

New Here But Familiar In Many Canada Cities

Fifteen Thousand Families Tried Vicks Last Winter and are Enthusiastic. ACTS SO INSTANTLY AND SO DIRECTLY. Here's the successful new method of treating any kind of a cold...

Tested in 15,000 Homes. Over 15,000 families in Ontario and Quebec tried Vicks last winter by invitation of the manufacturer...

Vicks is an ideal remedy for children, applied externally, no dosing to upset their stomachs. Good for head colds, chest colds, tonsillitis, catarrh, sore throat or hoarseness...

How Vicks is Used. Mrs. J. Saunders of 235 Barton St. East, Hamilton, Ont., says: "I was bothered with asthma and a very bad cold in my chest. I applied Vicks VapoRub, rubbing it on with my fingers and found it gave me wonderful relief..."

Mr. Joseph Haley of 199 West Milk St., Brantford, Ont., says: "My wife has suffered with quinsy for years, but Vicks must have prevented it for she got thru the winter without a single attack..."

Mrs. Wilton Bull of 979 Tupper St., Montreal, says: "I find Vicks VapoRub one of the finest salves I ever used. We use it for cuts, burns, and bruises and even mosquito bites, with most excellent results..."

BIG RUSH AT P. O.: The staff of the Summerside post office was seldom so busy, even in the greatest Christmas rush, as was the case Saturday evening last, when the whole week's mail train and team from Borden, Postmaster Hunt, with his staff were kept busy, and passed out to the public good service.

CIVIC AFFAIRS: Within the next month the civic elections will be held in Summerside, and as usual some predictions are being made as to possible candidates. It is understood that a well known Water Street merchant will be in the field. Another possible candidate is talked of. It is predicted that a number will line up for Council. The past year or two seats have been in order by acclamation, and by the looks of things at present, many business men of town will offer this year and when elected will no doubt conduct the town's business from the broadest standpoint of citizenship.

PERSONALS: Mr. Ralph Drundage of Halifax, was in Summerside Tuesday on business. Mr. Sandy McGregor is visiting Port Elgin, N. B. Captain Goodwin of the Salvation Army, Summerside, left on a business trip to Montreal, Tuesday.

Mr. Colin H. Stewart, Summerside, left on Tuesday morning for Montreal where he will attend the Automobile Show. Mr. Edmond Doucette, who underwent an operation in the Prince County Hospital Monday, is doing as well as can be expected.

Mr. Bruce Huggan of the Eastern Hat and Cap Co., Charlottetown, was in Summerside Tuesday in the interest of the above firm. Mr. E. H. Raynor arrived home from the mainland on Tuesday's train, which was delayed making connections with the Car Ferry, which crossed Tuesday morning.

Wgy Program

Each week finds the WGY Players and their dramatic offerings increasing in popularity among the radio listeners. Correspondents living in the country and in the woods, invalids, the aged and patients of institutions and lonely workers on lightships at sea are especially enthusiastic in their praise and expressions of appreciation.

MONTEAGUE: St. Andrew's Church, Sunday Jan. 28, services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.; Sunday School at 10 a. m.; Lower Montague at 3 p. m.; annual meeting of the congregation on Wednesday, Jan. 31st at 8 p. m.; all members are requested to attend.

THANKS: Mr. James Murphy of Montague, through the columns of the press wishes to thank the neighbors, and all other kind friends, for the many expressions of sympathy, and for their kindness to him in his recent sad bereavement, the death of his wife.

WELCOMED HOME: We are pleased to see Mrs. Crawford and her little daughter Donald back to Montague again. Mrs. Crawford has been teaching in the Canadian West for the past year, but in winter some of the schools close down owing to their exposed position. She may return in March.

GOOD SHOWING: The splendid vote recorded in Montague in favor of prohibiting the import of liquor, is due in a large measure to the work done by some of the women, who made a thorough canvass of the town. The extending of the franchise to the women proved a serious blow to John Barleycorn.

HORSE NOTE: British Soldier, the trotting horse owned by Mr. Russel McGregor, Montague, caused quite a stir a few days ago by running away and hurting his shoulder so badly that the coming race will not see him in action. Much to the regret of the admirers of this speedy animal.

NOT A SIGN OF PROGRESS: In most districts on the island the rule has been that the number of telephones on the line, rural or company, always increase. The sick times are changing this procedure, they are now being dispensed with. On one Eastern line three telephones have been dispensed with in the past few months on the plea that the rental fees were more than they could afford.

TO RESUME BUSINESS: We are delighted to see our old, tried and true friend Mr. Murdoch McKeggan back to Montague, after having spent the past ten years in Sydney. The pleasant memories of old times in Montague, apparently proved too much for Mr. McKeggan, and much to our delight, he is again classed as one of our most honorable, upright, and respected citizens. Mr. McKeggan intends opening up a combined shoe making and saddlery business and will fill a long felt want. He has leased the rooms adjoining the Men's Furnishing and Clothing store of Mr. John P. McPherson.

WHIST PARTY: The members of the Little Pond Whist Club met Tuesday evening, Jan. 22nd at the home of Mr. Alex. A. McDonald. About forty guests were present and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald are noted for being entertainers and gave each guest a hearty welcome and spared no trouble to make each one comfortable. The highest number of points were scored by Mr. Edward Macdonald, Mr. Joseph McCormack, Miss Mary A. Macdonald and Miss Margaret McCormack. The prizes were drawn by Mr. Edward Macdonald and Miss McCormack. The consolation prizes were won by Mr. Vincent Macdonald and Miss Annie Macdonald. An excellent lunch was served by Mrs. Macdonald and an hour's dancing enjoyed. Special mention might be made of an eight handed reel in which some of the senior members took part, and showed the young folk how to trip the light fantastic in right good style. A few words in appreciation of the club were spoken by Mr. A. D. MacDonald, who cordially invite the club to his home for the next party. All joined in singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "She's a Jolly Fine Lady". Every one seemed so merry and happy that the party could be styled a good old fashioned New Year time.

SHOT AS TRAITOR IN 1914, Honor of Smith Vindicated: PARIS, Jan. 25.—Guy de Maupeasant in his most powerful tales of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 does not attain the heights of simple tragedy of the pitiful story of Julien Strimelle, the village blacksmith of Boussols, who was wrongfully shot as a spy on the ramparts of Maubeuge in 1914, and whose innocence was proclaimed today after eight long years of sorrow by his widow. It was September 14, on the very eve of the fall of the fortress, that Strimelle fell from the bullet of his own countrymen, who believed he was a traitor to France. Strimelle's smitely was situated in the little village of Boussols, on the outskirts of Maubeuge, close to the fort bearing the same name. On September 1, the village was bombarded heavily by the enemy. All the men of military age were gone excepting Strimelle, who because of his utility to the military, was kept working at his forge. Women, old men and children were hiding in cellars. Suddenly the soldiers from the fort saw amidst the bursting shells two pigeons rise from the smithy. That was enough for them. A few moments later three soldiers rushed the smithy and seized Strimelle and dragged him before the military officers. Strimelle was a spy, they had seen the pigeons released from his house while he was the only living being above ground. Only one conclusion was possible. He must die the ignominious death of a traitor. While Strimelle was being dragged through the streets of Maubeuge by the excited soldiers, three territorialists who had lost their heads completely under the strain of events—the furious populace fell upon Strimelle, and when he reached the military headquarters it was as a shattered, man-handled wreck, bleeding from countless wounds, hardly able to stand up and with one of his eyes gouged out. Fainted and hardly conscious of what was happening, Strimelle was unable to say a word in his own defence, except to deny the accusation brought against him. His silence was considered an admission of guilt, and three days later, on the eve of the fall of Maubeuge, the unfortunate smith fell, riddled with the bullets of the firing squad. But the truth he was unable to tell then is being told today by his widow, who has opened promemoria free from the shameful verdict and pronounced as innocent victim of those terrible days. Strimelle, like many another blacksmith, was a great big simple fellow. He loved his two children passionately, but in his big war heart there was a place for other affections, including his favorite pets, two pigeons, which he kept close beside him in a special cage in the forge. A German shell which burst on that fateful morning injured just one of the smithy hurried the cage to the ground and the frightened pigeons, escaped and fluttered through the open door. The soldiers saw them and that was enough evidence to condemn the poor man.
