WHOM DO YOU SERVE?

There are two atmospheres in which you may work, the atmosphere of trust and the atmosphere of worry. The atmosphere of trust is religious; the atmosphere of worry is worldly. Some are mastered by money; all they ask is, Will it pay? Some are devotees of dress; and are led about by a collar. Some serve society; and will follow anyone who can whistle loud enough. Some work by the day; a man on a piece of work had the hammer raised to hit when the whistle blew; he left the hammer in the air. A man who does no more than he is paid for will get paid for no more than he does. A man well when his own interests are at stake; the business is his own; his soul is in his work; he is impatient when the clock says stop. When a man starts to serve the Lord, too often he looks like it's drudgery. He wants to sit down and rest—flowery beds of ease have a fascination for him. When you take up the work, you are in for life not for loaf. You have just put hands to the plough; the harvest is not yet. The hours are short—the swift flight of the weaver's shuttle—the reward is eternal, and rich. Read Rom. 6: 16-18.
