Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wood, North Pictou, received a telegram from Ottawa on May 18th informing them that their son, Signaller John Lyman Wood had on May 3rd offered up his life, a sacrifice for the cause of Justice and freedom on the battlefield of Flanders in one of the recent battles against the Hunns. He enlisted October 1915 at the beginning of his eighteenth year along with other College men from Acadia College, Wolfville, N. S., of which college he was a Sophomore in Arts. He spent only a short time raining with the 4th University Company at Montreal, completing his course in England, arriving on the scene of battle Dec. 24th 1916. He did his duty as a soldier continuously and saw much and heavy fighting. He fell in action in the noble effort to indicate the cause of outraged humanity. His fine character had made him many friends among those with whom he came in contact, and more especially his fellow students. It also helped him to face the dangers of battle, and at last his God.

The sympathy of the community is extended to his parents and relatives in their sad bereavement. Many friends were shocked to learn he had news of the death on Saturday morning, at his home, 243 Richmond Street, of Mrs. Margaret Sutherland, widow of the late Henry Sutherland, for many years in the employ of the P.E.I.R. and who preceded her seven years ago. She had only been ill three days and death is described to congestion of the lungs. She was seventy-eight years of age. The Commissioners are delighted to think that you have met them in the spirit in which they were sure you would in reference to this matter, and I am sure that in future it will be a great satisfaction to us to know that you are able to hand over the care of children of deceased soldiers to such a great institution as your Army. This is an extract from a letter from the Board of Pensions, Commissioners for Canada accepting the offer of The Salvation Army to provide Homes for, and to take over the guardianship of, the orphans of soldiers, or the children of soldiers who require guardians.

care, so that they will grow up worthy of their fathers, who for them, and for us all, will have made so great a sacrifice. The Salvation Army will become responsible for the bringing up of these children from the time they are placed in its care, in respect alike to their physical, moral, and spiritual well-being, and for their education. The Home for Toronto will be located in premises in Indian Road which have previously been used by the Immigration Department. They are being renovated throughout, and so fitted up that this Home will be one of the most up-to-date and suitable for its purpose of any of our institutions.

Some idea of the necessity for these institutions may be gathered from the fact that up to the 31st of March the Board had granted pensions to 4,239 fatherless children, to 191 children of disabled soldiers, and to 151 orphans. And it is only too sadly evident that these numbers are likely to be largely increased. In entering this, for Canada, new sphere of work, The Salvation Army has every expectation of rendering valuable service to the Empire, for surely in no way can the interests of our race be better served than by caring for those thus orphaned and helping them to grow up God-fearing and well-equipped in mind and body for their future citizenship.—War Cry.
