—RECOVERING.—Mrs. Russell McDonald of Commercial Cross, near Montague, is now almost completely recovered after having undergone a very serious operation. This is certainly welcome news to the people of Montague, for before assuming the title of "better half" Mrs. McDonald was one of the town's leading young ladies. This is also good news to the surrounding districts where both Mr. and Mrs. McDonald are well known.—J.

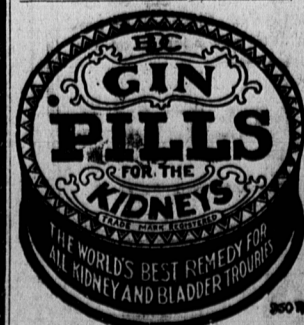

—HELPING THEIR CHURCH ALONG.—Judging from the many coming from Lower Montague, the people of that thriving farming locality apparently greatly appreciate the good turn which was done them by Mr. Duncan McDonald of Montague, or rightly speaking Promoter McDonald. About a year ago the Methodists and Presbyterians of this settlement united in the building of a church, which is known as the United Church of Lower Montague. The church was built, and like all other undertakings a balance was still due, to offset this indebtedness concert and pie social was held in the Lower Montague Hall some two weeks ago. After the musical part of the programme which was indeed a credit to the performers, the sale of the pies was to follow and as the door receipts were small, the financial end hinged wholly on the successful carrying out of this part of the programme. Fortunately for once the right man was in the right place for who should be present but Mr. McDonald whose vocal powers are a household word in this part of the province, and whose skill as an auctioneer is unsurpassed, especially when it comes to selling a pie, and more especially when it means pleasing the ladies. The result was most satisfactory, and a sum sufficient to hew the sharp edge of the indebtedness was realized. It is understood that the women of this settlement are vying with each other as to the hospitality Mr. McDonald will share when again he visits Lower Montague.—J.

PERSONALS

—The condition of Mrs. William Stewart of Montague is now reported as most satisfactory. Mrs. Stewart who was very ill with measles and other complications hopes to favor us with her genial presence in the course of a few days.—J.

—To see Mrs. James McLaren of Montague in church on Sunday evening last was indeed a treat, fully enjoyed by her numerous friends. Mrs. McLaren has been confined to the house ever since last fall, suffering from a sore knee, which at times was very painful. Her permanent recovery is now almost assured and we are in hopes that Mrs. McLaren will soon again be able to undertake her social obligations.—J.

ACTION STUFF
By Robert Welles Ritchie
THE SHERMAN HILL CACHE

I wonder what would be the sensation of the average trans-continental traveller if he should be told Utah's painted desert and so into that some time during the second night out from Chicago on the San Francisco Overland Limited he was and his men scattered. One of these fellows with $50,000 his share, turned off the bandit trail at the Union Pacific tracks near Rawlins and bore eastward the continent, where the railroad climbs to the highest point, is the Little town of Sherman, in Wyoming, with the Union Pacific serpentine down through it from Sherman Hill above. The fugitive paused at a trestle crossing—a deep gorge and at night he descended the precipitous walls of the channel and buried his gold and greenbacks at the foot of a great jack-pine towering upward toward the trestle. The bandit did not dare stay around the Wyoming country, for pursuit still threatened; so he drifted down to Texas. There he got himself caught in another bank robbery and was sentenced to spend the rest of his life in Huntsville penitentiary. Tuberculosis put its dreadful mark upon him. He knew that the gold under the big jack-pine away north in Wyoming would be his. But before he died he managed to smuggle out through underground prison channels a letter to a cousin who was employed in the plant of the Racine Wagon Company, in the Wisconsin town of that name. The letter told of the secret cache and included a diagram of the gulch and the pine's location there in. The man in Racine saved money enough to make the trip to Wyoming and, with his brother, dropped off the overland train at Sherman—this was fifteen years after the bank treasure had been planted. Greenhorns to the country, they did not fail to attract attention when they outfitted themselves with grub and shovels in Sherman and started with a pack animal along the railroad over the divide. A few old snoopers kept a casual eye on the train and eventually learned near Rawlins and bore eastward the trail and eventually learned. For they never could find that gulch spanned by a trestle. Good reason, too. In the interim, while the Union Pacific serpentine down through it from Sherman Hill above. The fugitive paused at a trestle crossing—a deep gorge and at night he descended the precipitous walls of the channel and buried his gold and greenbacks at the foot of a great jack-pine towering upward toward the trestle. Eye Examination

Exhaustive research has revealed that at least seven out of ten people need glasses but only three out of ten wear them. That means that about four out of every ten are in need of optical service.
It may be that you are one of the four. An examination of your eyes will readily determine the condition of your eyesight and we earnestly urge you to give serious consideration to the matter of having this examination made.

could not attempt to undermine every solid "fill" between Sherman Hill and the town, and when the story of their baffled hopes came to the ears of the division superintendent it left him cold, wherefore to this day every train over the Great Divide crosses also a pretty buried fortune destined never to be seen by man.
Do I believe this story, you ask? Absolutely. Every time I go up or down the Sherman Hill, I dream of gold and neat piles of green bills.

"King Cole" Preferred

A growing preference is expressed for KING COLE TEA. What other explanation could there be for its persistently increasing sale? Every year of the twelve that it has been before the public has marked its strong steady advance. A good long testing time—long enough to prove the merits and reveal the weakness of any article. Public confidence has been demonstrated in no uncertain way. The testing stage has been passed with honour.
