HOME FOR BURIAL.—The body of the late Mrs. Catherine McKie Burke, who died in Boston was brought to the island last week for interment in the Cemetery at Rollo Bay. The body was accompanied by Mr. A. E. Burke, son of the deceased and Mrs. E.A. Dingwell, her niece. Mr. Burke and Mrs. Ding-well left Saturday on return to Boston.

ALMA INSTITUTE.—The joint meeting of the Alma Institute was held at the home of Mrs. B. H.
Dunbar. The meeting opened with the Island Hymn, and the Club Woman's Creed, eleven members, and four visitors were present. Roll call was answered by Hints on Gardening, and Poultry. Some very useful hints were given, a collection was taken, and two members paid fees. It was decided to have school painted a light buff during vacation. A committee was appointed to clean the school before the examination. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. P. A. Burke.
Meeting closed with the National Anthem. After the meeting a dainty lunch was served, and a very enjoyable hour was spent in social intercourse, and singing.
Special mention to be given Miss Helen Dunbar for piano selections, and solos by Mrs. Joseph Dunbar and Mr. Arthur Rennie. During the meeting the following yearly report was read by the Secretary: We have come to the termination of the first year of our Institute, and when we look back over our year's work, we are all very glad that a Women's Institute was organized in Alma, in July, 1925.
During our short term we had nine regular meetings. In September we held an ice-cream social which netted us very good results. In December we held a pantry sale in the school. On April 12th we had a pie social and dance, which helped out wonderfully for requisitions of school. During the year we had interior of school murese-ced, and painted; entry repaired, and new verandah built, also bought blinds, and a revised map of Europe for school, and have a good sun towards painting exterior of school. Hope to have some stone and a sign board placed on school during summer. We look forward to another year of social fellowship and good work in our district. Let us then renew our efforts, and carry on the good work we have just begun.—Mrs. Peter A. Burke, secretary.

THE BOUFFANT SASH STYLISH ON EVENING FROCKS

By Marie Belmont
The bouffant drapery has moved from the sides of a frock to the back of it. The new style tendency is to loop a wide sash into a bouffant drapery to resemble a "bustle." Sheer ecru lace is posed over a flesh satin slip for the dinner or dance frock above. There is no trimming save the graceful silhouette. Note how the sash falls a little below the hem line at the lower back and the gentle blousing of the bodice where it meets the sash at front.

Stops Stomach Gas Prevents Fermen- tation Aids Digestion

If fermentation of food in the stomach can be prevented, you go a long way towards stopping the most frequent ailment of the day. Doctors who have studied the formula of Dr.
Hamilton's Pills say it would be difficult to find a remedy better adapted to stomach ailments. After once using Dr.
Hamilton's Pills the stomach is cleared of the sour, fermenting matter that causes gas, heartburn, indigestion and headaches. You will be pleasantly surprised at the smooth, easy way in which Hamilton's Pills tone up the liver, kidneys and stomach.

It's really wonderful the improvement in appetite, in complexion, in general well-being that results directly from the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.
They stop dizziness, fullness and swelling of the stomach, they correct constiveness, bad dreams and blotchy skin.
To strengthen the muscular system, to bring a keen edge to the appetite, elasticity to the step and brightness to the eyes, nothing can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold everywhere in 25c boxes, five for $1.00 or by mail from The Catarhozone Co., Montreal.

John Smith and His Car

By FREDERICK C. RUSSELL

John Smith is a character whom every motorist should welcome. He is not selfish, rather he is a motoring martyr, a chap willing and glad to have exploited, in an interesting way, his experiences for the benefit of the other twenty million or more members of the motor clan.

A MILE A MINUTE

With the new highway to speed over and the inner man yearning for dinner it didn't take Smith and I long to cover the final 20 miles of our day's journey. Yet, curiously enough, when we arrived at our destination he did not boast of the good time we had made. Instead he stood solemnly listening to his motor.

"That's what I get for speeding," he complained. "I've burned a connection rod bearing. Just listen to that knock."

"One has to be a very clever driver to speed," I said. "A car travelling 40 miles an hour is just four times harder to stop than one travelling 20. If a bearing misses its allotment of oil the high speed of the engine is certain to cause trouble. Tires that are weak are ten times more liable to blow out when the car is going full tilt. You increase your gasoline consumption by anything that isn't just running up to par in sure to give trouble when the car is forced to the limit.

"But that's just one reason why a little speed now and again is good for testing purposes. If it wasn't for the speed contests which are held by the automobile clubs we would not be driving the highly developed cars of today.
Manufacturers learn the weaknesses of their products by seeing how much strain they will stand.
The mere fact that a car may be equal to any emergency doesn't quite satisfy the progressive manufacturer, he wants to know for sure. So with the car owner who thinks his car is ready for any demands he may wish to place upon it; he wants to be positive about it. Consequently he opens up the throttle occasionally when the right opportunity presents itself."

I told Smith of the experience of a friend of mine who was at a loss to know why his car seemed to lose power and waste gas. He checked over the valve tappets, tried different carburetor adjustments and cleaned the plugs; but having no success he decided to take the car to a repair shop. At this point someone suggested, "Why don't you open her up on a good road and find out the trouble yourself?" But the motorist was trained to believe that speed is taboo and so carried his troubles to an experienced mechanic. Imagine his surprise, therefore, when the mechanic tested the car by giving it speed. At 45 miles an hour the engine began to skip badly and would not propel the car any faster.
This proved to the mechanic beyond a doubt that the breaker points in the distributor were not properly adjusted and that the spark was not travelling to the plugs regularly at speeds over 20 miles per hour.

Smith said he could see an advantage of speed in this instance, but insisted that his case was entirely different.

"Something may have been wrong with my car," he argued, "but the speed test, if you want to call it that, did more damage than good.
Dropping the crankcase and excessive oil means both a delay and an expense. What happened, I suppose, was simply that there was an air leak in the oil pump so that one of the oil dips became empty at that point. I didn't notice that the normal because my eyes were mostly on the roadway. But if it had gone along at a moderate rate of speed this would never have happened."

"If you hadn't discovered it today," I started, "I wonder that the leakage in the oiling system would have gradually increased until the oil would have failed you all at once some time when you were driving only 20 or 25 miles an hour.
This might easily burn the main as well as the connecting rod bearings; and your repair bill would be something worth worrying about."

Before Smith and I pulled out of the garage the next day on the third lap of our trip a mechanic had discovered two loose spring clips, one loose transmission bolt and a bad break in the top water hose. Smith had noticed that when he sped the day before one of the rear springs creaked, that the gear shift lever and the emergency brake handle vibrated badly and that the radiator overheated. Speed had simply brought the symptoms to a focus so that the mechanic knew what to look for. The money Smith dropped at that town for repairs was ever made. He's still strong for safe and sane driving, but I notice that occasionally he gives the car a speed test, not to see how fast he can go, but to discover whether the car is up to par.

TREE-TOP STORIES

THE NIGHT-WATCHMAN
ROSEMARY looked out her window one evening. The stars were shining, and the trees were all where they should be.
Just then the moon peeked around the corner of a neighbor's house.

"He is coming to see if everything in our yard is all right," said Rosemary. "What a busy time he has all night... looking at the tops of the houses and down the streets. He's the big Night-watchman."

"And tomorrow, while I'm playing, he will be watching the little Chinese boys and girls sleep. I wish he could talk... and tell me about things!"
