STORE REPORTED BURGLARIZED - It was reported yesterday without definite confirmation however, that the store of Mr. Kier Clark at Kensington was burglarized Tuesday night. Few details were learned and Mr. Clark himself could not be reached for comment last night. Neither would the Mounted Police Detachment at Summerside make any statement.

It was believed, however, that a police investigation was underway. The loot taken was not learned but it was understood the sale in the store was involved but whether it had been rifled or not was not known.

LAND ON ICE, WALK A SHORE - As the result of having developed engine trouble an Avro Anson plane from the Summerside airport with four men aboard, was forced to land on a piece of ice close to the shore off Cape Trvon near New London light on the north side of the province. The occupants of the plane made their way to shore by jumping from ice floe to ice floe, suffering nothing more than getting their feet wet.

They left the plane on the ice and made their way eventually to Kensington coming thence by the evening train to Summerside, after reporting their accident. Later the plane slipped off the ice pan and now rests on bottom some distance out from shore. Since then action against the enemy with the help of the plane is being planned.

months has improved more than half as much again.

At the same time, the destructive power of the U-boat has undergone steady diminution since the beginning of the war. In the first year each operational U-boat sank an average of 12 ships; in the second year an average of 7.1-2, and in the third year an average of 5.1-2.

That Allied ships losses for the last two months were the lowest sustained in such a period for over a year.

It may be disappointing to Herr Hitler," he summed up, "to learn that we are on a rising tide of tonnage and not upon an ebb of shipwreck, but it is the governing fact of the situation. I take responsibility for assuring the House—and I have not misled them so far—that we shall be definitely back off as far as shipping is concerned at the end of 1943 than we are now.

Unless something entirely new and unexpected happens in this well-explored field, we shall be still better off by the end of 1944, assuming that the war continues that long."

On the subject of aid to Russia, Mr. Churchill reached the pitch of his eloquence.

Speaking of the Casablanca conference, he reiterated that Stalin had been unable to come because of the hourly demands upon him made by the great Russian offensives and reported that President Roosevelt had been willing to meet the Russian leader as far east as Khartoum in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan if that would be more suitable.

Although he (Stalin) was absent, the Prime Minister went on, "our duty to aid to the utmost in our power the magnificent, tremendous effort of Russia and to try to draw the enemy and the enemy air force from the Russian front was accepted as the first of our objectives once the problems of the U-boat war had been met in such a way as to enable us to act aggressively."

Make Enemy Bleed, Burn

And, again, it was mainly in saluting the Russians that Mr. Churchill made his memorable passage:

"We have to make the enemy burn and bleed in every way that is physically and reasonably possible, in the same way as he has been made to burn and bleed along the vast Russian front from the White Sea to the Black Sea."

Since the outbreak of the war and up to the end of 1942 Sweden has lost 166 merchant ships of 447,265 gross tons.

Recruiting Drive

Every woman who enlists today takes the place of a Category A or B man, Brig. Foster emphasized.

Lieut. Barbara Crosby, one of the first nine women soldiers in Military District No. 6, told of her experiences from the time she joined as a private in Sept. 1941 until she received her commission a few months ago.

Lieut. Crosby was the first C.W.A.C. from M.D. No. 6 to be posted for duty outside of Nova Scotia. She was sent to Washington, D.C. where she was secretary to the military attaché.

She had the privilege of attending Garden Parties at the British Embassy and of being among those entertained at tea by Lord and Lady Halifax. Field Marshal Sir John Dill, and had missed meeting Mrs. Roosevelt with an appointment with the dentist. She also met Jeanette MacDonald. From Washington she was posted to a Training Centre outside of Montreal where she formed friendships with girls from all over Canada who were stationed there.

From Montreal she was sent to Halifax where she was appointed Recruiting Officer for Military District No. 6. In the closing Lieut. Crosby made a stirring appeal to the girls in the audience to help swell the ranks of the C.W.A.C. and furnish the quota of 1500 required from this Military District. "P.E.I. has been asked for a lot in the past and has never fallen a man through and will not fall this time," Lieut. Crosby declared.

Brig. Foster's address

Brig. Foster's address emphasized that the struggle upon which the Empire embarked three and a half years ago, the scope of which we are just beginning to understand, is progressively changing our sense of values, our standard of living, our system of government, and the whole pattern of our national future.

Our domestic troubles pale into pettiness before the flaming fires of world-wide war. Our individual worries and problems dwindle into insignificance beside the fate of our nation and of the world as we have known it. The business affairs of a man who receives a notice to report for military service will be of no consequence if we lose the war. The greatest single problem which faces us and our enemies today is the problem of human power, the problem of supplying sufficient men and women to assure the victory for which we strive.

The privileges of a free citizen must go hand in hand with his or her sense of responsibility if we are to have a sound, healthy government in time of peace and if we are to survive in time of war.

The women who enlist in the Canadian Women's Army Corps today does three things simultaneously: (1) She serves in an essential military undertaking; (2) She releases a man for combat duty with a fighting unit; (3) She sets an example to those we always

Enjoyable Musical Program

The musical program consisted of selections by the Beach Grove Orchestra under the direction of L. Cpl. Connolly, and the Beach Grove Male Chorus under the direction of Pte. Walter MacNutt, A.T. C.M. Miss Laure Jeanne Arsenault delighted the audience with her selections, "The Old Refrain," "Dark Eyes," "When You're Away" and "The Flowers that Bloom in the Spring," pendered in her most pleasing manner. Sergeant Frank McIntyre was enthusiastically applauded as he sang "The Road to Mandalay," and "No Rose of Tralee."

The first petroleum well in the United States was opened at Titusville, Pa., on August 27, 1859.

PERSONALS

Mrs. George Brookings, Kensington was in Charlottetown on Saturday visiting her sister, Mrs. Blair Andrew who is a patient in the P. E. Island Hospital.

Mrs. Leslie Haines of French River who has been convalescing at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Webb of Waltham, Mass., has suddenly taken very ill again. Her friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Churchill Speaks

Everything in human power is being done and will be done to bring British and American forces into action against the enemy with the utmost speed and energy and on the largest scale."

That the Allies were drawing steadily ahead toward winning the greatest of this war, the battle that stood at the forefront of every other discussion at Casablanca—the battle against the submarine.

That the supreme commander of the Allied forces of North Africa was Lt.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower with Gen. Sir Harold Alexander as second-in-command, and that Britain will gladly and loyally go forward as subordinate to this essentially American enterprise.

That the Allies' army in French North Africa now numbers nearly 500,000.

That Canadian shipbuilding is playing an important part in the war against the submarine.

Again, he made clear that Casablanca had reaffirmed the view of the western Allies that it was Hitler who must first be beaten down; but again he pledged all the might of Britain for the struggle against Japan once the victory had been won in Europe.

At the moment he spoke, the Prime Minister went on, the reaffirmed and strengthened Allied unity achieved at Casablanca was at work in Asia. Lt.-Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the United States Army Air Force, and Field Marshal Sir John Dill were "in Chungking concerning what we have in mind with the Chinese Generalissimo. We have already received from him an expression of his strong approval that will be provided for China at this stage in the long-drawn, undaunted struggle."

War At Sea Going Well

As to the fight against the submarine, which he described as holding the only priority over aid to Russia, and holding that priority only because a victory at sea is essential to put the full aggressive Allied weight at Stalin's side, the Prime Minister gave out these highly encouraging facts, the most cheering yet issued on either side of the Atlantic:

"That in the last six months—which included some heavy operations for the Allies such as North Africa—Anglo-American and Canadian Canadian new ships building taken together exceed all the losses of the United Nations by 1,250,000 tons. That is to say, our joint fleet is 1,250,000 tons bigger today than it was six months ago."

More Escort Ships

That of 3,000,000 soldiers moved under air protection of the Royal Navy, only 1,348 have been lost—killed, drowned or missing.

That "we have decided"—Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt—"to throw emphasis rather more on the cost of some 'impingement' on new (merchant ship) building."

That "the rate of killing of U-boats has steadily improved. From 1941 to 1942, inclusive, the rate of sinking, probably, had been seen so far in this war. But from November to the present date, the three-

For their memories'er shall remain for us their names, bright names, without stain for us.

In legend and lay our heroes' deeds shall forever live over again for us.

Appreciation in Memory of James Emmet Hughes, Kinkora
