

SUNSHINE FURNACE

And Coal Economy

COMBUSTION taking place in the dome or top chamber of furnace fire-pot is the result of air and heat mingling with fumes. This combustion produces heat-energy, which the radiating surfaces above and around fire-pot absorb or draw in and then deflect or throw off. Incoming cold air receives this heat-energy, the result being heated air. Now, if the combustion takes place at a faster rate than the radiating surfaces can absorb and deflect, the surplus heat-power will pass up the chimney or into collar—a waste of coal.

There is no waste of coal in "Sunshine" Furnace. Circuit of radiator is so complete, and air-circulating space so large, that every bit of heat-energy is quickly absorbed and quickly deflected on the circulating cold air, which is thus quickly heated and ascends through the hot-air pipes to rooms above.

The check-draft of a furnace is situated on the smoke-pipe. When this draft is closed—especially on an "ordinary" furnace—heat particles can escape up chimney. When check-draft is opened the incoming cold air from the collar drives all heat particles back into furnace proper. If the grates and fire-pot of furnace are not constructed properly, there's a clogging and gathering of ashes, and fire does not burn up readily. If no provision is made for gas escape, the check-draft must be left closed indefinitely—a waste of coal.

There is no waste of coal in "Sunshine" Furnace. No clogging can take place in the 4-piece grate, no ashes can gather on the straight fire-pot walls, and the Automatic Gas Damper makes every provision for the escape of gas; consequently, check-draft can be opened shortly after cooling and all heat-energy saved for radiation.

THE KAISER SPEAKS

When the Kaiser rattles the sabre the whole world immediately pays attention. He has several ways of doing it. Sometimes it is by sending a semi-private dispatch to a foreign capital, as in the case of the Kruger telegram. Again it may be an ominous phrase in a speech on one of his journeys, as at Tangier on the eve of the Morocco crisis. His latest method is to use the columns of the newspapers for the purpose. The Cologne Gazette, which is recognized as a semi-official organ, recently devoted the whole of its first page to an article, warning all and sundry that it would be better not to assume that Germany's policy is one of peace at any price. It is evident throughout the article that the cause of the writer's irritation is not connected with Germany's direct interests, but to such affairs as the Moroccan and Macedonian questions. It is evident that German dignity has been gravely affronted by the independence (a reference to the Kaiser's speech at Tangier) only afterward to fold one's arms and watch that sovereign robbed of his independence piecemeal. To maintain peace with honor must be the guiding principle of a nation as well as of its diplomacy. But there is a limit to be reached. Continual weakness and constant giving way injure the honor of the empire, encourage the arrogance of our enemies and directly produce the peril which it is desired to avoid. Out in the world people should understand that our patience is not unlimited. Our fatherland keeps heavily armed, primarily for defence, but it also carries a sharp sword at its side, the necessity to draw which becomes more remote the more foreigners are convinced that we are ready to resort to that extreme if our honor is injured.

The true significance of this kind of talk is, of course, speculative. It is one of the Kaiser's moves. In the existing diplomatic situation, the commercial world takes it seriously for the Gazette's article had a heavy and depressing influence upon the bourse. The Emperor William is angry, and France and England are warned to go slow. Whether they will heed the warning remains to be seen.

Germany's indifference in the matter of the negotiations for an arbitration treaty with the United States arouses much comment in England. The Spectator remarks that it can only mean that Germany objects to arbitration only on principle, holding that a nation's interests are above the decisions of courts. "She is quite entitled," says the Spectator, "to take this lesson for Britain is clearer than ever. Although we trust that Anglo-German peace may never be disturbed, we must recognize that the international machinery for settling disputes must not be reckoned on in any way, and that if even we are forced into a serious dispute with Germany we shall have to look to naval strength as the one and only arbitrament.

Sunday School Lesson

REVIEW.
Golden Text.—"But these things are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through His name." John 20:31.

The purpose of John's Gospel is given in the Golden Text. The best review of the lessons of the quarter will be to go through the lessons one by one and find out how this great truth is illustrated in each lesson.

In Lesson I. the Diety of Christ comes out in His claiming to be the Door, through whom alone any man can enter into the kingdom, and in His claiming to be the Good Shepherd, the relation that in the old Testament Jehovah claimed.

In Lesson II. the Diety of Christ comes out in His demonstrating His power to raise the dead by His simple word.

In Lesson III. the Diety of Christ comes out again in His being the One who raised Lazarus from the dead.

In Lesson IV. the Diety of Christ comes out in the assertion of His pre-existence with the Father, and in His Father's having given all things into His hands, and in His knowledge of what was going on in the hearts of men, and in His assertion that He was Master and Lord.

In Lesson V. the Diety of Christ comes out in His fulfilling in detail to believe in Him just as they believed in God, and in His assertion that He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father.

In Lesson VI. the Diety of Christ comes out in His very presence, overpowering His enemies.

In Lesson VII. the Diety of Christ comes out in His fulfilling in detail so many of the Old Testament prophecies regarding the Christ.

In Lesson VIII. the Diety of Christ comes out in His resurrection, the Father's seal of Jesus' claim to Diety.

In Lesson IX. the Diety of Christ comes out again in the certainty of His resurrection and in His accepting to Himself ascension of Diety when Thomas called Him, "My Lord and my God."

In Lesson X. the Diety of Christ comes out again in His resurrection fully attested.

TO FURNITURE BUYERS

I have been fortunate in making arrangements to secure from time to time—job lots—clear out lines—and-bankrupt stocks of fine new furniture—heretofore usually all secured by the departmental stores of Montreal and Toronto—on these goods I can easily save my cash customers from 20 per cent to 30 per cent I intend to make the handling of these lines an important part of my business.

The first assortment of these goods are now on sale and selling rapidly—more are on the way. Should you require any kind of furniture, shortly you should take advantage of these special offerings.

In addition to these special clear out goods I offer a general line of Furniture—Iron and Brass Beds, Wire Springs, Mattresses etc at very close prices—devoting all my time to an exclusive furniture business—with thirty five years of practical experience and knowledge of the furniture markets—I am positive I can offer value not possible elsewhere. Having very moderate store expenses, I can do with, and am content to take a very small profit out of each transaction.
