The Transport Bill

If the effect of the King Government's new Transport Bill is to interfere with water transport rates from the Maritimes to Montreal and Lake ports in Central Canada, as stated by Mr. R. E. Mutch at Monday night's meeting of the Trade Board council, the sooner emphatic protest is registered at Ottawa the better.

Who Pays the Taxes?

The Rowell Commission is now sitting in British Columbia. One of the points made in the Pattullo Government's brief was that British Columbia's contribution in income tax to Ottawa since 1917 totalled as much as the collections from Saskatchewan, Alberta and the three Maritime Provinces together.

NOTES BY THE WAY

To many people the idea of a direct spelling is probably a nuisance. It only for the sake of convenience is used. But records of the past suggest a certain mild enthusiasm for a report of one at Wigan market.

Editorial Notes

Viscount Milner born this date 1854. Aberhart still holds his own in the capitol of Alberta. The young Conservatives of the city are off to a good start.

Opium Smoking

Opium smoking has been virtually eradicated in Canada, Col. Sharkey of the National Health Department said, and he paid tribute to the co-operation given by the Department in the general campaign to prevent the illegal use of narcotics.

The Young Men's Conservative Association

The Young Men's Conservative Association got away to an excellent start at Monday night's organization meeting. The large number of young men present, and the able manner in which many of them participated, along with more seasoned speakers, in the discussions of the evening, augurs well for the success of the Association.

DEMOCRACY MENACED

How much longer are we going to go on with our heads in the sand and wait for the enemy to walk up and make the killing. Why quibble about a few millions for roads, about a few millions for a Post Office there when the enemy will soon sink into our insignificance when our liberty or even our lives will not be at stake.

Utilization of a "death ray"

Utilization of a "death ray" contemplated by a human life is being real hospital, it is said. McGill University where scientists are studying the uses of the "death ray" is fatal to microbes. It is a simple ultra-violet lamp, capable of emitting rays of a certain wavelength.
