AN AUCTION AT THRUMS

(London Exchange). Sir J. M. Barrie, who is on holiday in Glen Prosen, was warmly welcomed in his native town of Kirriemuir on Saturday, when he presided over the opening ceremony of a bazaar in the Town Hall in aid of the funds of the Town Band. Thousands of people watched his arrival, and inside the hall, which is just across the road from the little house where he was born, there was not a vacant seat. Sir James said that after all that Provost Peacock, the chairman, had said about him, instead of going on being modest, he was going to give it up at once. Instead, he would tell them of a little compliment paid to him about a week ago by a person whom he would describe as the most delicious lady in the land on the occasion of her third birthday not far from there. "She was sitting gazing with entranced delight at one of her birthday presents. It was a little toy table with two painted flower pots on it, each about the size of a thimble. I said to her, 'Is that really yours?' and she said at once 'It is yours and mine.' I cannot pretend (continued Sir James), that I am able to have such a pretty thought as that, but I think in the circumstances I may be allowed to borrow the Princess Margaret's phrase and say 'Oh Kirriemuir, if there is grace in me that is worthy of sharing, it is all yours and mine.' "Except, perhaps, my canary," hastily added Sir James. Some of you may remember that when I was here last I told you about a canary which Mr. Robb (an old Kirriemuir friend) had presented to me. Mr. Robb did me an ill turn when he gave me that canary. It is a funny little animal, really. I sometimes feel when I look at it carrying on in my flat in come up to join the band. I have looked him, but there is no saying "Same as me," and he wanted to London—it is nearly always out of band being musicians, he piped up the cage—I sometimes think as Adam must sometimes have said to himself and as many another Adam has probably said since about many another Eve, namely, "Since I was tied to this creature I can neither live with her nor without her." The Two K's He is an illiterate bird. He thinks there are only two words in the language which begin with the letter K—Kirriemuir and Canary. Would you like to know how he found out that I was coming to Glen Prosen, I found him hopping about my luggage trying to read the labels. I carefully avoided telling him about this bazaar, but somehow he got wind of it, and when he heard about the town he might be here at this moment, most probably in the roof. I now propose, with your consent, to turn myself illegally into an auctioneer. There has been put into my possession a very interesting relic of the past. It was presented to me most generously by a daughter of a Kirriemurian, well remembered, much loved in his day, and a famous musician—the man who created the Kirriemuir Town Band. I mean Mr. George Deuchar. She has presented the very clarinet on which he played on the first day of the town band marched to the Den or anywhere else. He played it for years and years. Yesterday I think was the fiftieth year since his death. The "auctioneer" then accepted imaginary bids from his friends until the clarinet was about to be knocked down for £40, when he sold it to himself for £50. He then presented it to the town, expressing the hope that it would be the beginning of an interesting collection of articles which would commemorate the wonderful character of that town of towns. The bazaar realized £230. Brown leaned over the garden fence. "I say, old fellow," he said to his neighbour, "I understand that you have Thomson's new rake." The neighbour nodded. "Good," said Brown. "If you'll let me borrow that occasionally, I'll let you use Jones's roller whenever you need it."

Importance of Culling the Herd

(Experimental Farms Note) The cost of maintaining a poor producing cow is as great as that of a high producer. The extra production secured, is at a low unit cost and represents the return necessary to cover the overhead charges and leave a profit for the owner. For example, in 1932 twenty-five cows completed lactation periods at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S. Eight of these produced less than 5000 pounds of milk in the period. These eight averaged 4521 pounds of milk, 241 pounds of fat, at a feed cost of $55.18. The remaining seventeen averaged 7373 pounds of milk, 376 pounds of fat, at a feed cost of $68.68. The difference amounting to 2852 pounds of milk containing 135 pounds of fat was produced at a cost of $13.50, equal to 47 cents per hundred weight of milk or 10 cents per pounds of fat, certainly much lower than the average price received in any district in Eastern Canada. During the development of the Grade herd at this Farm some years ago, it was found that heifers producing an average of 3819 pounds of 4 per cent milk as two year olds, only averaged 4173 pounds as three year olds and 4899 pounds as four years of age. Those with an average of 5621 pounds as two year olds increased to 6819 pounds and 7238 pounds the following two years respectively. The poorer group returned over feed cost $14.03, $22.07 and $26.67 each year, while the higher producers averaged $31.74, $49.90 and $56.57 respectively, or a total increase of $75.39 in net returns over feed cost in the three year period. Many farmers, who have kept records conscientiously over a period of years, are in a position to cull their herds intelligently and realize the value of this method of herd improvement. Those not following this practice would find it profitable to do so, both as individuals and also in order that Eastern Canada may take its place as one of the leading live stock centres in North America, a position it rightfully should have. He paused for breath. "Then you must climb up to the sixth floor, drag her to the parapet, and brace yourself against a chimney, hurl her out into space. She catches a window-ledge in her fall, and—" "Spoke I drop her?" hazarded the actor. "Well, you'll have to pick her up and begin all over again."

LAYMEN SAY CHANGE JAPAN MISSION NEED

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A layman's fact finding commission reported yesterday the need of "radical changes" in missionary program, personnel and method for effective administration of Christian missionary work in Japan. The report was made public by Albert L. Scott, chairman of the Laymen's Foreign Missions Inquiry as supplementary material extending the report recently made by the inquiry's commission of appraisal. "That radical changes are necessary in missionary program, personnel and method appears to be the conclusion indicated by the evidence presented in the (sectional) reports," the statement said. "In this conclusion representative Christian and non-Christian Japanese and a surprisingly large number of experienced missionaries agree. The changes called for include both general attitudes and specific policies. The Japanese wish not to be patronized but to be respected. Instead of condescension from Christians of the West they crave equality. In confidential interviews most of the leaders of the Japanese churches declared that no more missionaries should be sent for evangelistic work. "The stigma of domination by the missionary administrator and propagandist, however well intentioned, is keeping a considerable number of outstanding Japanese Christians from taking part in the work of the churches. "All you have to do," said the film producer to the cinema star, "is to seize the woman in your arms, jump on top of a passing taxi, and jump from there to the fire escape of the building in the corner." He paused for breath. "Then you must climb up to the sixth floor, drag her to the parapet, and brace yourself against a chimney, hurl her out into space. She catches a window-ledge in her fall, and—" "Spoke I drop her?" hazarded the actor. "Well, you'll have to pick her up and begin all over again."

Misses Margaret and Mary Flynn left yesterday morning by motor on return to Boston, Mass., after spending a vacation with their mother, Mrs. John Flynn, St. Peter's Bay. Misses Gertrude and Eleanor Walker returned to Somerville, Mass., to resume their studies, after spending the vacation with their grandfather, Thomas Gillan, 52 Edward Street, who accompanied them to Moncton.

A motor party consisting of Mrs. Margaret Clough, Mrs. Martina Cameron, Mr. William Clough, of South Boston, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. John O. Cameron, of Boston, Mass., Master "Buddy" Hapnelle, of Dorchester, Mass., and Miss Mary Gillis, of Bristol, Conn., returned to their homes last week, after spending a most enjoyable three weeks vacation visiting relatives and friends on the Island.

IN MEMORIAM WALLACE PICKARD

The sad news was received yesterday by Mr. L. C. Worthy of the sudden passing in Winnipeg of Wallace Pickard. There were no particulars. Before removing West about thirty years ago, the deceased, who was familiarly known as "Wallie" was employed at Prowse Bros, having charge of the Gen's Furnishings.

He was a familiar figure in athletic circles, being a crack bicycle rider in addition to his prowess on the football field and hockey arena and will be remembered as one of the first hockeyists in the old Hillsboro Rink—now the Agricultural Hall.

The late Mr. Pickard was one of the number who promoted the present Abegweit Athletic Grounds and was always foremost in all athlete's undertakings. Since removing to Winnipeg he was most successful in all his business undertakings and a few years ago retired from active business life.

Interment will take place in Winnipeg.

ARCHAEOLOGISTS LOCATE TOWN

MARTRES, France, Sept. 15.—(C. P.)—Traces of an important Gallo-Roman establishment on the site of this town have been discovered by archaeologists. Diggings brought to light a number of objects of great historical interest, among them a beautiful draped bust in Pyrenean marble and fragments of architectural sculpture.

Pleasant Vacation In the Southland (Oakland Maple Leaf)

Mrs. M. C. Kelly, of Oakland, accompanied by her daughter Dorothy, enjoyed a pleasant vacation in Southern California this month. The 1,000-mile round trip was made by stage, and proved pleasurable and comfortable, the accommodations being excellent. Asked to write a brief account of her visit for "The Maple Leaf," Mrs. Kelly kindly contributed the following. "My visit to Los Angeles this year was made more delightful than ever before, as it gave me the unusual privilege of visiting at the home of my brother, John A. Campbell, whom I had not seen for over 20 years. "During those 20 years my brother had been in the employ of the United States Government in Panama. He is now retired and living in Los Angeles with his wife (formerly Miss Nellie McAuley of East Point) and his two daughters, Misses Marion and Hazel Campbell. Through the kindness of these young women, with the aid of the family car, we were enabled to see more of the Los Angeles and environs than on previous occasions. But of greater interest to my brother, my sister-in-law and myself was the recollection of incidents and happenings of our younger days in our old home around Sour's, Little Harbour and the East Point, Prince Edward Island. "Among our enjoyable evenings was the August reunion and dance held at the Chateau Auditorium, under the auspices of the Canadian Society of Southern California, where it was our pleasure to meet old and new friends. On this particular evening the hostess was Mrs. Florence C. Casler, (known as the Canadian Queen Builder of Los Angeles) assisted by Mrs. Jennie Hurd. The president of the Club is Colonel A. G. Pomesca. The Club is in excellent condition, with a large membership. The meetings are always entertaining and visitors from afar always welcome. "Mrs. Florence C. Casler was born in Ontario, the daughter of Hugh and Harriett (Rice) Sherks. Her husband's name was John M. Casler (now deceased). The children are Grace (Mrs. McInerney) and Ruth M. Casler. "After a successful career in Buffalo, N.Y., Mrs. Casler transferred her activities to Los Angeles in 1912 where she entered the construction business in addition to controlling and managing the Allied Crafts and other buildings. Mrs. Casler is president of the Casler Construction Company, of which her two daughters are directors. She is said to be the first woman director of a bank in Los Angeles, and has been associated in many organizations for the benefit and upbuilding of her adopted city. "Another pleasant event we were delighted to experience was one day deep sea fishing on the ocean aboard the Star of Scotland. This fishing barge de Luxe is owned by Captain C. A. Morris, a native of Advocate Harbour, Nova Scotia, who operates pleasure and fishing boats from Santa Monica Pier, all of which are well patronized all the year round. "Captain Morris was master of steamships out of Seattle from 1903 to 1918. (U.S.N.) Lieutenant from 1918 to 1921 in Santa Monica. Has been a resident of Santa Monica since 1922. He is a cousin of Capt. T. E. Morris who was drowned in Santa Monica in 1926. The captain is a typical Nova Scotian, always pleased to meet Maritime Province people and extend to them the hospitality so characteristic of the natives from the Provinces down by the sea. I wish to tell my friends from the north that a visit to the south will not be complete unless they go deep sea fishing on the Star of Scotland. Capt. Morris is a descendant of Robert Morris, banker, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. "A Canadian Frolic in one of the local halls, and a Surprise Party given by Mrs. Casler and her daughters, together with a number of friends, at the Campbell home, brought our two weeks' vacation to a close. "I wish to return my sincere thanks, through "The Maple Leaf," to all the good friends it was my pleasure to meet, many of whom for lack of space, it is impossible to mention in this brief account."—Minnie (Campbell) Kelly.
