BOYS' AND GIRLS' ESSAY COMPETITION
The Value of Club Work

In writing this essay on the value of Boys' and Girls' Club work in the province, one can only touch on some of the most direct benefits. There are scores of ways in which this work will indirectly benefit the agricultural life of the province. Before pointing out the benefits of this work in our rural communities, I feel it would be quite in order to mention some of the difficulties which the rural communities have experienced in connection with the life of the boys and girls. We all know there has been a great lack of interest among the boys and girls regarding agriculture and community enterprise, and moreover they have been drawn away from it by the bright lights of the city and in many cases young men and women of keen intellect and splendid ability have been lost to the realm of agriculture. It is just in this connection that I feel the club work done among the younger boys and girls is going to have its most beneficial effects. When a young boy or girl gets interested or attracted to anything, it is quite difficult to sever that connection, and you will find that the boys and girls directed and trained in club work, with a cultivated interest in live stock, will invariably take more interest in their homes and communities, and thus will not be drawn away by the follies of city life, and the bright lights I have mentioned, which have attracted so many, will but offer a foghorn to the boys and girls of an agricultural mind. Club work, as we think of it in connection with club work, is dealing with the boys and girls in age when they are very easily interested in animals on the farm, and therefore the training we get, feeding, showing and caring for our calves gives very valuable assistance, along with our school work, in developing all round citizens, with a natural love for things of the country. Apart from all this there is being introduced in each section a better class of live stock, which cannot help raising the standard and efficiency of our farms.

Another great feature of club work is that the older members of the family are taking a remarkable interest in the whole program, not only for our benefit, but for the betterment of their farms in general. It is just in this connection that the dollars and cents part of it will come in, for when the older members of the family get interested, they will not be satisfied with one cow giving twelve thousand pounds of milk a year and the rest giving four or five. In fact, this whole system, if carried to a successful issue, will just mean a program in which profits are made instead of losses.

Another feature I might point out is that the splendid community spirit that is being created. The boys and girls themselves grow up with a greater interest in one another, and with a more willing spirit to cooperate one with the other. Then, too, when a club is organized in a settlement it brings the boys and girls under direct leadership of trained men, or I might say, experts in live stock and other lines of agriculture. In this very connection there is a very valuable influence created, which cannot be estimated, for these outside personalities are brought to bear on a community, through the lives of the boys and girls.

I am only mentioning the most direct benefits, but one can readily see how the good results will be passed from one to the other until it is possible to trace the far reaching effects. Now, I do not claim that these benefits will be 100 per cent of every member in each club, but if 25 per cent of the members are influenced along the lines I have mentioned, there is surely nothing undertaken by the Department of Agriculture to-day that will be of more value in the years to come to the rural life of this province.

In conclusion, if this club work as carried on by the Department, among the boys and girls of this province, will encourage and hold many of the young people who otherwise might leave the farms, then I claim its value is unquestionable.

WEDDING BELLS—On April 25th a very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Catharine's Church, St. Theresa's, when Miss Caroline, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marquer were united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Wilfred McAree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McAree. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Basil Croken, who also sang the Nuptial Mass, during which appropriate hymns were sung by the choir. As the bridal party were leaving the church, a wedding march was beautifully directed by Miss Mamie Cameron, organist. The bride wore a blue gown with hat, coat and accessories to match. She was attended by her cousin, Francis McQuade. The groom wore a blue suit. He was attended by his cousin, Edward Baldwin. An invitation to breakfast, extended to the bridal party by the bride's grand-aunt, Mrs. James Kenny, having been accepted, the bridal party sat down to breakfast at the home of the most refined tastes and the keenest appetites. After breakfast they went by rail to Charlottetown, where they visited the places of interest, and arriving at the Queen Hotel, they partook of a wedding dinner of a most exciting menu. At 48 Road Station, they were greeted by a host of friends, who showered them with confetti and rice, and accompanied them to the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. John T. Corcoran. A beautifully decorated table laden with every delicacy stood ready to receive the hundred guests who were present, and, after a toast, the feast of dainties, a midnight supper was also served to the guests. The early part of the evening was spent in music and singing, the latter part, till the wee sma' hours, was spent in dancing. The occasion which called the youth together, was fittingly brought to a close by the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," and God Save the King. The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents which attest their popularity.

ernal cooperation will prevail hereafter.

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) MUNICH, Germany, July 6.—The names of two prominent figures of pre-Nazi Germany were added today to the list of those known to have been killed in Munich last Saturday as the total of known dead reached 21.

Former Lieutenant Richard Lieutenant Richard Scheringer, well known personality in early days of the Nazi movement, who later turned Communist, was found dead near Dachau concentration camp, along with several other victims.

Karl Stuetzel, former Minister of Interior of Bavaria, who was turned out of office by the Nazis, was another of those slain.

Scheringer was one of the three Reichwehr officers convicted of attempted treason in the famous trial at Leipzig in 1930 at which Adolf Hitler testified that "heads will fall."

and the French idea is that these may form a step towards pooled security on a wide scale.

So far however the British have regarded regional pacts warily. The British viewpoint generally is a readiness to accept the obligations assumed under the Covenant of the League and the Locarno treaties but not to increase them.

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) BERLIN, July 6.—Germany is counting on Britain to hold at arms length Louis Barthou, the French Foreign Minister, if he seeks to accomplish an entente cordiale in any aspect when he visits London over the week-end.

The statement today of Acting Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin in the House of Commons that there would be no alliance with France fell upon willing German ears.

The Wilhelmstrasse has been on pins and needles while awaiting some indication as to whether or not the bloodshed during the second Nazi revolution would make the British listen to a French plea for an alliance.

British official quarters now believe will "remain faithful to the Locarno Pact, which is incompatible with any bilateral agreement with a power which might be involved in such an agreement. It was said, would be in violation of the Locarno Pact, for England, under its provisions is bound to come to Germany's aid in case the latter is attacked. She could not aid both sides, she pointed out in case the attacking power were France.

The Wilhelmstrasse fears however that Barthou may try to convince the British to come to an understanding between the general staffs of British and French armies which would point out to the same thing as a political alliance.

INTERNATIONAL

many overseas clubs during his visit. The speaker paid a tribute to the overseas leaders of the Y's Men's Movement, who were members of the executive. The overseas clubs had entered into competition for the Beacon Trophy. The movement had arrived at a stage where it was becoming truly international. The speaker had enjoyed his visit to the Sidney Club, which had made the movement international. The Y's Men's Club had been organized at Toledo, and had spread through Ohio. The establishment of the Sidney Club had given the movement an international aspect. Six or seven years after the inauguration of the movement it had spread through six or seven countries. Speaking of the international outlook the speaker said "That's what gets me."

The speaker stressed the motto of "Service" to the local Y. M. C. A., while indicating clearly the worldwide call for a still larger service, and the world needed the work which was being done by the Y. M. C. A. and it was the duty of the Y's Men's Clubs to assist the Association. "Let us find out more about the Y. M. C. A.," the president urged in preference to finding out what clubs were doing elsewhere.

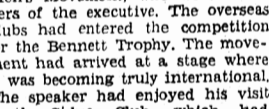

Conditions in Europe indicated that sane, cool heads were necessary in the world at the present time. The speaker had two ambitions, first that the club should go into every country where there was a Y. M. C. A., and second, that the organization should stand for world peace. "Some day perhaps this movement of ours may have some small part in the movement for world peace," Mr. Fisher.

"Y-dom" was a way of giving expression to the idealism in each person which urged to do something for the benefit of the youth of the community. The President in conclusion conveyed greetings from the officials of the international convention.

Mr. N. D. MacLean expressed the pleasure of the club in having present the International President. The visits of the international officers had been very helpful, he believed.

PRESBYTERIAL HELD ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the P. E. I. Presbyterian of the Women's Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was held at Marshfield on Thursday, July 5th. There was a large attendance of delegates and visitors. The president, Mrs. Arthur Yeo of Tyne Valley presided at the morning and afternoon meetings and the newly-elected President, Mrs. G. C. Webster, of Charlottetown, at the evening meeting.

Several members of the P. E. I. Presbytery took part in the services. There were present Rev. J. A. Pritchard, minister of the congregation, Dr. E. M. Leslie, Rev. G. C. Webster, Rev. Allister Murray, Rev. R. H. Staver, Rev. D. L. Griffiths, Rev. W. O. Rhoad, Rev. J. M. Murchison of the Bible Society, Rev. G. O. Hughes of Halifax and Rev. Edwin White of Tyne Valley.

The musical service was under the direction of the organist, Mrs. John MacFarlane. Very pleasing special numbers were given—a solo, "Be Thou Night" by Miss Emma MacEwen, who was accompanied on the organ by Miss Dorothy MacFarlane; a mixed quartette "Follow Me" by Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. Pritchard, Mr. John MacFarlane and Rev. J. A. Pritchard; also a solo "Open The Gates of The Temple" sung by Mrs. Boswell.

The nominating committee was called as follows:—Mrs. Brewer Linklater, Summerside; Mrs. J. G. Jamieson, Charlottetown; Mrs. Katie Cole, London; Mrs. M. K. MacEwen, Eldon; and Mrs. A. A. MacDonald, Charlottetown. Mrs. J. R. Munn of Marshfield, and Mrs. W. M. MacMillan of Charlottetown were appointed to act as credential committee. Mrs. R. M. Legate and Miss Mary Irving were appointed as committee for resolutions and courtesies.

The reports showed an increase in all branches of the work. They were given by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. W. Patterson; the mission band secretary, Mrs. W. O. Rhoad of Kensington; the Y. P. S. and C. G. I. T. secretary, Miss Katie MacEwen of Eldon; the secretary of literature, Mrs. J. F. Laflerty; the home mission secretary, Mrs. J. Stanley Brown of New London; the historical secretary, Mrs. W. A. Stewart, the home helpers secretary, Mrs. G. C. Webster; and the treasurer, Mrs. George Pickering of Summerside. His report stated that the contributions were within $3.76 of the allocation. This small amount was quickly subscribed.

Rev. J. A. Pritchard brought the greetings of the three auxiliaries of the congregation, Marshfield, Mr. Stewart and Harrington and welcomed the Presbyterial to the Marshfield Church.

Rev. G. C. Webster, Moderator of the P. E. I. Presbytery, brought the greetings of the organization and commended the women of the W. M. S. on their great enterprise—the greatest work that this work knows of.

Rev. J. M. Murchison of the British and Foreign Bible Society spoke briefly on the work of that great body and its connection with missionary work all over the world. He stated that last year there were almost eleven million copies of the Bible distributed in 678 different languages.

Rev. Edwin White of Tyne Valley spoke of the missionary paper "The Presbyterian Message." He appealed to the members for a stronger support and suggested ways of increasing the numbers of members.

Dr. Luther L. Young, missionary on furlough from Japan, in his address spoke of the work begun in Korea by the last generation of for W. M. S. The he had labored for twenty years until the mission was taken over by the United Church. Knowing the need of a mission among the Koreans in Japan, Dr. Young, backed by W. M. S. of the Maritime Provinces, made a small beginning. This has grown until, among the 500,000 Koreans in the four large islands of Japan there are now 63 preaching stations with seven Canadian missionaries and eight Korean ordained ministers. He said that the mission was now five evangelists and some part-time student workers. The Koreans are poor with a poverty unknown to us. Rents are high and wages are low. Their food is mainly rice with a few vegetables but no meat. He spoke of the work in Manchuria begun and still carried on by Dr. Goforth, who has given nearly fifty years of his life to the work, and, although blind, is still carrying on. In the evening he gave answer to the oft-repeated question—Do you think Foreign Missions worth while? At the conclusion of his address there was no doubt in his hearers mind that the answer is "yes."

The report of the credential committee was given by Mrs. J. R. Munn, who reported a very large attendance.

The report of the committee for resolutions and courtesies was given by Miss Mary Irving and by the women adopted. Thanks were given to God for help and guidance to the P. E. I. Presbytery for greetings, to the entertaining auxiliaries for their hospitality, to the ministers and lay session for greetings, to the work of the church, to the organist and choir for music rendered, to Dr. Young for his inspiring message and to the retiring president, Mrs. Yeo, for her efficient and faithful leadership. They also recommended that special attention be paid to the work of the young people.

Special mention was made of the splendid work of the historical secretary, Mrs. W. A. Stewart, who has done so much to preserve for the church and the W. M. S. the records and memories of the early church, especially Edward Island.

Vice-Chairman of Radio Commission Has Resigned

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, July 6.—Thomas Mahar, Vice Chairman of the Canadian Radio Commission, has requested of the government that he be released from duties on August 15. It was learned on the best authority here today, for some months Mr. Mahar has been acting as director of the commission's programme department. He is now vacationing at Tadoussac.

Mr. Mahar was one of the first of the radio commissioners appointed when the new body came into existence during the winter of 1932-33. The commission started functioning early in 1933. The other two original commissioners, Hector Charlesworth, chairman, and Col. A. W. Steel, are still in office. Nothing could be learned of Mr. Mahar's likely successor.

The Radio Commission has been under considerable fire in the House of Commons and before the House Committee on Radio. An Act passed at the last session, with little debate, extended the life of the commission for another year.

Mr. Mahar's resignation was not unexpected. He wished to resign early in the spring because of ill health, but desired to remain in the commission while its activities were being studied by the parliamentary committee.

One of Canada's leading foreign engineers, Mr. Mahar, it is understood, will return to his profession in the meantime he has taken month's leave necessitated by continued ill-health. His home is Quebec.

He was a loyal comrade, and the commission is sorry to lose his services. He has been a most helpful member when questioned with regard to Mahar's intention to resign. It is understood the government will accept the resignation.
