Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women

The following appeal was made last evening by Mrs. E. G. Saunders on behalf of Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

Today we are face to face with a national crisis. Our Empire, that we fondly believed no vandal would dare desecrate, has been subjected to the most violent attacks in the history of the world. The shadow of war is darkening our lives and the tragedy of Europe may stalk across our own fair land if England loses the fight. Life, liberty and all we hold dear are under the ruthless grasp of the tyrant of Europe. The men of the Empire are bravely defending the precious bit of earth that is England and her women are magnificent. They fill all sorts of jobs in military and civil life and are even ready to fight side by side with their men to hold their country and preserve its ideals for posterity. Canada is not so remote from the battle line that we can feel altogether isolated from it. Our boys are scattered over there, their children are coming to us for protection and, if security is gone, our hope of a better life is gone. We can give them money, men, women, and things that women can do. With the example of the women of England before us, let it not be said that the women of Canada are less courageous and less patriotic.

The movement for the voluntary registration of women was conceived with such a vision several months before war broke out and, considering the difference between Voluntary and Compulsory service, one can readily see how much more quickly and efficiently voluntary service would be available in an emergency.

Amazing records of competence and versatility have been discovered among the women of Canada. From the Peace River cards are found women who worked in munition factories in the last war; women living on Indian Reserves who graduated in nutrition and food conservation; women in Banff National Park who bought and cooked food for some of the biggest hotels in the country. Sisters in Convents and hospitals showing most outstanding qualifications—such as chemists, journalists, telephone operators, dietitians, teachers, etc., and also women farmers, nurses and hospital technicians of various kinds.

The records of our Province may reveal treasures of undisclosed efficiency that would be of vital importance in war time service. Let us assemble our resources and work with united effort and God-inspired courage to preserve the land and the freedom with which we have been blessed!

As and of making it possible to secure the required funds for the purchase of a Red Cross Ambulance. Fill the Exhibition Grand Stand for the Red Cross Ambulance. A program of outstanding merit has been prepared for the Canada Review Friday evening. You will see a show featuring snappy military manoeuvres. The boys of the Navy will be there and every body loves a sailor, the lassies of the Summerside Girls' Band with their many uniforms and inspiring music. Altogether it will be a gala occasion. Join the crowd, enjoy a unique evening and do your bit for our boys.

As loyal citizens, let us give His Excellency the Governor-General, and Her Royal Highness, Princess Patricia, our warmest welcome to the particular advocate in front of whom they may find themselves carried by the pressure of the mob.

Women Too

Instead of listening to the admonitions of the scraggy-headed old man holding an oaken cudgel at arm's length, the crowd directly in front of him may be trying to hear what is being preached by the buxom dowager, dressed in the style of a distant generation, who flays her heeklers and police.

Was "Invisible" Now Takes Post On Strong Rock

British Officer Second-in-Command at Gibraltar, Has Had Dramatic Career At European Capitals.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(CP)—An "invisible man" of the British army has quietly emerged into the public light as the holder of one of the most responsible positions in the war-convulsed world of today.

He is Maj.-Gen. F.M. Macfarlane, second-in-command of the Rock of Gibraltar at a time when it is threatened with the greatest attack in its history. He has done three important and dramatic jobs in the last 12 months.

Studied the swift assemblage of the German machine with lynx-like eyes as military attaché in Berlin in the period immediately before the war.

Followed step by step all moves of the German army behind their frontiers as D.M.I.—Director of Military Intelligence—with the British Expeditionary Force in France.

Organized and led a flying column of mixed troops of every kind—from first-class soldiers to pioneers—known as the "Mac Force" which made a bold attempt to check the German break-through towards the Channel ports.

This tall Scot with the powerful jaw and slow voice is a man of indomitable courage, dogged determination and great imagination. He is a bulldozer with the heart of a poet. He writes poetry as a recreation. He can fight and he can meet cunning with cunning.

Wartime London Smiles On Talk If In The Open

Still Lots of Harangue in the Parks and Speakers Unlimited in Their Topics While Nazis Threaten.

By E. Barritt Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Even the threat of invasion fails to damp the flow of Hyde Park oratory.

In fact, the war has many ramifications, have provided completely new repertoires for the "cores of men and women who speak in the parks."

Day or night, regardless of weather, the parks are thronged with speakers who "just have to talk to someone," and even spokesmen from the Ministry of Information, stand on chairs or stumps among a surging crowd that has no boundaries.

The speakers are not scattered enough to have separate meetings. So they shout and roar over the heads of curious people who may be paying no attention whatever to the particular advocate in front of whom they may find themselves carried by the pressure of the mob.

Some Songs Feasts

In little groups among the crowd are the singers. And while the "range cacophony of the speakers' voices like the raucous voices of raders during a hectic stock exchange session, there intermingles the soft, low notes of "Rock of Ages" or the peppy tune of "Tiger Boy."

The song-fests are not organized. The song-fests are not organized. The song-fests are not organized.

Roosevelt's Trade Treaty Policy Is Criticized

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Charles L. McNary formally accepted the Republican nomination today with an address criticizing the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaty system and opposing continued federal development of hydro-electric power.

The veteran Oregon Senator, long champion of protection of the legislation, told thousands of westerners that "any secretary of agriculture would be hampered by the reciprocal trade system."

He reiterated a charge made before the Senate last spring that the treaties had failed to "disparate, alleviate or liquidate the unemployment conditions" facing agriculture.

McNary pledged opposition to "involvement in foreign military adventures" but said he wanted no part of a "peace of appeasement; the surrender of our national dignity, our independence of action, our political freedom or the civilized values we cherish."

He said he was not a pacifist and he proposed to work out our destiny on our own terms. He said he would not be a "peace of appeasement; the surrender of our national dignity, our independence of action, our political freedom or the civilized values we cherish."

McNaughton May Command Canadian Corps

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(CP)—Before next spring Lt.-Gen. A.G.L. McNaughton may command an army corps almost entirely composed of Canadians, it was learned today.

At present his corps is made up of the Canadian 1st Division under Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes and British troops. However, by spring Maj.-Gen. Victor Odium's Canadian 2nd Division will have completed its training and taken its place alongside the 1st.

It was authoritatively stated that the Canadian Active Service Force which crossed the Atlantic for our service in France may be expected to play an important part when the Empire opens its big offensive push against Germany and Italy which will be spring. Minister Churchill has forecast for 1941 or 1942.

A high official classed the Canadians as among the "best trained and best equipped troops we have to hurl against the Axis."

Meanwhile, as the Canadians continued in readiness for any part of the war that falls to their lot, authorities forecast that should Hitler's air offensive fail, a Nazi-Fascist adventure in some other part of the world, possibly Spain or Egypt, would take place.

Authorities revealed that the Empire air training plan is well ahead of schedule and that a large and ever increasing flow of aces and fighter pilots will soon be arriving in the United Kingdom.

In view of the fact that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are turning out many aviators, it was stated there would be no need to shorten the British training period for pilots. Consequently the enemy will continue to meet in the air a Royal Air Force pilot better trained than he is.

REGULATIONS

fire departments in cities, wardens and officers of penitentiaries, prisons, lunatic asylums or mental hospitals.

The Dominion is divided into 13 administrative divisions. For each the Governor-in-Council may establish one or more National War Service Boards.

Each board shall consist of three members one of whom shall be a judge of the Superior or other court who shall be the chairman of the board. Decisions of boards shall be final. No legal action is permissible against a member of a board for discharge of his duties.

No proceeding of a board may be stayed by legal process, including Habeas Corpus.

The Governor-in-Council is empowered to appoint a registrar for each administrative division. His duties shall include immediate preparation of lists of men who on the first day of July, 1940, had attained the age of 21 years and who were on the 15th of July, 1940, unmarried or widowers without children.

Will Be Four Lists

The registrars will prepare four lists: (1) Men 21 to 24 not engaged in agriculture, fishing, trapping, lumbering or other occupations of a seasonal character.

(2) Students of those ages. (3) Men in the active forces who are not in the list of men who have received training in the military or naval forces.

(4) A list of all other men of those ages to be called "the immediate call list."

The department of war services will instruct a registrar to call out any number of men from his division for any period of military training at any place and time.

He will notify each man called by registered post to submit himself for medical examination within three days after a second notification.

After the calling of first classes the registrar will compile lists of the men between 25 and 45.

Registrars will give the department of National Defence copies of their lists of men who have served in the Non-Permanent Active Militia or in the naval military and air forces. Such men will not be liable for military training unless the Defence Department notifies the registrar that it is not considered that such men have received military training equivalent to that of men of his age class called for training.

Responsible employees will be ordered to train in that service which is the best time of year in the public interest.

Students taking military training at universities may have their training periods postponed at the discretion of boards.

Doubtless and Menonites who came to Canada under agreement with the Government they will not have to take military training will be entitled to indefinite postponement of their training. Boards or courts will make a final decision.

Such conscientious objectors will be compelled to do non-combatant work in military or civil authorities.

Employers are obliged to reinstate employees without loss of pay or other benefits if they are called up for six months or a fine of $50, or both.

Postmasters, sheriffs, clerks of the peace and other officers of municipalities are charged with keeping copies of proclamations and other information posted and are subject to a fine of $20 for each day they do not do so.

Every man called up who refuses to take medical examination may be imprisoned for 12 months with or without hard labor, and to a fine of not more than $200, or both. The same applies to those reported medically fit who fail to report. A second offence is punishable by imprisonment for 12 months or a fine of $200, or both. Persons who contravene the regulations in a way for which no other penalty is provided may be fined more than $10 but not more than $50 or sent to prison for 12 months or suffer both.

The same penalty applies to any person who fails to write or publish or speak to advise any persons against complying with the regulations or attempts to move the operations of the regulations.
