Notes By The Way

roadways and street crossings. Le- vel crossings on the railway are numerous and are a constant source of danger. At many of these the driver of a car can only have the railway track in view for a very short distance. At all such points it would be well for the car driver to "stop, look and listen" for the train which may be coming, possibly at high speed and very near at hand.

Judged by their record of the past few years and the limited number of serious accidents in which they have shared the great majority of our motor car drivers must be set down as skilful, al- ert and careful. But we must not forget that there have been many narrow escapes from loss of life or limb, due to careless or reckless driving, especially from exceeding the lawful speed limits, which is a far too common of- fence. Hundreds of observers have noticed this. Reckless driving should be restrained and punish- ed with a firm hand. Glaring head lights, rapid turning of corners without a sound of warning are also frequently recurring dangers, especially to children, the aged, or infirm and those of defective vision or hearing.

"Safety first" should be the motto of car drivers and of ped- estrians alike. Those on foot are often at fault in neglect of this sound maxim, not taking care to look to all the points of the com- pass from which cars may be coming at the same moment, and often misjudging the speed of an approaching car and hurrying ac- ross the street ahead of it. At night a car with blinding head- lights and running at high speed, is especially dangerous to drivers of other vehicles. These should al- so carry lights for their own greater safety when driving at night, although few of them do so. More than ever before "eter- nal vigilance is the price of safe- ty" in these days of high-pow- ered and swiftly moving motor cars.

Some fifteen years ago across the border Judge Gary set on foot a campaign to secure great- er safety from accidents among the employees of the United States Steel Corporation, the result of which was that the loss of life from accidents in that em- ploy was diminished by 50 per cent. Other large corporations ad- opted like measures and then the employers of smaller numbers fol- lowed with the result that the number of deaths from industrial accidents was reduced by 30 per cent throughout the entire nation. This shows what can be done in this line. And now a national cam- paign is to be inaugurated over there in October with a "Safety week," under the slogan "Don't Get Hurt." These words are es- pecially fitting to the present time and here in Charlottetown. They should be observed alike by those who drive and those who walk. "Don't Get Hurt."

—THE 2.40 TROT for M.n- tague, Aug. 9th, will have some thrilling finishes, with nine new performers, and all of them out for the money. Teddy won his last race, but see him go when the Pup, gets after him, and there will be another bunch of "Todd" bounds after his scalp. 800-4-61
