was taken over by the newly established Department of Health. In the six months from January 1st to June 30th, 39 school health inspections were held, 4123 children examined, 145 health talks given and 804 home visits made with regard to school and pre-school children, infants, prenatal cases, tuberculosis patients, crippled children, etc.

Diphtheria Immunizing Clinics were held for Charlottetown and surrounding districts at which 100 children were inoculated. This makes a total of 9320 children protected against diphtheria in Red Cross clinics in the past two years.

Instruction in Home Nursing and First Aid was given to 22 women and to 92 pupils of Prince Street School. Also six lectures on health topics were arranged for the First Year students of Prince of Wales College.

The two clinics for crippled children held in Charlottetown and Summerside by Dr. Acker of Halifax, had the largest attendance of any clinics in the six years we have been looking after the interests of the crippled child. A total of 273 examinations was made and 16 operations, manipulations and other treatments given. The crippled children's work does not end with the semi-annual clinics by any means, but three afternoons a week throughout the year a Corrective Clinic is held when flat feet, spinal curvature, etc. are massaged and exercised and paralyzed muscles are re-educated to function.

In this department, 42 children received 834 treatments during the year. Educational work in the home for those unable to attend school also was undertaken, 97 lessons having been given to three crippled children. One child who had no education now enjoys reading the daily papers and books, writes and draws nicely and does elementary arithmetic.

It is interesting at this stage of wider development in public health work under the Government to look back to the beginning of the movement in 1921 when the Red Cross programme was outlined and it was said: "It cannot be done. The people would not stand for it." Then to watch its steady growth on up the years as the nurses made, contacts with the schools and homes, teaching and advising in the care of children and babies, in the improvement in school buildings, etc.

Then extending the work to include provincial chest clinics and tuberculosis visiting, crippled children and tonsil clinics, vaccination and diphtheria immunizing clinics, etc. until the services rendered by the Red Cross were known from one end of the province to the other and until it became an organization to which everyone appealed for advice and assistance in their health problems.

Following the statistics of the work that has been accomplished, at least that part of it which is no real measure for the countless ways in which the nurses have been of help and service to the people, nor of the results of their influence in the improvement of health conditions in the province:

- 1569 school inspections.
- 53,511 health examinations of school children.
- 2,223 health talks given.
- 19,092 home visits made including British Settlers.
- 461 Women given instruction in home nursing and First Aid.
- 493 school children given instruction in home nursing and First Aid.
- 6,217 children vaccinated in 446 schools.
- 9,320 children protected against diphtheria.
- 76 children operated on in tonsil clinics.
- 113 children treated in dental clinics.
- 1,171 examinations made in crippled children's clinics.
- 114 operations, etc. on crippled children.
- 610 handicapped children helped.
- 1,824 Corrective Clinic treatments.
- 2 provincial surveys made of crippled children.
- 97 home lessons given to crippled children, convalescent infantile paralysis serum secured during epidemic.
- 108 rural chest clinics held, and monthly in Summerside and weekly in Charlottetown.
- 3,812 chest examinations made.
- 555 chest examinations of college students.
- 79 health lectures to college students.
- 7,489 visitors to office for information, etc.

11,241 people weighed at Exhibition booth.

240 adult meetings addressed. Assisted at Boy's Health Camp.

Once again I wish to thank the many people throughout the province who have always co-operated with us, for without their generous assistance and continuous interest we would not have been able to present this record of accomplishment.

It has been a privilege and pleasure to work for such a humanitarian and inspiring society as the Red Cross. Although we nurses will be carrying on very much the same type of work under the Department of Health, we leave our parent organization with regret.

Personally, I should like to thank the Executive most gratefully for all their assistance and sympathetic backing in our various undertakings in these past years. Certainly one could not ask to be associated with a pleasanter supporting group. For the present the Junior Red Cross will occupy the field of activity and it is making excellent progress under Miss MacLean's direction. I trust therefore that the good work of the Society will continue to receive the whole hearted support it so richly deserves.

Respectfully submitted,
MONA G. WILSON,
Chief Red Cross Public Health Nurse.

The following report of the Junior Red Cross for the year 1931 was submitted by Miss Catherine MacLean, Supervisor of this department:

"The Junior Red Cross movement may be said to rest primarily on the conviction that the birthright of every child is a sound, clean and strong body, that health is desirable and necessary, that health is attainable and that it can be attained and maintained only with the intelligent support of the child's themselves. It is because the truth of this statement is being realized, more and more fully by the teachers, pupils and parents of this province that we are able to report splendid progress in our Junior Red Cross work.

"For the school year 1930-31, we had 266 Junior Red Cross Branches and 5,897 members as compared with 190 Branches and 3,742 members for 1929-1930. For the present school year the increase will be even greater because from September 1st to December 31st, 8,577 Junior Red Cross members have enrolled in 351 Branches. This number is approximately 50 per cent of the pupils and 35 per cent of the schoolrooms in the province. It represents an increase over the number reported a year ago of 3387 members and 117 Branches. The former Branches are re-enrolled. Its adaptability is proven by the knowledge that it is being successfully carried on in the country and in the towns; in ungraded schools and in progressive ones, in over-crowded and in small classes.

Addresses

"From August 24th to September 2nd I attended eight local Teachers' Conventions at which I was given an opportunity to speak and at which I was able to interview the teachers individually in order to ascertain whether or not they wished me to visit their classrooms—83 per cent of the number in the province. During the same period I addressed, in the evening, 49 Women's Institutes and groups of parents (13 in Prince County, 21 in Queens and 15 in Kings). The interest taken in the Junior Red Cross and the approval expressed by the Institutes were so enthusiastic that one felt that this extra effort was more than justified and that the plan of visiting such influential groups of adults should be continued. Already results have been obtained in assurance of continued assistance in conducting our annual membership campaign, in donations of money to our Senior Fund and in the organization of Junior Branches in districts where formerly the teacher hesitated to introduce such an innovation.

"In the spring I had the privilege of speaking to the first year students at Prince of Wales College and in July I addressed a Women's Institute Convention at Kingsboro. At the closing exercises of Sours High School, a delightful programme was given by the Juniors, when Mrs. C. G. Duff, a member of the Executive, presented Five Year Certificates to two Branches. At the same time,

Provincial Teachers' Convention a Junior Red Cross exhibit was shown and a pageant which ably portrayed the aims of Junior Red Cross was staged by the Juniors of the Model School. Our Junior Red Cross Booth at the Provincial Exhibition attracted a great deal of attention. In it, 2,000 people were weighed and measured.

Annual Report

"Annual reports which cover the work of the Branches for the year 1930-31 show much improvement in many phases of personal and community hygiene. Besides trying very hard to keep the Health Rules we find that our Junior members have been putting into practice their motto "I Serve." They have raised money for the Crippled Children's Fund by concerts, collections and in many other ways. We are glad to be able to report that besides financing the Crippled Children's Clinics our Juniors have provided treatment for 92 children. A total of $1509.76 has been spent to help handicapped children.

"The Branches are always urged to consider the needs in their own locality first so that our figures do not by any means cover the total expenditures made by them. Improvements made to their school properties include:—The buying of pencil sharpeners, pictures, basins, towels, soap, coat-hooks, dust-pans, mirrors, covered drinking fountains, individual cups, books, mottoes, dictionaries, flags and flag-poles, lamp chimneys, window shades, blackboards, globes, maps, cupboards for School Day Libraries and Christmas decorations. They have also kept the schoolrooms, toilets and grounds clean and tidy, made posters, visited the sick and shut-ins giving them fruit, etc., TAKE TWO—RED CROSS . . . planted flowers, worked for neighbors, contributed to and collected for the Senior Red Cross Campaign, had daily Health Inspections, kept water containers, cups and towels clean, made toys, mittens and other gifts for crippled children, elected politeness and language committees, kept water on furnaces, planted trees, framed pictures and served hot lunches. Hundreds of beautiful Valentines were received for distribution to our patients and to the Orphanages. At Christmas time 48 Branches sent in 450 gifts which were packed in delightful boxes for 50 children.

"In 1931 for the first time we had the Branches sew baby clothes for distribution to needy cases. Already we have been able to give layettes to 4 "New Canadians." "Sixteen portfolios were sent from Island groups and twenty received in exchange, the Juniors in this way coming into direct contact with their fellow members in Austria, Australia, Belgium, Hungary, Japan, Manitoba, Porto Rico, Tennessee, New York, Michigan, Louisiana, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, New Mexico and Florida. At the request of National Headquarters we also sent a duplicate portfolio prepared by the Muscouche Juniors to the League of Red Cross Societies in Paris for exhibit purposes.

"During the year 8,254 pieces of mail have been sent from our office and 3,794 people have called to be weighed or to receive information. "Our thanks are due to the Department of Education, the Supervisors of Schools, Principals, Teachers and Pupils, Institute Members and other friends who by their assistance and hospitality have made our work pleasanter and more effective. The staff also gratefully acknowledge the continued assistance received from Miss Wilson, Director of Public Health Nursing and her staff of nurses, and from our own Executive.

"May I add that the progress in this report is not confined to this province but is true of Canada and of the whole world—for there are now over 12,000,000 children who belong to the Junior Red Cross in 48 countries."

yesterday afternoon. Suddenly the wind changed and blew in from the northwest with blinding snow. Not knowing whether they went, the three moved the boat about until their strength was spent. Darkness shut down and the temperature dropped. They saw Stag Rocks, but were unable to land. The sea was smooth or now, and they anchored under the rocks to await their fate. There they sat, practicing every possible motion to keep warm, then looking at each other as ice formed around their boat. Levi Eddy was the first to succumb to the intense cold. Through the long hours of the night the two brothers staved off death, wondering which would be the next to go. About four o'clock this morning Martin Dalton expired. Alone now except for two corpses, Eugene pitted his physique against the steadily falling temperature. He did not remember much after his brother died, and he was in a semi-conscious state when rescued by seamen of the Fisheries Department. He is expected to recover.

Informed that the men were missing, H. B. C. Lake, Minister of Fisheries, ordered search parties to organize. They could not yet get out until the weather moderated this morning.

Another boat trapped by the storm contained Robert Haynes, Constable King and Kenneth Shepherd, of Little Catalina. After the wind went down they were able to return to land.

A crew of gunners from Saint John's had a close call when in attempting to reach land they lost their oars just as the boat bumped the cliffs outside the narrows. They managed to scramble ashore. A Trinity crew had much the same experience.

In all languages a mean thought expressed in noble terms is better liked than the noblest thought expressed in mean terms. For everybody cannot judge of the force and fitness of a thought but almost everyone perceives the meanness of words.

with foreboding tonight. Rear Admiral Koichi Shiosawa, commander in chief of the Japanese fleet regularly stationed in the Whangpo River, issued a virtual ultimatum today, demanding the immediate suppression of anti-Japanese organizations in the foreign settlements as well as the native cities.

Simultaneously, a group of Japanese naval officers, called on the Editor of a Chinese language newspaper, the Republican Daily News, in the heart of the settlement, and gave him until Saturday to apologize for an article offensive to them on pain of adopting "suitable measures."

On the heels of these threats, authorities of the settlement—most of whom are British—visited Admiral Shiosawa on his flagship in the river and requested a statement of his intentions. They informed him they could not permit independent Japanese action within the foreign concessions.

THE WHITE WAY IS BRUTAL

(Canadian Press)

PARIS, Jan. 21—New York's bright lights are "brutal" in the opinion of Fernando Jacopozzi, the "man who lights Paris." Jacopozzi has handled the lighting effects on many of Paris's most famous public monuments and has created huge electrical displays for the Paris holiday seasons that even Broadway might envy.

"Broadway's lights," he said, "are striking but they are brutal. It's a conglomeration without much taste. They are effective in the way that a knockout in a prizefight is, but they lack the quality to make people talk about them or stand long and watch one sign work which is what we try to do."

Vocational Training For Prisoners Urged

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 22—(By The Canadian Press)—Establishment of a central reformatory for educating and training prisoners sentenced to serve terms under two years in jails of Nova Scotia was urged by representatives of all local social reform associations who appeared today before the Royal Commission investigating prison conditions in the province.

The commission, headed by A. J. Campbell, K. C. of Truro, opened its tour of the province here today. The next hearing will be held at Sydney on January 27, and the next at Pictou on January 28. Other members are Rev. Dr. F. C. Curran, and Rev. Dr. S. H. Prince, of Halifax, Dr. W. S. Williamson of Yarmouth and Judge A. D. Campbell of Sydney.

Delegates who appeared today were unanimous in condemning environmental conditions prevailing in the majority of the jails of the province, and all favored a central institution for sociological work.

Segregation of prisoners as a deterrent of corrupting influences on less hardened offenders also was recommended, while employment and education for prisoners was declared to be an absolute necessity.

Dr. F. H. Sexton, principal of Nova Scotia Technical College, was foremost among those who urged vocational training, declaring that a number of practical trades could be taught while prisoners were under sentences as short as two or three months.

"It is essential," he said, "that prisoners, on returning to society, become self-respecting and self-supporting units of society."

Three Bond Issues Were Oversubscribed

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 22—(By The Canadian Press)—For the third time since Canada began floating her loans in her own country a bond issue has been over-subscribed. Today the city of Montreal's bond offering was added to the Dominion Service Loan of the Dominion Government and the recent issue of the Province of New Brunswick in the list of successful internal floatations. In all three cases the loans are payable both as to principal and interest in Canadian funds.

FAIRVIEW SCHOOL

The semi-annual examination of Fairview School was held in the school room in the evening of December 23rd with a large number of parents and visitors present. The school was artistically decorated for the occasion and a well filled tree, gaily trimmed, adorned one corner.

The pupils were examined in the different subjects by their teacher, Miss Christine MacNevin, assisted by Miss Rae Lightizer, teacher of Cumberland School.

After the examination, Mr. Ed. Currie in a very capable manner acted as chairman and the following program was carried out: Recitation, Welcome, by Aletha Alcorn. Opening chorus by school. Recitation, The final G, by Rita Currie. Dialogue, A Christmas Crazy Class. Monologue Entertaining Sister's Beau by Dorris Currie. Exercise, Merry Christmas. Recitation, by Adele Currie and Keith Taylor. Dialogue, Harry's Packets. Recitation, When Teacher Gets Cross, by Norma Burdett. Recitation, by John MacPhee. Motion Song, Merry Christmas Day by four girls. Recitation, When Papa's Sick, by Lloyd Alcorn. Dialogue, How She Teased Nell. Recitation, When Pa Shaves, by Alton Burdett. Motion Song, A Christmas Hush-A-By, by four girls. Dialogue, Buying Eggs. Recitation, A Lady Santa Claus, by Mary MacPhee. Recitation by Vera Alcorn. Solo, Allys in a Manger by Freda Burdett. Recitation, by Lea MacKinnon. Dialogue Motion Song, by six girls. Recitation, When Pa Shaved Off His Whiskers by Eleanor Burdett. Closing chorus by school. Recitation, Farewell, by Iver Burdett.

After complimentary remarks were made by Mr. Ed. Currie and Miss Bertha Webster, Santa Claus arrived in his usual jolly manner and distributed gifts to pupils and teacher.

A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

You must make it quite clear to your mind which you're most bent upon, popularity or usefulness—else you may happen to miss both. 250-11

Dennis Favored For Vacancy

SEEMS LIKELY TO BE CHOICE OF MANY ASPIRANTS FOR POST

OTTAWA, Jan. 22—No appointments have been made yet to the Nova Scotia vacancies in the Senate. One of the seats is to go to Dr. J. A. MacDonald, of Richmond. There are many aspirants for the other but it now seems likely that it will be given to W. H. Dennis, of Halifax.

More than a dozen names have been mentioned for the seat, but it has narrowed down to two or three, with the odds on Mr. Dennis. Final decision rests with Premier Bennett who, it is reported, has not yet found time to tackle this particular job.

As to the story that J. McG. Stewart, of Halifax, would go to the Supreme Court of Canada, succeeding the late Mr. Justice Newcombe, the view is that he has a strong claim to the post from the standpoint of ability and experience, but that it is improbable that he would relinquish his present lucrative law practice for the Bench.

LOOKING FOR

to secure for British industry a due share of the recovering prosperity of the country. Mutual benefits have accrued hitherto from the many millions of British capital adventured in the development of its resources. A great deal more is possible."

And the Argentine is apparently ready to respond. She is sending a delegation over to explore the field of increasing Anglo-Argentine trade. Dr. Manuel Malbran, Argentine ambassador to Great Britain, has given new significance to the "Buy British" slogan which still faces one at every turn from the English Channel to beyond the Scottish highlands. "Buy British to us Argentines," says Dr. Malbran, "does not imply only the purchase of goods made in Britain. But British for us has a wider sense. Buy British signifies encouragement in every possible way for British industry and business. Increasing foreign commerce, restoring the balance of Britain's trade; and all this with but one purpose, that of promoting the welfare of the British people."

"If then this interpretation is, as we believe, the true one, in the Argentine we are more than justified in contemplating future commercial relations between Britain and the Argentine not only with confidence but with optimism."

And as the British government prepares the tariff proposals it is to submit to the House of Commons next month the move to secure more trade with South America assumes increasing importance. Measures to develop intra-empire trade are the cardinal feature of the declared policy of the national government; all the emergency tariffs that have been adopted carry full preference for empire products. "Buy British—first at home and then overseas," is still the slogan. Buy coupled with the desire to develop empire trade is the further desire—on the part of the British trader at any rate—for a tariff that while giving first preference to empire products will permit bargaining with countries willing to bargain in return.

Yet, while business men in Britain and Argentina alike prepare to draw still closer the lines of trade, the tension on the European continent remains. Exchange restrictions multiply. "From the general standpoint," reports the League of Nations' economic committee, "we are forced to the conclusion that the general result of national measures to cope with the effect of the crisis is almost inevitably to prolong and seriously aggravate it."

Hints are thrown out, too, of a possible Anglo-Scandinavian trade entente.

British products. The preferential scale would be applied to Empire products.

Needs Foreign Markets

The value of the British preference, if such a system is adopted would obviously depend largely on the extent to which the intermediate rates are applied and the amount of spread between these and the preferential rates.

"Foreign markets are absolutely essential to our economic existence," urged Sir Frederick Lewis, shipping magnate, in his presidential address at the annual meeting of Houlder Brothers shipping line today. "We must export, although a policy of imperial preference will be all to the good as far as it can increase our trade with the Dominions. It has been clearly shown the Dominions cannot afford to buy exports we sell elsewhere, nor can the population of the Dominions absorb them."

Reciprocal Treaties

The Times editorially observed: "If we are to restore our balance of trade, our trade policy must contemplate after the immediate objectives of reconditioning our industries and promoting effective co-operation with the Dominions, the negotiation of reciprocal arrangements with countries such as the South American Republics, the Scandinavian kingdoms, whose production is complementary to our own and who are already showing themselves ready to buy from those who buy from us."

Much significance is attached to the speech on trade which the Prince of Wales will deliver tonight before the Argentine Chamber of Commerce in London. The Prince, of course, is well acquainted with trade relations between Argentina and Great Britain, following his visit to Buenos Aires a year ago.
