FORMERLY OF CHARLOTTETOWN

Pat Shea, Night Watchman at South Boston Wen. up Against Cop—Lively Scuffle.

The following from the Boston Herald will be of interest to many in Charlottetown who were acquainted with one of the principals. Shea was well known in this city and was quite a character here in his time. He worked at one time in the P. E. I. Railway shops and was later a guard in Dorchester Penitentiary.

The Herald says:—
"He met unexpectedly in the yard of a barrel factory situated at the junction of B and First streets, South Boston, and before it was over they both wished they hadn't."

"What's your business, prowling around here?" gasped Patrick Shea, the regular night watchman. He was trembling some, for he had come face to face with the other and halted with a jerk. The heaps of barrels threw shifting shadows, and anyway, the locality wasn't the most congenial at such an hour.

"Better explain your own presence," was the gruff reply as the crouching man drew back and—but let Shea, the star of the in the unpleasant episode, finish the story.

"That's how the true version leaked. It was the Fourth of July, and the management thought it best to put on an extra watchman to guard against fires. Well, that was all right, only they forgot to introduce us. He was doing his duty, and so was I, only he was coward enough to draw a knife, like a blamed foreigner. "Do I carry weapons? Not on your life. Nature's weapons—these curling two horny fists—are good enough for me, and I wager he thought 'em good enough for him before I finished. Why didn't he explain, instead of takin' the defensive? No, sir, I never carried a gun in my life. The superintendent advised me to when I took the job, but I told him I'd look out for my part of it.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER OF BOY

SHENBROOKE, August 17.—About six o'clock last evening at Orford Mountain railway construction camp, between Windsor Mills and Melbourne, Drake Andoska, 12 years old, an Italian lad, was shot down in cold blood. The boy was the son of Frank Andoska, who runs a canteen at the camp. Six o'clock had sounded and the work was over for the day. The stable in front of him was a horse and cart which belonged to Contractor Todd. At the moment of shooting young Todd was the only one in a position to witness the attack. He, however, was in front and did not actually see the shooting, but hearing the report, turned and saw an Italian appearing in the bushes. It appears that as the lad passed along the road, the murderer stepped from cover at the side, and levelling the gun in absolute cold blood, without a word, shot down the youth. The shot passed through the boy's body in the vicinity of his heart. He fell from the horse dead.

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere, and since out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Obe W. Wimer, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customers, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell and recommend this preparation." For sale by all druggists.
