"DUKE OF CHICAGO"
FAST - ACTION DRAMA OF THE PRIZE RING

Some of the greatest fight scenes ever put on film blend with a heart-warming and chuckle-filled romance to make Republic's "Duke of Chicago" which opens today at the "Empire" Theatre, one of the most delightful and entertaining pictures to come along in a good while.

Based on an original screen play by Albert De Mond, the picture revolves around the difficulties of a middleweight champion who is forced to return to the ring in order to earn some quick money to save his book-publishing business from ruin.

Tom Brown enacts the title role with all the skill and charm of the veteran actor that he, and blonde and lovely Audrey Long contributes strongly as the girl who believes in her man despite anything that happens to him.

Championship Fight
During the movie, which is told in the same length of time that it takes to fight a 15-round bout, the behind-the-scenes story of a championship prize-fight is told. "Duke of Chicago" emphasizes the clean side of boxing, pointing out that the majority of fighters are honest and clean-living men.
