TWO FRIENDS RESCUED BY GIN PILLS

The Kidney and Bladder Remedy

Mr. Herbert Bauer, of Davisville, says he owes Gin Pills a debt of gratitude which he can never repay. He suffered for years with Bladder Trouble, and could not pass urine except by much straining which caused great pain.

Mr. Bauer sent for a free sample of Gin Pills. The first dose did him so much good that he ordered six boxes and began to take them regularly. A month's treatment completely cured him.

In high glee he called on his friend, Mr. Simpson, to tell the latter about his recovery and what a wonderful remedy Gin Pills proved to be. Mr. Simpson, at that time, was suffering intensely with his Kidneys. Gin Pills were promptly recommended and taken—with the gratifying result that both these good friends are well and happy men today.

Gin Pills are a special remedy for three special diseases—Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Troubles. For these, Gin Pills are sold with an absolute guarantee of prompt relief or money refunded. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Write National Drug & Chemical Co. Dept. P E Toronto, for free sample. 9

AN ITALIAN STORY.

The "Messaggero," of Rome, relates the following story: The bar of the Hotel Excelsior is patronized at night by many Americans and Englishmen, who play bridge and poker, and of late several young wealthy Italians joined the card parties there and indulged in gambling on a large scale, and for high stakes One night when the bar was unusually crowded and the gambling was in full swing, the door was burst open and a man rushed in.

"I am a police commissioner," he said, "and I order everybody to stand still."

The commissioner was accompanied by four detectives, who held the doors while he seized all the money lying on the tables as well as the markers and playing cards. Then he took the names and addresses of all the players, among whom were several diplomats and told them that they were under arrest.

Naturally the players were thunder struck and several of them appealed to the commissioner in the hope of preventing a scandal, which besides compromising many members of prominent families might lead to diplomatic complications. The commissioner was prevailed upon not to arrest the players, but he warned them that he would summon them to appear at the police station on the next day. He then left the bar accompanied by the four detectives, and carrying away the money, which it is reported amounted to about ten thousand dollars.

The managers of the hotel confirm the story that the bar was raided, but state that the commissioner was a bogus one and that the whole thing was a practical joke. The police gave a different version and suspect that the man was a swindler on the style of the celebrated Captain of Koepenick. The "Messaggero" concludes the story by hinting that the two versions are not convincing and that the police ought to find out the man who raided the bar, lest the suspicion arise that an effort is being made to hush the matter up.

ITALY HOPES FOR TARIFF CONCESSIONS FROM CANADA

ROME, May 2—In the Italian Chamber today, Premier Luzzatti, replying to a question on the subject of commercial negotiations with Canada, described described the difficulties which had been encountered in this matter, but hoped they would be disposed of on a basis of treatment being accorded to Italy equal to that enjoyed by France and the United States.

The Italian government might threaten retaliation by placing a duty on dried fish, but Premier Luzzatti earnestly hoped a settlement would be reached without resort to threats, but if this hope was not realized, Italy would join with Germany and Belgium, with which countries she had identical interests in regard to Canada. In conclusion, the Premier said the Italian representatives will leave for Canada as soon as a prompt and satisfactory settlement is in sight. (Loud cheers).

MUSIC IN THE CHURCHES.

(London Standard.)

In various parts of the country, but particularly in London and Birmingham, the repretory of church music has of recent years been enriched by compositions drawn from the great foreign masters. The "English Hymnal" made a great advance in this direction by freely borrowing a large numbrr of French Church melodies and of German chorales, both Catholic and Protestant. Of musically greater importance is the increasing use, especially during Lent, at St Paul's Cathedral, Westminister Abbey, Southward Cathedral, St Anne's, Soho, and a considerable number of other London churches, as well as at Birmingham Cathedral, of the works of such composers as Palestrina, Tallis, William Byrd, Vittoria, Allegri, and others. It must be admitted that the general standard of church music is higher than it was a few years ago. On the other hand, it may be doubted whether the due rendering of the ordinary portions of divine service—the chanting of the Psalms and the singing of the hymns—is sufficiently thought of. The pace of the chanting is commonly too rapid to be reverent; while the quick time adopted for hymn tunes—especially German chorals and old English and Scotch Psalmody—is ruinous to compositions which depend entirely for their effect on a grave and massive dignity of treatment.

"I've got a parrot that can sing 'Some Day,'" said Maud, proudly.

"That's nothing," replied Mabel; "I've got a canary that can sing now."—New York Herald.

THE SUMMER HAT.

(By Rene Mansfield.)

It took one rose to make the winter hat. It will take more than a dozen to make the smart spring and summer confection. A fashion that permitted a woman to close her eyes, drop a single blossom or bow or rosette on some corner of a rakish shape, stab the crown with a hatpin and sail forth correctly bonneted would be necessarily short-lived. "Off with their unadorned headgear!" roared the powers that be. Sotto voce: "It's bad for the trade." So all signs seem to indicate that we will stagger under the cartloads of blossoms before the end of summer. The advance styles show moderation in their use, as well as in the new shapes, however, and though one model had pink roses standing upright over the whole top of the crown, surrounded by a heavy hedge of white lilacs—all of which suggested watering cans and pruning shears—the most conservative woman should be able to find something to her liking.

New color schemes rather than new shapes are the novelties of the season. The Russian turban that has been, so popular during the winter will take a new lease of life, at least for the early spring, appearing in straw, maline and sometimes in silk, such as pongee, to match the costume. These are trimmed with flowers, sometimes in bunches at the side, sometimes having the whole top of the crown made solid of flowers. One striking turban of black net and a crown of this sort on which pink roses were used, the color being softened by a loose veiling of net caught in here and there with tam'o shanter effect.
