THERE was much complaint and indignation expressed by travelling men last night at the eccentric methods prevailing in transferring mails and passengers to this Province just at present. The number of people coming to the Island is remarkably small just now, and the business of hotel-keeping cannot be a very cheerful occupation. Until some definite route is adopted travelling men cannot be expected to arrive here.

The death of Fidelis McDonald at his residence at Little River, Lot 56 on Thursday the 29th of November, at the age of sixty-five years, although not unlooked for as he had been in failing health for the last two years, will be felt to be a public loss, as it removes from the community a prominent and useful member of society, a zealous and self-sacrificing friend to whatever cause he espoused, a devoted faithful and consistent member of his church, and a beloved and honored head of his household.

SHORTLY after nine o'clock last night the blowing of the steam whistle at the Railway yard startled citizens, and under the impression that it was a signal for a fire a large number of people ran down to the station. Here they found out that their race had been for nothing, as the whistle had been blown to summon the crew of the wrecking train to assemble and go to Souris. It appeared that the locomotive of the regular train No 19 had run off the track in the Souris yard and could not be replaced with the facilities at hand. The wrecking crew was soon got together and left about ten o'clock.

JOHN McDONALD died at his late home 21 Bowdoin St., Boston, Mass, Dec 4. after a lingering illness of two years, borne with Christian resignation. He was a man of irreproachable character, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. The deceased was the only son of the late Hugh MacDonald, of Orwell, and had resided in Boston for the past twenty years. The funeral service was held on Thursday. There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. Interment was at Forest Hills Cemetery Besides a widow formerly Annie MacKinnon of Hazel Grove, he leaves three sisters, Mrs. Farren and Mrs. Tucker of Boston, and Mrs. John Enman of Orwell

OWING to the uncertainty of the present weather conditions the outgoing mails from this City were last night sent out at 9 p. m. by special train to Georgetown to connect with the S. S. Minto which leaves there this morning for Pictou. The special for Summerside to connect with the Stanley did not leave last night. It is doubtful whether there will be a foreign mail received here today. In the event of the Stanley making a return trip between Summerside and Tormentine the mails at Tormentine will be brought back by her and forwarded here by special train. There is a chance that the Minto may make a return trip but the directions as to how mails are to be sent today will depend upon the prospects governing the running of the steamers. It was considered last night that the Georgetown-Pictou route was the surest one by which to send the outgoing mails.

DANIEL ROSS, Montague, was in the city yesterday.

TWO foreign mails were received in Charlottetown yesterday, one from Summerside which had been brought from Tormentine by the S. S. Stanley, and the other from Georgetown, where the Minto arrived from Pictou at 10 a.m.

THE Pictou Standard in commenting on the increased accumulation of freight at Pictou for this Island, expresses surprise that the people of this Province do not try to compel the Government to make both winter steamers run to Pictou.

W. GRANT & Co representatives in this Province of the Deering Harvesting Machines have sent to The Guardian one of the Company's Calendars for 1907. It represents a lively hunting scene and will be appreciated by sportsmen.

THE event of this week will be the grand opening of the Hillsborough Rink on Thursday evening. A splendid sheet of ice has been laid down and Worth's Band under Major Gilbraith will discourse a first class programme of brand new music.

THERE was another record market day yesterday, as regards attendance of people and the supply of eatables, etc. Many drove in from the country, although the roads are heavily packed with snow and sleighing is not so comfortable as it will be when the road supervisors have all the pitches levelled up. The streets of Charlottetown presented a lively scene during the day and merchants had a good day's trade.

A LADY buying two season tickets for the New Arena Rink, yesterday remarked "I expected the prices would be three or four dollars for ladies' and gentlemens' tickets," in larger cities the prices run from three to seven dollars. No, the owners of the big Arena are not taking advantages of the existing conditions in Charlottetown. They are selling tickets for a moderate up to date rink at the same price that has been paid for skating privileges in small old fashioned ones.
