To broil bacon, place strips close together on a wire rack over a drip pan. Use medium heat. Turn bacon over. When done, drain on unglazed paper, or on paper towels.

To vary applesauce, drop 9 or 10 small red cinnamon candies into the sauce and let them melt. This gives it a delicate flavor and color.

"HOLIDAY ATTRACTIONS"

Bob Hope Hit Has Gags, Gals And Melodies

When you're shopping for film entertainment, make a bee line for the Prince Edward Theatre, where Paramount's comedy with music, "Louisiana Purchase," opens in Technicolor Monday and you'll find you've made a buy in good cheer that will last you for some time to come.

Starring Bob Hope, Vera Zorina and Victor Moore, and featuring a first-line supporting cast including Irene Bordoni, Dona Drake, Raymond Walburn, Maxie Rosenbloom and the twelve "Louisiana Lovelies," "Louisiana Purchase" turns out to be a film extravaganza just bursting with wonderful music by Irving Berlin, spectacular dances by Zorina, handsome settings a-glitter with gorgeous colorings, pageants, and enough comedy and gag situations to wreathe your face in a smile every time you remember them—which will probably be often.

"Louisiana Purchase" was a resounding smash hit as a comedy musical on the Broadway stage, you will recall, and an extremely successful road show, but even its excellence as a stage production is topped by the film version. Somehow the comedy handled by Bob Hope, in particular, is more zestful and adroit, more joyous. It all comes out with more sparkle as a film. Three of the top tunes are "You're Lonely and I'm Lonely," "Tomorrow is A Lovely Day" and "Louisiana Purchase."

Perhaps a good deal of the improvement can be traced to the producer of the stage show and its celluloid counterpart, Buddy DeSylva, Paramount production chief, produced both winners, and it is fair to assume that the high mark he hit with the Broadway production stood as a challenge to himself. Well, he gets above it with the film adaptation, which is a superb achievement.

Now is as good a time as any, by the way, to touch our cap in salute to De Sylva for some of the fine films which have been rolling out of Paramount since he took over the production reins—films like "Skylark," "Nothing But the Truth" and "Birth of the Blues."

Gangland Film At The Capitol Is Laugh Riot

Laugh and the world laughs with you is the byword of the Capitol Theatre which presents on Monday one of the fastest action comedies of the year, Paramount's "Buy Me That Town" with Lloyd Nolan and Constance Moore in the leading roles.

Nolan plays a big-time gangster who actually buys a bankrupt town and sets about remodeling it as a hideaway haven for income tax dodgers, phony stock brokers and others "on the lam" who can pay him $1,000 a week for sanctuary in the town jail. The crooks live the life of Reilly in the jail, renovated to resemble a luxury club, while Nolan's beetle-browed pals hold down jobs as chief of police, fire chief and town treasurer.

How another moobser tries to "muscle in" and how the town belle, played by Miss Moore, turns the gangsters into respectable citizens is the story of "Buy Me That Town." The story lends itself to hilarious comedy situations and uproarious lines and director Eugene Forde has made the most of it. There isn't a dull second in its 70 full minutes of fun.

Romance, of course, has its rightful place in "Buy Me That Town" with the delectable Miss Moore and Nolan as the lovers. In fact, it's Miss Moore's good influence that reforms the mobsters and turns them into model citizens. In the end wedding bells peal merrily and the town's one factory booms with defense orders. All this makes "Buy Me That Town" a happy-go-lucky funny film well worth the seeing.

Barbara Jo Allen, radio's Vera Vague, has a delightful part as Henrietta, a spinsterish gang fan who talks out of the side of her mouth and collects police circulars. The wacky mobsters are played by Sheldon Leonard, Albert Dekker, Ed Brophy, Warren Hymer and Horace McMahon. "Buy Me That Town" was produced by Sol C. Siegel and the screen play was written by Gordon Kahn.

Meynell Sisters To Present Revue

At the Prince Edward Theatre on Wednesday, June 10, a large troupe of Charlottetown girls will present their Spring Time Revue. These girls have been routined and trained by the misses Betty and Ruth Meynell of Montreal, who opened a studio in this city last fall. The Meynell sisters are well qualified as dancing instructresses and have had much experience both in amateur and professional shows. They established a studio in Montreal after teaching in leading studios in that city. Betty in well known for her ballet dancing and Ruth for her tap and ballroom dancing and for her solo tap work in the Tin Hat Troop Show. Betty decided to open a studio in this city while on a visit here in the autumn and was joined by Ruth in January because of the rapid growth of the studio. Both these young ladies are members of the Dance Educators of Montreal, a group of Montreal's leading teachers, and have had many cup winners among their pupils in Canada and the United States.

To close the 1942 season a dance recital was planned to show the parents and public the remarkable achievements gained by their large class of pupils during the winter months. It was decided to donate all proceeds from such a show to a charity, and the Kinsmen Club, which conducts the Milk For Britain Campaign, were asked to be the sponsors. This gracious offer was accepted, and the Meynell sisters, their pupils, and the Kinsmen are expending every effort to make this revue an outstanding success and one that will warrant the patronage of every citizen.

Some of the soloists taking part in the show are: Valerie Rogers, Heather Lantz, Peggy Campbell, Theresa Costello, Phyllis Tulle, Mary Walsh, Annabelle Lawson, Marlene Roper Jane Giddings, Joyce Cantwell, Barbara Whitlock, Hazel Doiron, Skippy and Richard Heartz.

There will be may novelty tap numbers, a fairy tale ballet by the junior members of the school, a park scene tap number feating two members of the R.A.F. and other fine numbers. Mr. Al. Blanchard will be the pianist. The Islanders under Don Messer will open the evening's entertainment with a half-hour broadcast from the stage of the theatre. This broadcast will be conducted in the same manner as a studio broadcast from station C.F.C.Y.

A special matinee for school children will be offered in the afternoon.

OUT LOT

Never fancy you could be something if only you had a different lot and sphere assigned to you. The very things that you most deprecate as fatal limitations or obstructions are probably what you most want. What you call hindrances, obstacles, discouragements, are probably God's opportunities. — Horace Bushnell.

Seasonal Hotel Rate Increase Allowed at Ottawa

OTTAWA, June 5 (CP)— Operators of hotels open for only a season or part of a season will be permitted to advance their rates up to 10 per cent over those charged in 1940 The Wartime Prices and Trade Board said tonight in announcing an order issued by Cyril R. Demara and Owen Lobley, rentals administrators.

Permission to increase rates has been granted, Mr. Demara said, because most seasonal hotel operators fixed their rates for the 1941 season during the fall and winter of 1940, and, because of commitments made, it was not practicable for them to increase their rates during 1941, despite rising costs of food and services.

Hotel operators who increased rates to 10 per cent or more in 1941 are not permitted to make any increase this year, however.

Mr. Demara emphasized that the order applies only to seasonal hotels which are defined as "any room or rooms in an inn or standard hotel in which sleeping or living accommodation is furnished to the travelling public with or without meals, and which operates for a season or seasons or for part of a season only in any year."

No increase in rates can be made in year-round hotels except on individual applications to the rates committees in respect of specified conditions.

May Need To Ration Even Holy Scriptures

MONTREAL, June 4 — (CP) — Rev. B. B. M. Armour, general secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, told the Presbyterian general assembly here today that "if this war grows in intensity it may be necessary to ration even the holy scriptures."

Mr. Armour said that while the British government, recognizing the need for the word of God, had been generous in rationing paper to the Bible Society, still the amount allowed is only 30 per cent of that used for scriptures in 1939. The binderies in Great Britain, with machinery and stock valued at $100,000, were destroyed overnight by enemy bombing. The American Bible Society immediately sent machinery to enable the British and foreign society to carry on, and every effort is being made to supply the increasing war needs.

The general secretary of the Canadian auxiliary of the 138-year-old interdenominational organization presented the new moderator, Rt. Rev. Norman A. MacLeod, with a copy of the scriptures, and paid tribute to the work of two Presbyterian secretaries, Rev. James Adams of Montreal and Rev. Walter McCleary of Toronto.

Revealing that last year Canada sent more to the parent society than any sum contributed since 1930, Mr. Armour emphasized the need of the Bible in wartime. "Our agent in Hong Kong is probably interned, we know nothing of our agents in Singapore," he said.

The report of the eastern division of the women's missionary society, prepared by the president, Mrs. J. A. Tucker, was presented by Rev. Geo. S. Mitchell, Westville, N. S., and approved by the general assembly.

Principal Rev. F. Scott MacKenzie conferred an honorary degree of doctor of divinity upon Rev. Geo. S. Mitchell, Westville, N. S.

Two Decorations For Charlottetown Boy

Included in the list of honors recently bestowed by His Majesty King George VI. was the Distinguished Flying Cross awarded posthumously to Squadron Leader Joseph Damien Reardon of Charlottetown, P.E.I.

The investiture took place in Buckingham Palace, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Reardon being in England were invited to receive their son's decoration. The King himself presented it and spoke a few words of appreciation and sympathy before shaking hands with them. The D.F.C. is a beautiful silver cross with a Bar and is in a leather case.

They have also received a silver cross from Hon. Charles G. Power Minister of National Defence for Air in Canada. It has engraved on it "For Bravery", and Squadron Leader Joseph Damien Reardon. Accompaning it was an engraved memorial card.

Many friends of Joseph Reardon who was the first Charlottetown boy to receive the D.F.C. will be pleased at this recognition of his achievements, and the appreciation of those in authority may help to mitigate the pangs of sorrow of his parents and relatives.

Dorothy Dix Says—

ANSWER—I have always thought that when parents make these sacrifices to give their children a better education than they had and advantages that they never enjoyed, they do one of the most heroic things in the world. For with their own hands they dig a chasm that separates them far more than death would. For with their love they could follow their dead child into the Other World and still have it belong to them, but into the New World into which they have lifted their live children they cannot go because they are not wanted.

Almost invariably the children are ashamed of them, of their lack of culture, of their homely ways, of the way they dress and eat, of their beliefs and opinions, and they want to get as far from them as is possible. They have no appreciation of the love that made the old father wear patched and out-of-style clothes that they might splurge in modish finery. They see no beauty in mother's knotted old hands that grew hard and stiff toiling to keep them in swanky schools.

They are too young, too callow, too ignorant to sense how fine the old people are and to be proud of having such a father and mother. A millionaire might love to sit at Mother's table and eat some of her home cooking. A savant might listen with delight to Father's homely wisdom. But not they. They would only see that there was just corned beef and cabbage for dinner and that Father's grammar was faulty.

There is no help for the situation. The parents have opened the door and the young bird has flown. Nothing will bring it back. Nothing will make the ungrateful grateful. Nothing will put love in the heart of the selfish. The parents' only consolation is hoping that somehow they have given the child they loved better than they did themselves a better chance in life than they had.
