

Address of Welcome by President George J. Tweedy

Your Excellency, Mr. Acting Premier, Your Worship, International Representative Cairns, District Governor Alline, Distinguished Guests and Rotarians:—

What more can be said to make you feel at home at this conference? You have been extended a welcome on behalf of the people of this Province by Honourable Rotarian Bradford W. LePage, who is acting in the unavoidable absence of the Premier. You have been given the freedom of the City by His Worship the Mayor, who was kinder in his remarks than was our Chief of Police, who said he was glad to extend the Rotarians the freedom of the city, but if they did not wish to get locked up we would have to sew their badges on them. However, the 61 members of the Charlottetown Rotary Club do wish me to extend to you on their behalf a really true and sincere Rotary welcome.

We have looked forward to this conference with a great deal of pleasure. It has meant a lot of hard work and planning, but it is worth while.

Particularly do I wish to extend our warmest greetings to His Excellency Governor Barrows, Governor of the State of Maine. While I stand here extending a welcome to the Governor of the State of Maine, your Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, who we all love and admire, and Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay are extending a welcome to our gracious Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth. It is just such exchanges of greetings as these that make for international peace and goodwill.

Your Excellency,

"If I knew you and you knew me,
And each of us could clearly see
And with an inner sight Divine
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we would differ less
And clasp our hands in friendliness;
Our thoughts would pleasantly agree
If I knew you and you knew me."

Particularly, too, do I welcome the Rotarians from that ancient, yet modern, colony of Newfoundland—ancient in historical traditions; modern in its methods of financing. We are always proud of the Rotarians and guests who come to our conference from Newfoundland. They are real fellows, and we always feel that they are having a good time whether they are or not.

May I say in closing that [illegible]

INCREASED ATTENDANCE AT BAZAAR

A large increase in attendance was noted at the City Hospital Bazaar last night as this annual entertainment completed its second night at the Market Building.

Once again the big feature of the evening was the singing of Big Ben Hokea of Honolulu, who was heard in several appearances and on each was forced to give several encores before being allowed to depart from the stage.

The various booths were again well patronized by old and young alike seeking to win one of the valuable prizes that are being offered nightly.

Last night's door prize was won by Miss Catherine O'Hanley while the drawing for the box of chocolates from the candy booth was won by Mr. J. Callaghan. Upper Queen Street.

An unexpected feature and one that proved enjoyable was the appearance of some of the men off H. M. S. Berwick who were heard in several delightful songs.

British King and Queen Enter U. S.

Niagara Falls, where king and queen of England receive official welcome to United States.

Welcomed by U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay and their wives, King George and Queen Elizabeth will set foot on United States soil today June 8, following an afternoon tour at Niagara Falls. After ceremonies on platform at Suspension Bridge station, the royal party will entrain for Washington.

members of the Charlottetown Rotary Club and their Rotary Annes have formed themselves into a fellowship committee to do everything in their power to make your stay here a pleasant and profitable one.

I thank you.

Reply by the Governor of Maine

His Excellency, Lewis O. Barrows, Governor of the State of Maine expressed appreciation of the warm greetings received from the local Rotarians. He referred to his personal visit of Lieutenant Governor DeBlois yesterday and regretted that he would be unable to attend the function in Government House this evening.

This was his first visit to Charlottetown and he was celebrating his birthday here.

The Mayor and he had both something in common, as both were druggists.

He referred to the tremendous potential possibilities of Rotary and the part it plays in all free countries.

He asked the Rotarians to rededicate themselves to the high principle of Rotary and in that way they can give an individual contribution which cannot be excelled.

He spoke of the visit of the King and Queen to the United States and stated that as Governor he had the honour of conveying an invitation from the Legislature of Maine to Their Majesties to visit that State and participate in celebrations to be held on the New Brunswick border in commemoration of a century of peace between New Brunswick and Maine. The invitation was forwarded through the Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, but the reply was that Their Majesties sincerely regret that they could not accept as the itinerary could not be rearranged.

Many people from Maine had gone to other parts of Canada to see the King and Queen and they expressed themselves as being charmed with the poise and graciousness of Their Majesties.

Introductions

Past District Governors introduced to the conference by District Governor Alline included George Spencer, Moncton; Charlie Burchell, Sydney; Walter S. Grant, Charlottetown; Charlie Hunt, St. John's, Newfoundland; George Smith, St. John; P. W. Turner, Charlottetown.

William J. Cairns, official representative to the conference from Rotary International was also introduced.

District Governor Alline in his report stated that he had had many experiences during his term of office. I have been upside down in an automobile and inside out in a steamship, he commented.

He told of visiting the 32 clubs in the district and of holding club assemblies and attending the club meetings at the various centres, travelling more than 5000 miles by water. I mention the water miles separately, he said, because I am the world's worst sailor.

The great reception he received at each and every club made him remember the advice he had received at a Rotary school, where they were told they must remember that the enthusiasm and almost worship with which they were received was not for the individual but for Rotary which they represented.

Good Work Done

While he had noted the distinct personalities of the various clubs visited, he had also noted one thing that was general in all of the clubs, and that led him to be completely amazed at the amount of good work which Rotary was doing in the centres in which they were established.

When we realize that our 32 clubs are only a part of the some 5000 clubs throughout the world, we can realize just what Rotary means to the civilized world. And when we mention that word "civilized" we have to realize that the boundaries of the civilized world have been restricted in recent years. It is up to Rotary to extend the boundaries, he urged.

Governor Alline stressed the need of extension of clubs and the extension of service within the clubs.

There had been a gain of 19 members in the 32 clubs in the district in the past ten months and the total membership was now 1190.

Had Biggest Gain

Calais, Maine, had shown the largest percentage of gain and St. John's had shown the largest number of new members.

Ninety per cent of the clubs he believed, could still enlarge their membership with men whom they want in their clubs, and who can do the clubs a lot of good. There were no new clubs reported for the past year but some ground work had been done and he felt sure that some 6 or 8 clubs could be established in the next year or so.

Mr. Alline read a letter from George C. Hager, President of Rotary International, which contained best wishes for the success of the conference and the district generally.

William J. Cairns, Montreal, who spoke as the official representative of Rotary International, laughingly remarked that he had heard "a great deal about the beautiful summer weather you have here on the Island and then I came here Tuesday night." The Rotarians roared with laughter at the quip and laughed again when Mr. Cairns added "but it is all right, I am having a good time."

He recalled the organization of the District two years ago and the sportsmanship of the Maine clubs in agreeing to looping off such a large portion of what was then the District of Maine.

Answering his own question of what is Rotary, Mr. Cairns said it is these intangible things which we cannot describe that go the deepest in our lives and from which we draw our deepest experiences. Rotary is like that, he observed. It is an organization which has grown and which has shown strength in many respects.

Apparent Looseness

People who always want to analyze things and put them down on paper have been puzzled about the very looseness of Rotary. We have no ritual, no secret work and, so far as I know, there is nothing to prevent an outsider coming in and sitting down to our meetings, and yet this apparent looseness is one of the things which tends to bind us together as it had been said with bands "though they are as silk are as strong as steel."

There are many men who have been benefitted and uplifted, through their association with Rotary. When there are so many things with which we come in contact from day to day that tend to hurt and drag us down, isn't it important that we tend to grasp anything which tends to uplift and to help us? Rotary, he added, does that; it is a philosophy of life which the world needs as it never did before.

It has made us better, more helpful, more thoughtful and better able to serve, willing to help make our community worth while. These are the common things in life—they don't make headlines in our newspapers—which Rotary has taken and glorified.

The latest figures received showed that there were 4,945 clubs with 205,600 members throughout the world. 271 new clubs had been organized since July of last year, and it was significant that the last three years have seen its greatest period of growth.

Only 4.66 per cent of the total number of clubs organized had disbanded, and that included Germany, Italy and Austria where Rotary had been discontinued. I regret that this had to happen in those countries, he observed, because we were learning many fine things about their people and I know that it was a great regret to them when they had to sever their connections with Rotary.

In closing he appealed to clubs now organized to help inaugurate clubs in other centres which were now without the benefits of Rotary. It would, in the days to come, he believed, have a great influence on the negotiations between countries, even though Rotary as an organization would not be apparent in the diplomatic negotiations.

Urge National Employment Commission

(By The Canadian Press)

SACKVILLE, N. B., June 7—A resolution urging the Federal Government to set up a national employment commission was presented to the Maritime Conference of the United Church today by its committee on industrial relations.

The resolution was:

"We believe that widespread unemployment is the most pressing domestic problem of our government today. We deplore the blighting effects of this unemployment as we visualize its ravages upon the welfare and happiness of so many thousands of our fellow Canadians. It impoverishes countless homes and deprives families, including children, of the primary rights, privileges, and opportunities which should rightly be theirs. It destroys the morale of our citizenry. It blights the hopes of young people. It is a breeder of dangerous social and national unrest, and promotes indolence and crime. Moreover, it negatives the work of the Christian Church whose gospel insists upon the sacredness of human personality and the great principle of brotherhood.

"We deplore the defeatist attitude that treats enforced idleness on such a vast scale as inevitable. We believe that the time has come when all those charged with the responsibility of leadership in state and church should unite their efforts to solve this problem now so acute and so fraught with danger to the welfare of our people and nation.

"We therefore urge that the Federal Government set up a national employment commission representing all political parties and the best brains available in Canada to study the cause of unemployment, to draw plans for a permanent solution of the problem, to advise parliament on necessary legislation, and to supervise the operation of such legislation."

The secretary was requested to send a copy to federal authorities.

18 CONVICTED

LUNENBURG, N. S., June 7—(CP)—Ernest Spidel, 32, of Mahone Bay, N.S., was convicted in Supreme Court today of attempting to poison Mrs. Bertha Eisenhauver of that town. Crown evidence at the trial was that Spidel had forced the woman to drink a white liquid mixed with rum after he failed to obtain employment from her husband.
