The Navy Needs Cooks---Now!

Twenty-one years of experience in navy cooking, Chief Cook Ernie Eison, R.C.N., of Victoria, is one of the principal instructors at the Royal Canadian Navy's cooking school at H.M.C.S. CORNWALLIS, largest naval training establishment in the British Empire. Here he is showing a group of cooking candidates how to fry steaks over a hot oil stove. His "pupils" are, left to right: Harry Watson, RCNVR, Black's Harbor, N.B.; John McLean, RCNVR, Cape Breton, N.S.; Lloyd Shaw, RCNVR, O'Leary, P.E.I. and Howard Pitney, RCNVR, Toronto.

The navy needs large number of men for duties as naval cooks. There are twenty RCNVR Divisions from coast to coast where enlistment may be made. See the Naval Recruiting Officer at the nearest Division.

THE RODDS

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

By E. S. D.

served by an assembly of all the nearby militia which also paraded on the square.

On April 8th 1833 Captain Ambrose Lane, on half pay of the 98th Regiment, was appointed sub-inspector and adjutant general of Prince Edward Island militia with the unattached rank of Lieutenant Colonel. The new adjutant general, replacing Colonel John F. Holland who had served in that office for over quarter of a century, made immediate and far-sweeping changes in the militia set-up. A militia order of November 20, 1833, as published in the Royal Gazette gave name and rank for every commissioned officer of that date. There were three troops of cavalry—one for each county; one detachment of artillery with headquarters at Charlottetown, and twelve regiments of infantry, five in Queen's, four in Prince and three in King's County. The first Queen's county Regiment of militia had headquarters at Charlottetown and the district covered comprised Charlottetown and Royalty, and townships number 29, 30, 31, 32 and 65. The major commanding was Francis Longworth, the same who had been second in command of the Prince Edward Volunteers twenty years previously. Major Longworth had with him two other officers from the old volunteers, Thomas Desbrisay, surgeon, and Capt. John Rodd, adjutant.

Objective for Each District in Queens County

As a means of stimulating interest and local pride in their community purchases of Victory Bonds Queen's County has been divided into districts and a definite quota alloted to each one This has been done not with the idea that one district shall enter into competition with another, but rather that they may achieve that thrill of accomplishment which comes when a given task is well done. It is the duty and obligation of each district to reach and pass the objective set for them, because after all the amount set is merely a minimum. For every twenty five per cent they reach in excess of the set figure they will be entitled to fly a special pennant. Progressive figures will be published showing the progress of each district during the campaign.

Chairmen and Salesmen the honor of your district is at stake, who will be the first to reach their objective.

Spring cleaning and fresh air go together. One sure way to keep the rooms fresh and airy is to take special care not to let strong cooking odors develop.

The home economists of the Agricultural Department have several suggestions on how to avoid unappetizing cooking odors. They say that overcooking or cooking at too high a temperature of the so-called strong flavored vegetables causes sulphur compounds in these vegetables to break down, and sulphur, as every one knows, has a strong and penetrating oder. But when properly cooked — just until tender and no more — cabbage and turnip can be counted on to have better.

The acid smell of fat on the fire is a warning of wrong cooking technique also. Fat should not be allowed to smoke because at the smoking point it begins to break down chemically and gives off an unpleasant odor as well as an unpleasant flavor to the foods cooked in it.

INVEST
INVASION

AS THE TEMPO of the war increases—as our fighting forces go all-out for invasion—we folks back home must mobilize in their support. Not only on every battle front, but on the home front, too, we all have our duties.

Everyone who possibly can should invest in at least one extra bond during the present drive. Buy another bond as your investment in the success of invasion.

This is the crucial year. Everyone must do his full share.
