Allied Powers Confident

Japanese treachery stands plainly revealed by the initial successes claimed to have been scored on American warships and naval stations in unprovoked action taken hours before Japan's formal declaration of war.

From Washington, too, comes official intimation that American help to Britain "will continue in full operation," thus foiling the Nazi hopes that the lease-lend programme would be terminated.

Meanwhile, what of Japan's economic and financial position, and her capacity for waging war on the scale which her leaders have invited? A report has just been published on this question by the National Industrial Conference Board of New York. Here are some of the findings:

Japan proper has a population of 73,000,000 people, crowded into an area smaller than that of the State of California, and definitely inferior to that state in material resources, Japan is powerless to break a blockade maintained by the two mightiest navies in the world, through the exercise of any force she can muster.

The Allies, however, are not indulging in wishful thinking. The present situation is too serious for that. Japan's naval and air forces are a very real menace, and are striking with desperate intensity. The vast scale of the operations now in progress makes it inevitable that there will be temporary reverses. But, in the words of Premier Churchill, "though the ordeal be hard and long, we have no reason to doubt the justice of our cause or that our strength and will power will be sufficient to sustain it."

Timely Reminder

Appropos of the need for a new car ferry steamer for the Borden-Tormentine route, the Maritime Advocate says:

"If we wait for the Canadian National Railways to act it will likely be too late. Action is necessary now, not tomorrow or at the close of the war. A determined drive should be made by the Prince Edward Island Government to get something started. In this effort the Island should have the loyal and wholehearted support of the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia governments, of the Maritime members of the House of Commons, as well as of the senators from the eastern provinces. Only by working together as a bloc can the necessity of a new car ferry be driven home to the Federal Government. The excuse that there is a war on and that the car ferry must wait until its conclusion is not good enough. A strong Prince Edward Island delegation, supported by New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, should go to Ottawa and sit on the doorstep of Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, until he agrees to let the contract for a new car ferry."

"It is understood that the car ferry 'Charlotteton' carried a million dollars of insurance and that that amount has been collected. This means that the federal government has that substantial sum to apply on account of the construction of a new ferry steamer. The transportation service between Tormentine and Borden is now a bottleneck, which must have immediate attention. The western provinces seem to be able to get federal subsidies, grants and bonuses for all sorts of projects, good and bad, then why should not the needs of the Atlantic Provinces be sympathetically considered by the powers that be?"

Shall We Be Caught Napping?

The harvest of hate which the Nazis have sown in Europe is bearing fruit in acts of sabotage which the Gestapo is finding it impossible to suppress. This, says the London Economist, is a moving and terrible spectacle—in a darkened Europe through which the tramp of Nazi guards re-echoes, their voices ring in the night challenging every sound and movement; behind this facade of vigilance a host of nameless men are working in silence with pliers, saws and acetylene flares, pulling at the proud structure, dislocating a line here, a dynamo there, a storage plant there, like a deathwatch of beetles on the floor of Europe.

The danger for Britain and the United States, says the Economist, is that the spectacle is too moving, too engrossing. It leads almost inevitably to a picture of Hitlerism tottering to destruction under the pressure of its internal contradictions. It provides a painless way to victory.
It increases complacency, and with it inertia. The picture of sabotage is incomplete unless it is set against its background—industrial and agricultural resources of Europe organized to capacity to feed the German war machine. Only if the amount of sabotage more than counter-balances Germany's gains from conquest would there be any point in thinking and writing about a "tottering" Reich.

This is not to say that sabotage is not of immense significance to the Allied cause. Only in the hour of victory will the peoples of Europe begin to realize all they owe to the battalions of forgotten men whose weapons were screwdrivers and the petrol rag and whose reward was often death. But it is vital—if these men are not to have died in vain—that their sacrifice should not be used as one more excuse for avoiding the sacrifice of still free countries.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We may as well now make up our minds for a long, distressing war, and no longer live in a fool's paradise of evasion and profiteering.

Here is how they handle petty grafters in Scotland. Sentence of seven months imprisonment was passed on October 30 at Glasgow Sheriff Court on Hugh C. Gemmill (53), chief clerk in the City Improvements Department of Glasgow Corporation, who admitted corruptly receiving £25 from a woman as a reward for obtaining a reduction of £5 in the rental of a shop which she occupied, and also obtaining the lease of a Corporation house for the woman's daughter.

Girls who attended the McGill University Junior Prom on Friday evening appeared without corsages. The committee issued an order banning all corsages. Instead, hundreds of roses, in various shades were sold at the dance for 50 cents each the proceeds going to a war charity.
The committee calculated that without the noncorsage edict some $800 would be spent on floral decorations. By the sale of roses at the dance, the McGill War Fund, it is estimated, will benefit by about $175. Those who neglected to follow the no-corsage ban had to check them with their coats before going on the dance floor.

When Winston Churchill was a lieutenant in the 4th Queen's Own Hussars he applied for permission to enlist for the South African War.
Being refused he subsequently applied for leave of absence and skipped off to South Africa as war correspondent. Being A. W. O. L. he then tendered his resignation. Now the sequel. The King has approved the appointment of Mr. Winston Churchill as Colonel, 4th Queen's Own Hussars, in succession to Major-General Sir Reginald Barnes, retired pay. The 4th Queen's Own Hussars formed part of the Light Brigade at Balaclava.

Sir Anthony Van Dyck, Flemish portrait and historical painter and etcher, died this date 1641; Court painter for James I and Charles I in England, being knighted by the latter; his influence on the British school of painting was great and lasting, his style in the main following that of Rubens, but more restrained and refined; his more famous paintings, which resemble those of Titian, include Philip le Roy, Duquesnoy, Mary Louise of Tassis, James I, Charles I, Sir George Villiers, and his wife Lady Mary Ruthven; among his religious paintings are the Crucifixion, St. Sebastian, The Mystic Marriage of Joseph, and The Elevation of the Cross.

Preliminary figures just released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics place the population of the Maritime Provinces on June 2 this year at 1,120,486 as compared with 1,009,103 a decade ago, an increase of 111,383. All three provinces recorded increases, the population of Prince Edward Island increasing to 93,919 from 88,038 in 1931, Nova Scotia to 573,190 from 512,846 and New Brunswick to 453,377 from 408,219 in 1931. In making public those figures the Bureau points out that the returns are subject to correction as additions and subtractions on account of Closed Dwelling Cards and Absentee Household Cards have yet to be made.

Churches that run teas, dimers and similar functions do not require to be licensed. Attention was drawn to the ruling by Mr. Jacques Panneton, Montreal regional director of licensing there, who said it could be stated on authority of the Prices Board that churches do not need a licence.
The impression that they did apparently arose from the published statement that licences were required by groups operating restaurants, clubs, charitable organizations, schools, hospitals, fraternal organizations, etc., and supply foodstuffs regularly to members, students, boarders and so on.

NOTES BY THE WAY

While Great Britain moves to conscript all the womanpower that is available in the country, we in Canada are putting forth special efforts to stimulate recruiting for the active army under voluntary system. Canada's present system may be right or wrong; it may be right, but it may no longer remain so. That is for Canada to decide. Britain's action is, however, the most definite proof that total war demands a nation's total power without regard even to sex. It shows a nation composed of the most hardened individualists in the whole world, a nation that has consistently attempted to guard its womanhood from the rough contacts with the struggle for life, recognizing the needs of the changed situation, submitting to complete regimentation and moving on to a constantly permitting to recruiting that women enter the turly-burly of a life-and-death struggle. If it were necessary at this date to parade proofs of Britain's conscious totality of effort, this should be them. From it may be understood how very completely the harsh reality of the situation has penetrated the consciousness of the Telegraph Journal—Saint John

Britishers aren't allowed by the censor to tell people in this country about tidbits they are hankering for; whether it's fear of starting exaggerated rumors of famine or giving an impression that they're yearning for luxuries, we don't know. At any rate, there is the pathetic story of Miss Vivien Leigh, who got a letter from old friends in this country asking what she wanted most and immediately wrote back that what she wanted most was "just a bad actor now and then". Unfortunately, her friends here were as obtuse as the censor and didn't think of the paraphrase. Miss Leigh has
