all be dropped at once. Rather, some would be retained and others perhaps modified.

One source closely identified with the administration ascribed the basic reason for the Government's anxiety to drop the taxes to two factors: its unpopularity in the country and its failure to achieve its objective of reducing consumption of those goods to which it was applied.

Basically, the tax is an excise levy of 25 per cent. However, on some goods on which there already was a 10-per-cent tax the additional levy was only 15 per cent. The effect is that there are two taxes—one of 25 per cent and another of 15 per cent.

They apply to such durable goods as motor cars, sporting goods, golf bags, firearms, pleasure launches, firearms, oil burners, motor cycles, musical instruments, cameras, radios, phonographs and most types of electrical home appliances.

In announcing them last November, Finance Minister Abbott said flatly that the aim was not to raise revenue but to limit public spending on the commodities with the objective of saving U. S. dollars which go into their manufacture and to stock-pile consumer goods needed in Britain and Europe.

It was said that the Government now under pressure even within its own party to give tax relief and to take some deflationary steps, had come to recognize that the excise taxes were "ill-conceived." Besides their failure to reduce consumption, they had operated against the Government politically.

It was felt that their removal would tend to put a brake on the still-rising cost-of-living and perhaps quiet some of the demands on the administration to take remedial action in this field.

However, the Government's main concern was when to "time" the action. Presumably, it would like to take the action as soon as possible but, with the reported dissatisfaction of its own supporters, still in the air, it may wait several weeks or a month to lessen the chances of the two being linked.

Goods Tax Consumer goods on which the Government levied or increased excise taxes in the austerity program last November: 25-per-cent tax imposed—Gills, waffle irons, hot plates, toasters, kettles, chafing dishes, food or drink mixers, juice extractors, coffee makers, toasters of all kinds, portable humidifiers, caulking irons or tongs, hair dryers, permanent waving machines, razors and shavers, food choppers and grinders, irons and ironers, vacuum cleaners and attachments, garbage disposal units, floor waxers and polishers.

Commissionaires At Hotel During Rotary Convention

An interesting sidelight to the Rotary Convention now being held in Charlottetown is the fact that, for the next three days of the Convention, smartly uniformed guards, members of the Corps of Commissionaires, will be seen in front of the main entrance of the Charlottetown Hotel where many of the delegates are staying.

The Corps was organized in England shortly after the Crimean War. The story is that a Captain, Walters, who had served in the Crimea, discovered many of his men begging in the streets of London after the war. Captain Walters took the case of those men to the House of Commons with the argument that there should be something better for a man who had served his country than a tin cup. Parliament agreed and today the Corps has grown into a large, well-disciplined organization.

In 1930 the movement spread to Canada and today its services are utilized by such nationally known organizations as the Canadian Bankers' Association, Steel Company of Canada, Trans-Canada Air Lines, and many others.

at again being chosen as the candidate and said that in the time that he has been in Ottawa he has done his utmost for Prince County and Prince Edward Island. He is referred to the loss suffered by the country in the death of Col. J. L. Ralston and also spoke in praise of other men who had represented the constituency of Prince.

Referring to the recent Federal by-elections that had been won by the C.C.F. he said that that party is being aided by the Communists and that eventually they would have control of the party.

Discussing the financial record of the present administration, Mr. MacNaught said that the national debt has been reduced by over a billion dollars and pointed out that this is saving the taxpayers a great deal in interest payments. Referring to the duty of the meeting to choose three delegates to the National Convention he expressed the wish that they would be representative from east and west, from the two races and if possible, from the different creeds.

A resolution was passed, moved by Mr. A. J. Matheson, O'Leary, seconded by Mr. Stewart Montgomery, urgently requesting the Government to include in the supplementary estimate an amount to care for the inauguration of the West Point-Bucouche ferry system at the earliest possible moment.

Other resolutions expressed regret at the passing of Col. Ralston, deplored the action of the Canadian National Railways in taking up the flooring on the railway deck of the old car ferry, also voiced regret at the decision of Prime Minister Mackenzie King to retire, and confidence in the Jones administration, and confidence in the representation of Mr. MacNaught, and felicitations on his recent appointment as Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Fisheries.

In moving his resolution on the West Point ferry, Mr. Matheson told of a man who lived on the mainland and loaded up a truck with five or six tons of coal with the intention of coming to the Island and trading the coal for potatoes. When he reached Tormentine he was told that the charge to transport his load of coal would

New Equipment And Machinery For Can Company

A program of modernizing equipment and machinery as well as installation of new offices in the local plant of the American Can Company was announced yesterday.

The work already underway, was made known during the visit to the plant by Messrs. Gordon Mann, Canco general manager, and P.G. Rigby, manager of manufacture for the company in Canada, both of Hamilton, Ontario. The two are here for a few days to inspect the preparation for installation of new machines and the layout of the proposed offices. They are being accompanied during the inspection visit by Frank C. Casey, who is in charge of company interests in Charlottetown.

While exact cost figures were not available, it is believed that the project will involve the expenditure of between $40,000 and $50,000. The new equipment, Mr. Rigby said, is designed to meet the increased demand in the Maritimes for high-quality containers. The installations, he added, will provide modern automatic manufacturing techniques including testing of cans, sealing on container ends and other operations.

The new offices, to be located in this plant proper, will house the executive and office staffs of the company. Since the purchase by Canco of the Charlottetown plant in September, 1945, the company has maintained offices at 85 Water Street.

Planning For Future "The modernizing of our Charlottetown plant and equipment is in line with the American Can Company's policy of planning for the future," Mr. Mann said, "and the company's optimism for the industrial expansion of the Maritimes is exhibited by our investment of upwards of a quarter of a million dollars in the Charlottetown operation."

"We believe a can-making plant in the Maritimes, capable of turning out several million cans a year on modern automatic machines, can be of real service to packers in the area, not only of fish but of fruits, vegetables and other products."

"As business expands, too, we will be able to provide additional gainful employment for more Maritimes people, thereby adding to the welfare of the community."

Mr. Rigby said he expected the new equipment would be installed and operating before the end of this year.

On the platform during the meeting were Messrs. J. Lester Douglas, M.P., Hon. Horace Wright, Hon. G. H. Barbour, Hon. A. W. Matheson, Hon. Wilfred Arsenault and Messrs. Forrest Phillips, Lorne MacFarlane, Carrol Delaney, C. C. Baker, Hector Richard, Fred Ramsay, members of the Provincial Legislature.—S.
