

Agonising! Weakening!

Before finding a remedy in Zam-Buk, many piles sufferers say that they hardly knew where to put themselves for the agonising, itchy, burning pain. Loss of blood made others so weak and ill that they despaired of ever being well again.

But inflammation, pain and swelling vanish under the influence of herbal Zam-Buk that is why it is such a fine soothing remedy for ulcers, abscesses, piles, boils, eczema, ringworm, poisoned wounds, burns, scalds, etc.

PILES

"I suffered the agonies of piles for a long time," says Mr. Jas. Ruddy, of Killaloe, Ont. "I wasted lots of money on professed 'pile remedies.' But my weakening malady defied everything but Zam-Buk. To my joy, this great herbal healer speedily allayed the itchy, burning irritation. As I kept up the Zam-Buk application, the piles were gradually but completely banished."

The Girl Who Had No Chance

By MARION RUBINCAM

DEVELOPMENTS

Chapter 53

Langley Williams was tall, very tall indeed—his height made apparently greater because of his extreme slenderness. Ruth thought him quite the tallest man she had ever seen. Later she found that the thick crop of straight yellow hair which was brushed straight back from his forehead added an inch or two to his height.

That was all the girl was conscious of as a first impression. Later she discovered that he had grey eyes which were not very large, a mouth that closed firmly, but that was rather homely in shape; a jaw that was firmer than the mouth, and a great many lines in his face. Just now as he smiled she did not notice this slenderness of either mouth or chin.

Langley Williams had had a hard life and his face showed it. He would know more things about a man he had just met than about people would find out after weeks of acquaintance. He knew practically nothing about women, men rarely deceived him, women all ways could, and one woman once—

But meantime Ruth was speaking again.

"Tim said he was sending you to see about a room." Her cheeks flushed suddenly, and she wondered why she should feel embarrassed with him, talking about a simple business arrangement such as renting a room, when she had no such ideas with anyone else.

"Well, yes, that was partly it. He was standing on the step below her, but she still felt that she was looking up at him." I expected to get here a long time ago, but I only arrived yesterday and I'm stopping at—well, they call it a hotel."

Ruth laughed. She knew the Main Street Hotel was a joke, even in the town, for its badness.

"But Turner was also good enough to give me a letter of introduction to you, and to a few other people here."

"We are always glad to see any friend of Tim's," Ruth answered mechanically, and added, "Won't you come in?"

He shook his head and said it was dinner time, but that he would come again with the letter, if she would allow him.

"But there isn't a vacant room," Ruth said, moved by a sudden impulse she could not explain. She mentioned a house where he might be made comfortable, and with that he went off.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil looked up when the girl came in, wondering at her long delay. She explained that the man Tim had written about had come for a room.

"But I said we had none," she went on. "I don't know why, because we need the money and there's plenty of rooms to rent. Only, somehow I did not want a friend of Tim's to be well-to-do."

"I know my dear, it puts one in a curious position," Duncan O'Neil answered. And Ruth grateful that he could understand the idea she could not explain, said nothing more about money.

The next day Ruth received a note from Langley Williams.

"Thanks for your suggestion about a place to live. I'm already fixed very nicely there. This is the letter of introduction Turner gave me. May I come around some evening next week?"

Ruth opened the other note, hating herself for the agitation that the sight of Tim's writing caused. It was only the conventional wording of such notes, and it was dated some time back. Ruth dropped it in the fire as soon as she could and sent the new arrival a brief letter saying she would be glad to see him the following Wednesday.

But she was not very much interested.

Mr. Williams, it appeared, was making a stir among her friends as any stranger, particularly a man, would be bound to, in such a small place.

Mrs. Weed, it seemed, had had him to dinner and knew a great deal about him.

"He's very charming," she told Ruth. "He's been all over the world, worked his way mostly. He's been on tramp steamers—whatever they are, and he's walked when he hadn't money. He's been in the mines in South

Rotarians Meet In Convention In Halifax N. S.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 22.—Four hundred Rotarians and Rotarians, as the lady attendants at Rotary functions are known, attended the banquet and other social functions here last night of the district Rotary Convention of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland. Premier E. H. Armstrong and Mayor John Murphy officially welcomed the delegates on behalf of the province and city, respectively.

Premier Armstrong referred to the talk of political union of the Maritime Provinces. There should be a union of ideals and ambitions, he said, and Rotary was an organization adapted towards bringing this about.

Crawford McCollough, of Fort William, Ont., Immediate Past President of International Rotary, and representative of International Rotary at the convention, was the special speaker of the evening. He gave a brief and eloquent address. He said the spirit and philosophy of Rotary was that of giving; giving of one's self, one's talents, one's substance, one's life, for the benefits of others. For a man or woman to be happy was for that man or woman to serve, he said. He laid great stress on public service, especially emphasizing the value citizens should attach to the heritage of the franchise, which had been won after centuries of strife, blood and sacrifice. Men were realizing more today that they held wealth in trust and as an obligation, he thought.

Dancing and bridge were indulged in following the banquet and musical programme.

President E. C. Phinney, of Halifax Rotary, was chairman.

True Bill Returned In Murder Case

HALIFAX, March 22.—The grand jury today returned a true bill of manslaughter against Leonard Nass of Oyster Pond, near here, in connection with the shooting of James Perry, a middle aged resident of that place who was killed by a charge from a gun in the hands of the accused on the morning of November 27 last. The accused said he was out rabbit shooting and mistook Perry for an animal when he saw him moving through the bushes.

A coroner's jury brought in a verdict of accidental death at the time of the fatality. Information reached the Attorney General that there were circumstances calling for an investigation and action was instituted. A bench warrant has been issued for the arrest of Nass.

ROYAL PRINCES PAY TAX ON ONE FIFTH OF GRANTS

LONDON, March 21.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer states that an income tax is paid on one-fifth of the amounts received by Princes of royal blood out of public revenue.

The assumption is that four-fifths of the allowances sanctioned by Parliament are absorbed by expenses in the performances of public duties, such expenses not being taxable.

Stomach Troubles Are Due To Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach. The trouble is the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble is entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bismarck's Magnesia, which is an effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. It is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as Bismarck's Magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the acid of artificial ingredients. Magnesia comes in several forms, and is certain to ask for and take only Bismarck's Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

Leaves Hospital

NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—Bill Brennan, Chicago heavyweight, who suffered a slight concussion of the brain as a result of his knockout by Luis Angel Firpo, South American pugilist, in a bout at Madison Square Garden, a week ago, was so far recovered as to be able to leave the hospital, it was announced today.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ARTHUR OWEN

The many friends and relatives will be sorry to hear of the death of Arthur Owen, which sad event occurred on the morning of Mar. 4. She had been up and around in her usual health until the last, and her passing to the Great Beyond, trusting in the merits of a Risen Saviour and with a firm faith in a glorious immortality was quite unexpected and has cast a gloom over the community in which she spent her whole life and where she was held in high esteem. She was a daughter of the late Edward Montgomery and was 73 years of age. She leaves to mourn a loving mother, and the following sons and daughters: Missie in Boston; Clara at home; Mrs. Fred Stewart in Amherst, N. S.; Mrs. Bert Stewart in Hamilton; P. E. I. Benjamin in Charlottetown; Montgomery in Toronto; Claude in Malpique and Burlington at home. She is also survived by the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Bennett in Dakota; Mrs. Charles Craig in Bedouque, P. E. I.; and Donald, Benjamin and Gordon Montgomery in the United States. Her funeral which had been postponed to await the arrival of two of the family who had been delayed en route on account of the recent tie-up in the railway service and who reached home during the snow storm on the 7th inst, was held on the 9th inst, and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Murchison, who during the service sang a beautiful hymn just recently written, entitled, "Home in Heaven," and who spoke from the text: "She was a friend of many." Romans 16—2. Her remains were laid to rest beside her husband in the family plot in the Malpique cemetery, their sons acting as pall bearers. To the family and relatives this paper extends heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

MR. THOMAS ADAMS

There passed away at his home in Port Hill at noon on Sunday Feb. 18, Mr. Thomas Adams, one of the most honored and respected citizens, not only of Port Hill, but of Prince County. Mr. Adams had been enjoying the best of health until about two months before his death and for a man of 86 years was wonderfully smart, going about and attending to his business as usual. During his illness he received the best of medical attendance from Dr. J. A. Stewart, Tye Valley, and he also had the loving care and attention of his loving daughters and a faithful nurse. At first hopes were entertained for his recovery, but owing to the weakened condition to which the first attack left him, it seemed impossible to restore him to his once healthy condition and gradually the worn out body gave way and his soul took its flight to Heaven. Mr. Adams came to this country from Eng., about the year 1850 and entered the employ of the late Hon. James Yee, where by his ability he became manager for the firm, and in this way he became well known throughout Prince County. He was a member of St. James Episcopal church, and was for many years one of the wardens. He was also a true and faithful member of Alexandria Lodge No. 5, A. F. and A. M., Port Hill. His funeral took place on Tuesday, Feb. 20 from his late home to St. James Episcopal church and cemetery, and was very largely attended. The services at the house, church and grave were conducted by Rev. A. F. Travese and when the church service at the grave had been completed by the members of Alexandria Lodge, A. F. and A. M. took charge of the service, which was conducted by Bro. John M. Nicholson, Master of the Grand Lodge of P. E. I. The pall bearers were members of Alexandria Lodge and Wm. J. Montgomery, James Millar, Reginald Birch, Sydney Birch, and Joseph Veale. There are left to mourn two daughters, Misses Mary K. and Daisy Y. at home to whom in this their hour of sorrow and loneliness we tender our deepest sympathy.

MRS. D. P. McDONALD

The town of Souris and vicinity were shocked on Thursday, March 8th when it was learned the family of Daniel P. McDonald of Souris, were bereaved for the third time in three weeks, and this time an extremely sad case, when word reached Souris that Mrs. McDonald, the beloved wife and mother, had passed away on the early hours of Thursday morning, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alex McDonald, Little Pond, She who only a few short days before, left home apparently in good health, to care for her sister who was ill with pneumonia, she herself contracting the disease. All hopes were entertained at first for her recovery, but complications set in and despite all that medical skill and loving care could do, to stay her precious life, her gentle spirit passed away at the early age of fifty four and to make it more pathetic, owing to her sudden illness and the terrific storm only her husband, one son and a son in law were able to be present at her bedside.

The deceased lady enjoyed robust health up to a few years ago, when she underwent a very serious operation in the Charlottetown Hospital, and since that time she never regained her usual vigor, still she was able to attend to her household duties. She was a woman noted for her charity and kindness of heart and all will remember her genial smile and warm welcome to every one who entered her home.

2,340 CANADIANS IN STEEL

Of 2,340 Canadian shareholders of the L. R. Steel Co., Inc., there are 1917 in Ontario of which 855 are in Toronto. The Canadian investments represented 362,333 common and 908,421 preferred shares, valued at $1,270,758, the Toronto investment being $560,795.

She was of a lovable disposition, devoted to home and family, always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need. It can be truly said that she spent her life serving others and died as she lived.

She was a devoted member of the Catholic Church and was consoled in her last hours by Rev. Reginald McDonald of St. Alexis Church, Rollo Bay.

There are left to cherish her memory a disconsolate husband, seven daughters and four sons; also five brothers and one sister and nine grand children.

The funeral which was largely attended took place from her home to St. Mary's Church, Souris, on Sunday, February 11th, Rev. P. L. McLaughlin officiating at church and grave. The pall bearers were D. F. McDonald, Charles McCormack, J. B. Matthews, W. D. Currie, Bert Paquet and Wm. Whalen.

The husband, daughters and sons have the sympathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement. R. I. P.

NEWTON LEE MCARTHUR

Newton Lee McArthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford McArthur, Kensington, died at his home there on Mar. 10, 1923, after a brief but fatal illness. He had been enjoying prime health up to Feb. 28, not having sustained any serious illness for the space of five years. But less than two weeks previous to his death he developed conditions that proved to be pneumonia. Medical skill was at once secured, but the disease seemed to defy all that the profession could command. A trained nurse, Miss Myrtle Woodside, was also secured who discharged the duties of this most necessary profession with all the faculty that science can command. Miss Woodside is a member of the staff of the Prince County Hospital, which fact endorses her ability to minister to the sick. But the disease seemed to be so firmly seated that no power known to curative science could dislodge it. Lower and lower ebbed the stream of life until finally his soul was borne away to the shores of eternal life.

The funeral was held on Monday, Mar. 12, the services being conducted by Rev. J. M. Robertson. The pall bearers were: Horace Glover, George Edwin Brown, William Scoble, Roland Tupper, Roy Whitehead and Thomas Millman. He was a member of the Tuxis Boys. The service included Psalm 79; "Safe in the Arms of Jesus"; reading 103rd Psalm; John 14; Prayer, Rev. J. M. Murchison; solo, "No Burdens Yonder"; Mr. T. W. Bentley, Ext., 103 Psalm, 15th and 16th verses; Hymn 758; Benediction.

Interment took place in the Peoples cemetery, Kensington, the funeral procession being one of the largest seen there for some time. In loving remembrance were laid upon the coffin sprays from C. G. I. T.; Ruby Helen and Blossie Rogers and Mrs. Townsend.

The deceased, Newton Lee McArthur, was born at Kensington, October 17, 1905; hence at the time of his death, was in his 18th year.

On leaving school he chose farming for his profession and to be the more competent to meet the requirements of the essential duties that are inseparably involved he amplified his store of knowledge recently by following a course in night school. In this he was a close and ambitious student and developed debating abilities that demonstrated the possession of faculties desirable in every ambitious young man.

The members of the family that lament the death of this exemplary young man are his parents and his brother Myron, who at the time of the death of the deceased was sick in Hamilton; Roy at home and sisters Ethel at home, Ruth, teacher at Kensington and Mabel, teacher at Kensington and memory will be cherished whilst still live the many friends that his genial sociability had won for him in this life.

Small Is Dead

TORONTO, March 22.—Detective Austin P. Mitchell, who searched many parts of the world for three years for trace of the missing Toronto millionaire, Ambrose J. Small, today told the Surrogate Court that not only was Small dead, but that he knew within a seventy acre area, where he was buried. He refused to state where he believed the body to be. Judge Coatsworth stated that the witness was not obliged to answer.

This statement provided the biggest thrill of the two days session before Judge Coatsworth who is being asked by Mrs. Small for a declaration establishing the legal presumption that Small is dead in order that the will, leaving the $2,000,000 estate to herself, may be probated.

After examining Mrs. Small for nearly two days in which the domestic relations between Mr. and Mrs. Small were under scrutiny, A. G. Slaght, K. C., acting for the sisters of the missing man who are attacking the validity of the will, put detective Mitchell in the box last this afternoon.
