

Of all forms of Chewing Tobacco the PLUG is the best!

HALIFAX

Founded in 1748 and named after Lord Halifax, the metropolis of Nova Scotia abounds in historic spots inseparably associated with Canada's early days. Canada's first newspaper was published here in 1752.

A Valuable "Poker Hand" is now attached to each plug

THE Maritimes are fortunate in having such a wealth of historic spots—and fortunate, too, in having Big Ben Chewing Tobacco. Being in plug form, this full-flavoured tobacco stays fresh and moist—there is no crumbling, no waste, and the plug fits every pocket.

TRYON TID BITS

(By Elsmac.)

The ladies of the North Tryon Presbyterian congregation held a very successful Hallow'een Supper, at the home of Mrs. Sarah McKenzie, Tryon, on Thursday night. Plenty of tasty eats, including pumpkin pie, were there, and table after table filled with boys and girls of all ages from 15 to 80, meant that financially the supper was a success, and the pleased-expression on the faces of those who had the necessary 35 cents and used it to advantage left nothing further to add.

Mr. Joseph Thomson, of North Tryon, had the misfortune of losing a few days ago a valuable horse.

Mr. J. Erle Thomson was a visitor to Summerside on Monday evening.

It is currently reported that some of our athletically inclined boys have taken up boxing, and hope in a short time to leave the Island sod and carve for themselves a career of fistic fame.

Mr. Keith Thomas, our local barber, who for some time past has been engaged in harvesting his potatoes, is now back on the job regularly and the boys—yes, and the girls, too—are glad when they see the light once again in the widow of the local barber shop.

Mr. W. A. Pooley is busily engaged in harvesting what promises to be a bumper crop of Green Mountain seed potatoes, and is storing them in his potato house which he built last year in the rear of his garage and filling station.

Mr. A. A. Waddell made a business trip to Summerside on Wednesday.

That autumn is here there is "nary" a doubt for the dry leaves crackle under foot in every wood lot. "Spuds," once green, are dead and black, and the countryside is dotted with beacon fires as the farmers try to burn these useless tops, while the tubers themselves are safely housed. Never in the history of our province has nature been so bountiful as this year and while the price for potatoes is very low it will give everyone who has not yet tasted P. E. I. potatoes a chance to sample them at a price ridiculously low and when once having had the best procurable it is fairly certain these people will like all that have before eaten "spuds" from "Spud Island" ask for them always. So to all in foreign climes who read these crude Tid Bits, be wise and eat P. E. I. potatoes. They are the best.

Sitting here by myself I have just heard outside my window the honk-honk of wild geese flying very low. Soon they will be leaving for winter quarters.

Mr. C. E. Gamble, has traded his Dodge Coach and now sports a new Dodge Sedan.

Messrs Keith Thomas, Edward Trowsdale, and Sidney Dawson were Saturday evening visitors to Borden.

Victoria presents a scene of unusual activity, the result of the enterprise of the Potato Growers Ass'n in loading part of a shipload of seed. This is a great convenience to the growers of that vicinity and they are busily engaged in taking advantage of it.

Messrs Lloyd and Ralph Oakes, Westmoreland were visitors to Borden and Tryon on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gamble, and Misses Mary and Bae, spent the weekend in Charlottetown, guests of Mrs. Gamble's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Burke.

Mr. Holden Compton, St. Eleanor's motored to North Tryon Sunday where he visited Mr. and Amos McWilliams.

Miss Ethel Coombs, Charlottetown, is visiting in North Tryon the guest of Mrs. Amos McWilliams.

Messrs J. A. Thomson, Lou Mabey and Jennie Waddell motored to Charlottetown on Saturday evening and returned later that night accompanied by the Misses Marion Waddell and Marjorie McLean.

Mr. Willie Bell, accompanied by the Misses Florence Bell and Lilla Rogers, were visitors to Tryon on Sunday evening the guests of Mr. Stanley Thomson.

What might have been a serious motor accident, but which happily turned out otherwise, took place on the Bradford Road, Sunday afternoon when a Ford occupied by Mr. Russell Kaye, Sackville N. B. Mr. Robert Trenholm, and Cedric Campbell, and the Misses Margaret Gould and Willa Crossman Cape Traverse, skidded and crossing the gutter brought up in the bushes bringing the road. A somewhat scared party of motorists called on Mr. W.

REPORT OF CONVENTION

The Women's Institutes of Little Pond, Launching Place, St. George's and Bridgetown met in the hall at Bridgetown on Oct. 16 for their first District Convention. Each Institute was represented by two delegates, and other members from the several Institutes. The convention was under the direction of Supervisor Miss Schurman and her assistant Miss M. Saunders, Mrs. E. H. McDonald, President of Bridgetown Institute efficiently presided. Convention opened by singing the Institute Ode, followed by repeating, in concert, Club Women's Creed. An address of welcome was read by Mrs. Sterns and was pleasingly replied to by Miss Laura McDonald on behalf of the visiting delegates and members. Election of officers for next year followed. Mrs. E. H. McDonald being appointed president and Mrs. C. W. Ross, Secretary. An interesting history of each Institute from time of organization till the present time was read by a member from each branch which was much appreciated, and each Institute had an opportunity to be heard for home and country. Miss Schurman read a very interesting and instructive address by Dr. Tidmarsh, dealing with the scourge of tuberculosis and the best way of controlling it. Miss Sainders gave a demonstration on the making of woolen flowers. The lesson was enjoyed and appreciated and was quickly learned by the ladies present. Bridgetown ladies entertained the delegates at tea. In the evening a public meeting was held in the hall. There was a very good attendance considering the short notice. The meeting opened with community singing. Dr. McDonald, St. Peter's, addressed the meeting with a discourse on tuberculosis, its symptoms, prevention, control and cure, for which he received a hearty vote of thanks. He further entertained the meeting by giving a recitation and the genial doctor proved to all present that he has a worth-while accomplishment as a side line to his profession. A solo by Mrs. Wadman and one by Mr. W. Burdett also added to the evening's enjoyment. Miss Laura McDonald read a paper on "The Unexpected Guest" and Mrs. Sterns one on "The Ideal Member." The Supervisor then made a few remarks regarding the singing of the National Anthem brought our first District Convention to a close.
