WILSON DECLARES BRITAIN MUST PAY FOR SHIPPING LOSS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—President Wilson, referring today to the American note to Great Britain, insisting on better treatment for American commerce, declared that large damages eventually would have to be paid by Britain for unlawful detention of American cargoes.

The President couched a confirmation of this morning's publication of the sending of the note and of its contents with the statement that the Government would deal confidently with the subject, only if supported by absolutely honest manifests. He said the great embarrassment to the Government in dealing with the whole matter was that some shippers had concealed contraband in the cargoes of non-contraband articles, for example, under a cargo of cotton.

The President pointed out that many protests previously had been sent in specific cases and that if the contention of the American Government was correct, as he was firmly convinced it was, plans for indemnification ultimately would have to be met by Great Britain.

Supplementary to previous protests, the new note, President Wilson explained, represented fully the position of the United States, saying that, so far as theory was concerned, there really was no debate on the point raised, because Britain herself, in previous wars, had taken exactly the American position.

The President was asked if the communication sent to Great Britain was the result of the recent gathering of Pan-American diplomats. He said it was not, but that the position of the United States would apply to any neutral and that the contentions advanced were not peculiar to this country.

The President added that the note of protest was not based on any treaties between the United States and Great Britain, but on the generally accepted principle of international law. Publication of the substance of the American note this morning created widespread interest in the capital.

Members of Congress are Pleased at Government's Action. Foreign diplomats, especially those from neutral countries, discussed it and members of Congress who had protested to the State Department on behalf of merchants and shippers of copper, flour, wheat, foodstuffs, cotton and other products, in which trade has been restricted, expressed their satisfaction with the attitude of the Government.

Some administration officials expressed the view that when Great Britain realised the extent of public opinion on the subject in the United States her attitude would be modified and American industries hitherto halted would go forward.

outbreak of war. In view of the important principles laid down in the note, it was expected to have a far-reaching effect on the attitude of other neutral countries toward the general subject of contraband. Some diplomats thought it might hasten the calling of the conference of neutrals proposed by Venezuela to revise rules of international law for the protection of neutral commerce.

The note was not the result, it is understood, of any particular violation by Great Britain of what Washington considers its commerce rights, but was intended as a protest against the general attitude of the British Government, to which France has practically adhered in the treatment of neutral cargoes.

NEW YEAR'S DAY AT THE CURLING RINK

The growing enthusiasm in Canada's most popular winter game, curling, was well exemplified on New Year's Day when the Curling Rink was well filled and busy throughout the day and well into the night.

The first games of the series of "President vs. Vice-President" matches were played and resulted as follows: PRESIDENT VICE-PRES. G. Fitzgerald Jno. Whear Skip 4

A HEROIC ACT BY FRENCH MAN-OF-WAR SAILORS

PARIS, Jan. 2.—How the heroic self-sacrifice of French blue jackets made possible the capture of St. Georges, a town less than two miles from Nieuport, is described by the Matin's war correspondent in Flanders. He says:—The attackers had driven the Germans from the advance trenches, but, taking refuge in the houses in the village, the Germans soon placed their assault in a difficult position.
