Has Solution For Weed Crop

ROOK HILLE, S. C., Aug 30.—At last a solution for your surplus weed crop—cross the weeds with tomatoes.

Wyly Bigger, of the Government experimental station at Sand Hill near Columbia, exhibited evidence of the grafting here.

He showed a jumpson weed with several healthy tomatoes growing on the same stem with a horny jumpson burr.

The two plants were grafted early this summer.

Woman Growing Her Third Teeth

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Aug 30.—Mrs. J. W. Stilwell, of Council Bluffs, is 56, but she's using a teething ring just as she did when a baby. Mrs. Stilwell is growing her third set of teeth. She already has eight brand new teeth in her lower jaw and the new teeth are painfully pushing their way through the upper gum—hence the teething ring.

FIRE LOSSES UP IN NOVA SCOTIA

HALIFAX, Aug. 30.—(C.P.)—The Nova Scotia Fire Marshal's report for the second quarter of 1933 shows a loss of $434,147, an increase of 30 percent as compared with the same period of 1932. There were 456 fires, four out of every five in dwellings. Sparks on wooden shingle roofs caused 196 of the total, or 42 percent. Defective or overheated chimneys and flues were responsible for 43 of the fires while matches and tobacco-smoking caused 50.

CAPUS, Aug. 29—The Fascist government's propaganda for large families has been extended to South Italy, where small ones are practically unknown.

To this end several relics of the Dea Matuta, the ancient Roman goddess of maternity, have been collected and put into a new wing of the old museum in this city.

The exhibits include relics of a temple to the deity which once stood near here, and a statue of the goddess herself, holding a dove in one hand and a pomegranate in another, symbols of fidelity and fertility. But the most curious part of the exhibition has come from the graves dug up in an ancient cemetery a few miles away, evidently votive offerings which were eventually buried with the mothers of families who lived there many centuries ago.

They are small, roughly carved statuettes of women with their babies on their knees. Those with more than four children, and a few have less, are shown with them on their arms, shoulders, and heads. Many of the hundred old statuettes show twelve children, those who died during infancy being head downwards. A dozen children seems to have been a fair average, then as now, for southern families. The babies are wrapped in swaddling clothes, exactly like those used by Italian women of the south today.

Woman Trusty Brings Saws Into Jail

HUGO, Okla., Aug 30.—A woman "trusty" is a paradox, not to say anathema in the eyes of the woe jailer.

Martha Wright, the "trusty" was sent to town on an errand, which she performed, and returned to the jail, all right. But, in addition to her "trusty" self, she brought six hacksaw blades.

Her fellow prisoners declined to tell where the saws were hidden and now are on bread and water diet. Officers said, however, they had found five of them.

Swastika Scare Stirred Toronto And Took Fright

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(C.P.)—Leaving in its wake three boys charged with unlawful assembly, and a tightening up of regulations on the various city beaches, Toronto's "Swastika" scare appears to have died down.

Originally formed late in July for the declared purpose of keeping "undesirables" away from the east end beaches the Swastika movement spread under the joint prods of publicity and opposition, culminating in a free for all fight at a city park when a group of youths flaunted a crudely made Swastika emblem and thousands of onlookers became involved.

Aroused over the trouble, the city fathers issued a stern order that appearance of the emblem, which has become associated with Jewish oppression through its adoption by Adolf Hitler, founder of the Nazis and leader of the German Government, would mean arrest and punishment.

Since that time the emblem, a luck charm the origin of which is shrouded in mystery, has disappeared from the city and the young men of the beaches who formed the first club, founded a new organization aimed at preventing dressing and undressing in public, careless throwing of picnic refuse on the sands and rowdy conduct. This organization also disbanded.

Trouble over the Swastika broke into public notice on Aug. 1, when a group of about 100 youths, affirming alliance with the swastika-flouting organization of the east end beaches, paraded an east end boardwalk singing an anti-Jewish song. A large group of Jewish young men marched to the Balmly Beach Canoe Clubhouse in protest. A dance at the clubhouse was halted by police and both groups sent home.

A few days later police were again hastily summoned to the beach when the rival groups again paraded and Swastika emblems were torn from a number of boys. The League for the Defence of Jewish Rights protested bitterly to the city hall and a conference was called by Mayor W. J. Stewart, at which the Swastika Club agreed to disband.

All appeared quiet, but suddenly on Wednesday, Aug. 17, a baseball game at Willowdale Park between teams composed of Jews and Gentiles, was broken up in wild disorder when a quilt on which the Swastika had been worked was saved. Like a spark to tinder the emblem set off fireworks. Scores were injured, five were removed to hospitals. Lead pipe, baseball bats, broom-handles and clubs were freely used. Police reserves were called out and long after midnight were still patrolling nearby lanes dispersing gangs.

Three arrests followed, Charles Boustead, 18, Jack Pippy, 17 and Earl Perrin, 21, being charged with unlawful assembly. They were alleged to be the ones who flaunted the Swastika, a black figure on a white background, precipitating the trouble. Twenty-two youths were questioned by police.

In one or two other points in the province abortive attempts were

TRUCK STRUCK BY TRAIN

What might well have been a more serious accident occurred at the railway crossing at Vernon River Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock when a truck owned and driven by Mr. Stirling MacLean, city, was struck by the train. The truck was partially over the crossing when the accident occurred, and was thrown about twenty-five feet by the impact. Though the driver escaped injury the truck was badly damaged. When a new wheel was placed on the vehicle it was able to proceed to Charlottetown under its own power. The train fortunately was travelling at a slow rate of speed when it struck the truck. The driver stated that he did not hear or see the train coming, although he had been driving at a moderate rate of speed.

Intelligent Mothers Could End Wars

NEW YORK, Aug 30.—Mrs. Annie Riley Hale, defeated opponent of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo in the last California Democratic primaries, believes women cause wars.

"Women are responsible for wars," Mrs. Hale asserted at a meeting yesterday commemorating the fifth anniversary of the signing of the Kellogg pact. "But one generation of intelligent mothers," she added, "who trained their sons to look for higher things, could end wars."

Dr. Sydney Strong, writer on international affairs and former Congressionalist minister in Chicago and Seattle, opposed Mrs. Hale's viewpoint and said that "the maintenance of peace depends upon the women."

made to bring the Swastika into the limelight. This was particularly noted in Kitchener, the former Berlin, where a prospective deportee named Otto Becker declared himself leader of the movement and called a meeting which was dispersed by police. Peterborough and Orillia were other points to report the raising of the emblem.

PUBLIC FORUM

This column is open for the discussion by correspondents of questions of interest. The Charlottetown Guardian does not necessarily endorse the opinions of correspondents.

APRECIATION

Sir,—May I express, through your columns, our very sincere appreciation of the superb hospitality and friendly welcome which has been given to us during our all too short visit to Charlottetown. I should like, on behalf of our whole party, to thank all our individual hosts and hostesses, who have indeed shown us what the word welcome means in Prince Edward Island, and, in particular, to mention Mr. H. R. Stewart, who organized such a perfect programme for us, and Mrs. Mathieson, as Regent of the I. O. D. E., who has shown such a kind interest in us.

It is hardly necessary for me to add that we feel deeply honoured by the attention paid to us by the Government, who gave a luncheon for us, and by the warm welcome extended towards us by the Acting Premier.

Finally, as we pass on our way to Quebec, may I assure all our friends in Charlottetown that we are carrying away the most happy memories of our time among them, and that we shall have glowing accounts of our visit to Charlottetown to relate to the twelve schools from which we come, on our return home. May also, Sir, thank you yourself for the courtesy you have shown us in your paper.

I am, Sir, etc., JOHN GUISE, (Director, School Empire Tour)

CATS ARE SAFE

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., August 30.—(C.P.)—Life will be a more pleasant proposition for cats of the future if John Paletti's experiments work out as he hopes. He is trying to develop a breed of dogs without the traditional hatred which now sends them in pursuit at the mere sight of a cat.

After three years of training, Paletti now has 20 dogs which may be trusted to walk past a cat with nothing more than a scornful sniff. And he hopes to be able to continue a strain that will under all circumstances exhibit a spirit of strict neutrality towards the feline kingdom.

Paletti is attempting to develop other qualities in his dogs. By careful training and judicious selection he has secured animals of rare sagacity, savage as any dog when ferocity is required, but at other times docile and obedient.

And they are rigid vegetarians. Paletti has gradually weaned his charges away from meats, feeding them only on fresh garden vegetables. Now they follow him around town in single file and pass through butcher shops without as much as a glance at the juicy cuts and bones displayed within easy reach.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

WHEREAS, the Dominion Government at the request of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League and others, set aside November eleventh as Remembrance Day, so that it would be possible to commemorate annually in a suitable manner the sacrifice of the million men of the Empire who laid down their lives during the Great War, and also make possible the giving of thanks for the blessings of peace, and WHEREAS in some places the objection is raised that this holiday not only comes too near to Thanksgiving Day, but also adds to an already too large number of holidays

DUKE OF GLOUCESTER FLYING SQUAD CHIEF

TIDWORTH, Eng., Aug. 30.—(G.P.)—The Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George, in the guise of a Flying Squad chief, performed the star "turn" at the daylight rehearsal of the Tidworth Tattoo, attended by several thousand school-children. The children cheered themselves hoarse when the Duke drove a racing car round the arena, chasing and finally capturing a car full of bandits. And not one of the children knew that the Duke was at the wheel, or even at the Tattoo at all.

The "turn" in which the Duke appears depicts Dick Turpin holding up the Royal Mail, and the modern Dick Turpin of the roads holding up a service station. There is a rush to the telephone—police whistles—a shriek from the Flying Squad cars—and here come the Duke of Gloucester (Chief Inspector of the Criminal Investigation Department) whizzing across the grass in a white car. Bump, bump. If he goes much faster he'll take off. The bandits haven't a hope, and after a feeble resistance they give in. Then comes retribution: the bandits are flogged by a warden and Dick Turpin is swung from a gibbet.

DELIGHTED WITH VISIT

"It is impossible for me to express," said Mr. John Guise, director of the tour, in reply, "with what eager enthusiasm we have come to visit you in the Maritime Provinces of this Dominion which was the first in development as well as in age.
