

Toledo Likely to be Without Cars

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 10.—Toledo will likely have to walk unless there is a prompt solution of its traction problem. The latest count shows that the votes by a margin of 873 approved the ordinance that provides that the Toledo Railway and Light Co. must vacate the streets. The ordinance was enacted by the council following a fare increase and was referred to the people by referendum petition. In workingmen's wards the vote to oust the company was two to one. President Coates said the company would continue to operate until notified officially that the ouster ordinance had been approved.

And His Family Medicines

MOST people first knew Dr. Chase through his Receipt Book. Its reliability and usefulness made him friends everywhere.

When he put his Nerve Food, Kidney-Liver Pills and other medicines on the market they received a hearty welcome, and their exceptional merit has kept them high in the public esteem.

Take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for example. There is no treatment to be compared to them as a means of regulating the liver, kidneys and bowels and curing constipation, biliousness, kidney disease and indigestion.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

The policy of Federal Assistance to Horse Breeding, which went into operation in 1915, has steadily grown in favor among breeders. That the scheme is popular is quite evident from the steady growth in the number of Clubs, which is prima facie evidence that good results are being obtained.

The Chief of the Horse Division of the Live Stock Branch reports that all ready requests are coming in for Federal Assistance booklets and the necessary forms required when starting a club. The new booklet for the year 1920 is now ready for distribution. Districts intending to form Clubs should write for a supply of these booklets immediately. Those that start early get the work of organization over during the slack season and are then ready to send Applications in before April 1st, which is the final date for receiving same. These Clubs also have the advantage over those that organize later in that they have the pick of the best horses. Good stallions that are not hired early are invariably routed early in the year, thus late-comers are forced to take what are left. It is also amongst the horses hired late that most of the animals not up to the required standard are found, hence the advisability for Clubs to select early. Undoubtedly it will only be a matter of time when the best horses will be hired at least one year ahead, and, in many cases, two and even three years, as is now the common practice in Scotland.

The total sales of live stock at Canadian Stock Yards during the first ten months of the present year show an increase of 111,500 cattle, 45,800 calves, 191,000 sheep, and a decrease of 5,600 hogs when compared with the sales during the same period of 1918. A very large percentage of the increase during the period was mentioned in the report for the month of October and September, while the total decrease in hogs was appreciably less than the heavy marketings during the two months referred to.

During the month of October there was an increase in live stock sales of 5,100 head of cattle, 15,500 calves, 3,451 hogs and 70,049 sheep, when compared with the sales during the same month of 1918. Despite the increased volume of cattle, the average price on good weights and sales of good quality steers was only one cent per pound less than the average for the same class of cattle during October, 1918, while the average sales of good quality slaves were made at three-quarters of a cent above the average obtained during October, 1918.

The tremendous increase in sheep marketing reduced the average of good lambs by about three cents a pound. In the case of hogs it is of some interest to note that the market for hogs during October, despite the heavy marketing at that period, was lower by only one and one-twelfth cents when compared with the average price during the same month of 1918.

Aside from the problem of the scarcity of feed, the comparison as shown between the volume of receipts and market prices warrants confidence in the live stock industry.

MEXICO'S IMPORTS ARE INCREASING

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.— Mexico's imports from the United States are steadily increasing, despite the revolutionary outbreaks and unrest in various parts of the country, largely for the reason that the federal government is in control of the ports and of the railroad lines connecting those ports with the principal centres of distribution in the interior, according to Manuel J. Zevada, publisher of El Heraldo Mexicano, who attended the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

"Agricultural development in Mexico, particularly along the Gulf of Mexico coast," said Mr. Zevada, "has created a field for all kinds of agricultural implements, particularly trucks, tractors, gang plows, and harrows, and windmills with low towers not more than 14 to 16 feet high, but with twice the ordinary width at the ground and well braced. The standard windmill has never been a success in this region on account of the heavy winds that sweep it, especially in the winter season. American tiling, about 3x3 inches, is in great demand in Mexico City, but seems to be virtually unobtainable. Boots and shoes and shoemaker supplies are in strong demand in every large city in Mexico. Leather equipment, rubber boots, harness, etc., also are needed. Perfumery and various grades of high-class paper are wanted, too.

"Among other things Mexico will buy from the United States if given an opportunity are earthenware, cutlery, glass containers, if provided with light metal caps, brass beads, brass vases, bicycles, fancy goods, glassware, men's and women's clothing, denim, gingham, zephyrs, ticking, cashmere, cotton, wool, silk, art silk, cotton drills, cotton yarn, shirt waists, hosiery, men's shirts and underwear, and neckties. But what we need most of all are American consignment with Spanish and with the customs of the country as salesmen for these goods."

THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF LETTUCE PLANTED

EL CENTRO, Calif., Nov. 10.—I. T. Sparks, industrial representative of the Southern Pacific Railroad, states that more than 8,000 acres of land in the Imperial Valley will be planted to lettuce. Already the first of the crop is beginning to show above the ground, and more is being planted for a proper succession. Secretary Ozawa of the Japanese Farmers Association is authority for the statement that the average gross income an acre for the lands tilled by the Japanese was $600, and that the average gross cost an acre was $150, leaving a net profit of $450. Spinach acreage will also show a great increase as seed has already been contracted for by the Japanese association sufficient to plant more than 2000 acres.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 10.—With special exercises, designed to mark a noteworthy achievement in naval history, the United States destroyer Reid, which was built in the record-breaking time of 45½ working days at the Squantum works of the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company, was delivered yesterday to the United States Government at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The previous record for the construction of a destroyer was 174 days.

Rub Lumbago Pain Or Backache Away

INSTANT RELIEF FROM PAIN, BACKACHE, SORENESS, STIFFNESS, SCIATICA WITH "ST. JACOBS LINIMENT"

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica, or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with St. Jacobs Liniment. Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Lumber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years. Stop dragging kidneys! They don't cause backache, because they have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain.

BOSWELL'S HOUSE IS ON THE MARKET

According to the New York Times, the Mansion House of Auchinleck, of which James Boswell was once the laird, in Ayrshire which he vainly sought to represent in Parliament, is on the market. Here is a chance for some fortunate American Boswellian to settle himself congenially, if he be not afraid of income tax and death duties, in Bozzy's old home, which he so loved to be away from. It is Burns' country, too, and doubtless still rich in "whiskey, soul of oats and cranks," whose unpermitted flow here surely the devotees of Jenny Boswell, one of the most amiable of tosspots, may be forgiven for deploring. The new American laird, rich in cars, can travel in them as Jenny in his youth described himself as travelling "in post chaises, miles without number," he can eat "of every good dish, especially apple pie"; he can drink "old hock," if any is left in the world. He should have "a very fine temper," be "somewhat of a humorist."

Johnson's Habits.

"He was pleased to listen," writes Boswell of his Great Bear in 1763, "to a particular anecdote I gave him of my family and its hereditary estate, as to the extent and population of which he asked questions and made calculations, recommending at the same time a kindness to the tenantry, as people over whom the proprietor was placed by Providence. He took delight in hearing my description of the romantic seat of my ancestry. 'I must be there, Sir (said he) and we will live in the old castle; and if there is not room remaining there, we will build one.' Johnson went there, as we all know, and the place is described in the 'Tour to the Hebrides.' In his old age Mrs. Boswell asked him to come again. Politic letters passed between them. Yet she cannot have forgotten that 'his irregular hours and uncouth habits, such as turning the candles with their heads downward, when they did not burn bright enough, and letting the wax drop upon the carpet, could not but be disagreeable to a lady,' and 'I have seen many a bear led by a man, but I never before saw a man led by a bear.'"

Disgusted the Laird.

Bozzy loved to talk about the "woods and rocks," "the romantic groves" of his ancestors. In the old days "the Laird of Auchinleck had an elegant house, in front of which he could ride ten miles upon his own territory, upon which he had upward of six hundred people." His own father, Lord Auchinleck, was a strong and disagreeable character, worthy of Stevenson. One loves to think of the cultivated old patrician, sneering, however wrongly, at his son and his son's friends. "There's nae hope for Jamie, mon Jamie is gaen clean slye (mad). Whose tail do you think he has plumed to now, mon? A dominie, mon, an' an' dominie; he kept a schule and caud'd it an' acadamy." One repeats unblushingly all these ancient and beloved Boswelliana and Johnsoniana. They have become ritual. They cannot be repeated too often, especially the old laird's fine saying to Johnson, who had asked him to tell of what use Cromwell was "God, Doctor, he gart (made) kings ken they had a lilt (joint) in their neck."

Bozzy as a Lover.

Some of us date on Auchinleck because near it was the place of Miss Blair, that helress whom Bozzy's father wanted him to marry and to whom the volatile young man made love in person and by deputy. Bozzy sighed and adored and quarrelled with his "dear fidel." He dressed in green and gold. He even played his part with "Spanish stateliness." He squeezed and kissed "her fine hand while she looked at me with those beautiful black eyes." Does she have any particular liking for him? No. I like Jeany Maxwell better than you," says the frank lady. Sir Alexander Gillmor is the favorite. Bozzy laughs off his disappointment, and writes a ballad:

She told me with a scornful look,
I was as ugly as a tawney;
For she a better fish could hook,
The rich and gallant knight, Sir Sawney.

A National Monument.

Dear old Bozzy, Bozzy ever fresh and young! Most un-Scotch of Scotchmen, one of the most mixed of men; unconventional conventionalist; a Tory prop of State and Church, who loved to picnic on the coast of Bohemia; amateur scholar, buffoon, sentimentalist and cynic; generous and sordid; affected and candid, vain and an analyzer of his own vanity; collector of celebrities, sycophant of genius! He wanted a high place at the bar and in
