Carleton and Vicinity

Miss Mary McCarville of Everett, Mass., is enjoying a pleasant holiday in Carleton, the guest of her cousin, Miss Myrtle McCarville.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Deegan, Mr. Ernest Deegan, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Muttart and Miss Mary Muttart, all of Carleton, motored to Cavendish on Sunday where they were the guests of Mrs. Sadie Bryanton.

Mrs. G. A. O'Hara of Cambridge, Mass., is visiting in Cape Traverse, the guest of Miss Nona Wright and Mrs. Mattie Dunn.

Her many friends will regret to learn that Mrs. Eldon Large of Albany has entered the Prince County Hospital, where she underwent an appendicitis operation Tuesday morning.

Mrs. J. P. Beer of Montague, returning from a trip to Halifax, where her son Kenneth is a student in Dalhousie University, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. W. E. Bell of Carleton.

The monthly Young People's service at Cape Traverse United Church on Sunday evening, Sept. 6th, was in charge of the Young People's Union and was conducted by the President, Miss Eleanor Bell. Miss Mildred Muttart read the Scripture and the Young People's choir, under the leadership of Mrs. E. W. Harper, led in the singing of the hymn "O for a closer walk with God." "Lord, I was blind, I could not see." "Oh, Love, that will not let me go" and rendered as an anthem George Matheson's beautiful hymn "Make me a captive, Lord." The pastor, Rev. Arthur Organ of Bedeque delivered a splendid sermon on the subject "The tragedy of unconscious degeneration" from the text "And he said, not that the Lord was departing from him." A feature of the service was the presentation by the Young People's Union to the church of twenty hymnaries.—D.

SIX POSTS FILLED

For the two year period as provided in the act the directors will be Herbert J. Symington, K.C., Montreal, and the representative to be chosen by labor organizations. For one year periods the appointees are Donald H. McDougall, mining engineer of Stellarton, N. S., and Montreal, and Robert J. Moffatt, a prominent farmer of Bradwell, Sask., and director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Regional Committees

The board will be asked to consider advisability of appointing regional advisory committees to cooperate with the directors in each of the Atlantic and western regions.

Chairman Hungerford will receive a salary of $30,000 annually while the directors will each receive $5,000. It was felt necessary, the Prime Minister said, to select the majority from points adjacent to the head office because of the likelihood of frequent meetings.

In permitting the railway workers themselves to nominate a member of the directorate the Prime Minister said the government was taking a step which he believed industry in general might well follow. This, Mr. Mackenzie King said, would give a voice not only to those who invest their money in the system, but to those who invest their lives and their brains in the operation of the road.

Eligible for Reappointment

In accordance with the act, and to provide continuity of the board, directors are appointed for three, two and one year terms, but all may be eligible for reappointment.

At the last session of Parliament an amendment was adopted to the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act of 1933 authorizing return to the board of directors system of controlling the Canadian National. The 1933 legislation had abolished the board and appointed three trustees with wide powers who took over Jan. 1, 1934.

Former Judge C. P. Fullerton resigned his post as chairman of the board of railway commissioners to head the trustee board and his associates were J. E. Labelle, Montreal and F. K. Morrow, Toronto. It is understood some compensation will be provided for Mr. Fullerton and his associates who are to be retired.

In conferences now proceeding between Railways Minister C. D. Howe and officials of railway unions both international and Canadian will decide the machinery under which the men will choose their representative on the board. If agreement is not reached among the union officials the question may be settled by ballot among Canadian National workers.

NINE GOVERNORS

When she died in India the latter part of May, her estate, mostly property in England, was left to her husband. Thus he became a property owner in the town of Bridgewater.

Rev. J. A. McKean, who holds a slightly larger interest than Gandhi in the 10-acre pasture, inherited it from his mother, who was a daughter of the original owner, William Ross.

For a short time after Miss Chesley's will was probated there was some speculation as to whether or not Gandhi might have inherited some shares in a Nova Scotia fishing schooner but later it was ascertained that most of the estate was in England.

Known as Tarabon in Madha and Betul, where she spent most of her time among the poor, Miss Chesley met death unexpectedly in the journeying to Badrikader in the Himalayas, where she planned a pilgrimage with three women from Madha, she was taken ill with a cold after passing Richkosh on the southern bank of the Ganges. Decease not to turn back, she marched on with her kit on her back but at last broke down and was taken to the nearest hospital.

There she died and was cremated according to medie rites.

WAR NOT A NATURAL HUMAN INSTINCT CLAIM

(By Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Editor)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 9.—War is a "dated" institution, not a natural human instinct, but something which developed with civilization, Bonislav Malinowski, London anthropologist, told the Harvard tercentenary today in a symposium of "factors determining human behavior."

Although war entered fairly late in the development of human societies, he said, "modern warfare has become nothing but an unmitigated disease of civilization."

Charles Gustav Jung, Swiss psychoanalyst, asserted that sex is second to hunger as a human driving force.

"At present we have come out of the phase where war can be promoted by any quality such as courage, enterprise or intelligence," said Prof. Malinowski. "It is difficult even to look any more. If the nations had not taken an anachronistic view of the spoils of war at Versailles we would not have Hitler today."

The Britisher, now in port, is being taken over by the "Manit" line tonight, but it is indicated that she will not remain long under this ownership, and will be re-sold as have three others of the former C.G.M.M. fleet.

The Canadian Leader and the Canadian Victor have both gone to foreign buyers, and the Canadian Scottish is bound for England from Australia
