BOSTON'S MAYOR ORDERS TIGHTS OR STOCKINGS.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Even the so-called classic Greek dancers must wear tights or stockings when they appear in Boston theatres hereafter under an order made today by Mayor Curley, who recently ordered more clothes for the chorus of "The Passing Show."
 "I told the managers," said the mayor, "that I had no objection to Harry Lauder appearing in tights, but that if sitting in the front row I would rather see actresses and chorus girls in tights and stockings than bare-legged. The theatre men agree to discontinue the objectionable practice. I told them that the classic dancers must be properly clothed; that to let down the bars at the opera house would be to take greater liberty at the burlesque houses."

Renewed Vigor in Old Age

THIS LETTER BRINGS A MESSAGE OF CHEER TO THE AGED—RESULTS OF USING DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

New, rich blood is what is most needed in the declining years to keep up energy and vitality. That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a wonderful help in maintaining good health and prolonging life is attested by the writer of this letter.

Mr. Stephen J. Leard, North Tryon P. E. I., writes: "At seventy-five years of age my heart gave out and became very irregular and weak in action and would palpitate. My nerves also became weak, and I could do nothing but lie in bed in a languishing condition, losing strength and weight. In that condition I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am cured. Had I not obtained this treatment I would now be in the hospital with the roof over my nose. At eighty-one I have an energy which means go, and I am writing this letter so that old people like myself may prolong their health and strength by using this great medicine." 50c a box, 6 for $2.50. For sale by all dealers.

IMPOSSIBLE TO CIRCLE BRITAIN WITH MINES.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Commenting on the rumours from Berlin that Germany intends encircling the British Isles with a chain of submarine mines, an American naval officer, who is an authority on mines, said today that such a feat was utterly impossible. It would require more than 2,000,000 mines, he said, and Germany did not possess a tenth of that number and could not manufacture 500,000 if she wanted to. Submarines are practically valueless in mine-laying it appears, for the reason that they cannot carry enough mines to make so perilous a trip worth while.

The American officer questioned does not believe that there are more than 300 mines off the Irish coast, which should be easily guarded against. In his opinion these mines must have been laid by some ship flying a neutral flag which brought them from some Scandinavian port. It is not likely that more than one ship could sneak past the cordon of British cruisers, and one vessel couldn't carry more than 300 mines. The officer also remarked that he deemed it impossible that any floating mines had been used by either side, as these are worthless except under circumstances that have not yet arisen in this war.

ENGLISH WOMEN AID THOSE WITHOUT WORK

Many Orders for Work Have Been Secured by Committee Dealing With Problem

LONDON, Nov. 6.—English women are taking in hand the problem of looking after women thrown out of employment by the war and are handling the situation in a masterly way.

An English magazine says, "The Central Committee on Women's Employment, working on behalf of the Queen's Work for Women Fund, have had considerable success with their efforts. They have been instrumental in securing several orders for work-rooms, which otherwise might have been closed to completely close down and thus throw several hands out of employment. In one particular instance the workrooms of a West-end dressmaking business in London have been practically idle, since the beginning of war. Only a third of the workgirls were employed, and these were only working half-time. Through the committee, an order for five hundred soldiers' shirts was lodged here, this meaning the employment of nine extra girls at once. Subsequently another order was given to the youthful proprietress, in connection with Queen Mary's gift of the Women of the Empire's gift of socks and belts to the troops at the front."

GOOD WAGES ARE PAID.

"The order was for no fewer than ten thousand belts, this meaning work for forty or fifty girls for at least a month. The girls will earn good wages and the dread bogey of unemployment be removed from them for the time being. The training of the women in the workrooms project is in hand. These workers must not be confused with the trained nurse. The idea of the sickroom help is that she should help the ill and ailing mother of a family who cannot see to her domestic duties herself. She will do the housework and cooking and washing besides making herself generally useful. Twenty-five unemployed women are to be trained at once for this purpose by the Plaitow Maternity Charity and District Nurses' Home. This will be in the nature of an experiment, but should the experiment prove successful, the idea will be enlarged and several different districts will read the benefit. The great object of the Queen's Work for Women Fund is to provide employment instead of giving charitable doles to those who are out of work, and every practical scheme to this end is being pursued."

FARMERS SHOULD GROW MORE HOGS.

SEATTLE, Nov. 5.—Owing very largely to conditions in the south brought on by the European war, the hog market of the United States has been in an ideal condition from the standpoint of the hog raiser or the packer, but the government advises from Washington indicate that they are on the mend and that the farmer who a few months from now has a crop of hogs will reap a sizable harvest. The American packers aim about this time of the year to clean out the stock they have on hand and to be in the market for a fresh supply. The south has always been a great market for the "clean-up" but this year, owing to the inability of the south to dispose of its cotton, money in that section has been scarce and as a result the American packer has not found the south crying for his product. On the contrary sales in that section have decidedly fallen off and the packer is turning to an end—there has been more or less of a slump in the hog market but the U. S. government officials agree that the slump is only temporary and urge farmers to continue feeding and have their stock in fine shape for spring when the demand will be enormous. Just how the European war will end no one pretends to say but it is certain that it cannot last many more weeks. The great loss of life coupled with the enormous cost are bound to be the two great factors in bringing it to an end—many experts predict by the first of the new year. As soon as it does end the prediction is freely made that the price of hogs will soar and as a result government officials are saying to hog-raisers: "Hold on to your stock, feed them, and get them into prime condition for the spring market—it will pay you."

THE HAPPINESS FLOWER.

"Did you ever find the Happiness Flower?
 It isn't so hard to find—
 It opens wide at the morning hour
 In the meadows of Cheerful Mind.
 But it sometimes grows in the sandy dust
 That fills the desert of Care,
 And down in the fields of perfect Trust,
 You will always find it there.

"It's as sweet as honey, the Happiness Flower.
 Winter and Summer the same;
 On the Difficult Hills by Troublesome Tower,
 It shines like a very flame.
 It never wilts in the glare of Pride,
 Or breaks in the wind of Woe,
 But softly under its leaves will hide
 The light of its lovely glow.

"If you ever find the Happiness Flower—
 And it isn't so hard to find—
 By the rainbow's end in an April shower,
 Where the tears and the smiles are twined;
 May it flourish fair in your garden ground,
 Aglisten with joy's bright dew,
 May the sunshine of Love the whole year round
 Lie warm on your Flower—and you."

PLAY THE GAME!

There's a breathless hush in the close to-night—
 Ten to one and the match to win—
 Pumping pitch and a blinding light,
 An hour to play and the last man in.

And it's not for the sake of a ribboned coat,
 Or the selfish hope of a season's fame,
 But his captain's hand on his shoulder smote—
 "Play up, play up! and play the game!"

The sand of the desert is sodden red,
 Red with the wreck of the square that broke;
 The galling's jammed and the colonel dead,
 And the regiment blind with dust and smoke.

The river of Death has brimmed its banks,
 And England's far and honour—a name,
 But the voice of a schoolboy rallies the ranks:
 "Play up, play up! and play the game!"

This is the word that year by year,
 While in her place the school is set
 Every one of her sons must hear,
 And none that hear it dare forget.
 This they all, with a joyful mind,
 Hear through life like a torch in flame,
 And fling, fling to the host behind:
 "Play up, play up! and play the game!"

LORD LORIS IS KILLED.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—It is announced that James Hennessy's chestnut horse, Lord Loris, who had captured many prize turf events and brought its owner a fortune in purses, was killed while serving at the front as an officer's mount.

The horse had been ridden by the jockey, Alec Carter, who was recently killed while serving in action as a captain of the French dragoons.

The army, in requisitioning the horse, paid his owner 4,000 francs ($800).

ECONOMY IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, November 7.—The economy being practised by English women at present is causing lack of work in certain branches of trade. At a meeting of relatively unemployed people it was stated that one-third of the 66,000 dressmakers in London are on short time, because, even the well-to-do are buying cheap, ready-made clothing. It was also said that one-fourth of the 14,000 millinery workers are on short time, due to women buying hats which are cheaply trimmed.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The gravity of the epidemic of foot and mouth disease affecting the cattle in the middle west was driven home to cattle men today by Dr. S. E. Burnett, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, who answered the protests of certain interests by asserting that the slaughter of suspected animals would be cheap at a cost of $10,000,000, compared with the incalculable loss which a general spread of the malady would incur.

Representatives of the Federal Government yesterday were in favor of closing the Chicago stock yards, the largest in the world, and an order to that effect was rescinded only after prolonged argument. The possibility of such action is not yet past. In fact Governor Dunne, in conference with State and Federal Government representatives and meat packers vetoed a renewed proposal to close the yards. The status of the quarantine, therefore, depends on future developments.

Among the packers today, it was said that the immediate situation market where it must be killed in should make for lower prices as it was thought that cattle growers, rather than risk disease among their herds would rush their live stock to mediately.

A thousand men were engaged at the yards today thoroughly disinfecting the pens and runways. One case of the malady appeared and was isolated for complete observation by the scientists. Inspectors in the field were reinforced and a thoroughly farm-to-farm inspection was put fully under way.

CONSERVING $1,400,000,000 A YEAR.

Let us get a notion of what this industrial fabric is that Canadian citizens are asked to maintain by taking part in the "Made-in-Canada" movement. In a matter of cold cash, it is an investment of $1,500,000,000 in factories and equipment. It is an annual output of $1,400,000,000. It is a yearly wages and salary list of $288,000,000. These are figures that entitle Canada to be considered as a great industrial nation in the making. They are figures that if used a few decades ago by England, the United States or Germany might have been made the subject of great orations. The sum total of Canada's share in the world's work represented by smokestacks and box-cars and payrolls is a great fabric of business that has become a source of pride to a young nation. We boast of our railway system, our empire of farm lands, our free institutions, our worthy pioneers and our determined, clean-handed people. Let us also boast of the 23,000 factories that have become one of the bulwarks of the nation.

To help maintain this national asset is the privilege as well as to the advantage of every man and woman in Canada. This industrial fabric must not be endangered by war. It must be conserved, and in conserving it, we serve our interests in obtaining better values, in many cases in saving money, and making ourselves more prosperous. 6442.
