BRADALBANE United Church of Canada. Services on the above charge for Sunday, December 5th, are as follows: Rose Valley 11 A. M. Granville, 3 P. M. Pleasant Valley, 7:30 P. M. The Session and Board of Stewards are called to meet after the evening service.—Thos. Palethorpe, Minister.

HOME FOR BURIAL—The death occurred this week at Sydney of Mr. John Weatherbie, aged 87, father of Col. S. S. Weatherbie, of Bellevue, P. E. I. The late Mr. Weatherbie lived for many years in Georgetown before removing to Cape Breton, where he has resided at Louisburg and Sydney. The body will arrive in Charlottetown tonight and will be taken to Georgetown for burial.

C. P. R. OFFICIAL HERE—Mr. W. T. Pugsley, C.P.R. Travelling Passenger Agent, St. John, N.B., is on an official visit here and will leave for Summerside in the morning. Mr. Pugsley reports traffic pretty much the same as it was at this time last year, but anticipates considerable increase in passenger traffic to Victoria and Vancouver, on account of the heavy discount in exchange in U. S. A. With 16% depreciation, it means the ordinary tourist spending $1,000 is $160 better off going to Victoria than to California. This year the C. P. R. Ocean Liners are making inward and outward calls at both Halifax and St. John and have made arrangements with the C. N. R. to be allowed to run their railway cars to and from Halifax exclusively for boat passenger service.

SANTA HERE—Along with the snow which fell late Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning, blanketing Charlottetown in beautiful white, apparently came Santa Claus. A large number of kiddies saw him on Grafton Street opposite Holman's yesterday afternoon giving good cheer in the form of candy kisses from a special auto sled. Santa's Island sled, decorated with Christmas trimmings and loaded with toys, left Summerside at 9:30 yesterday morning. Santa enroute to Charlottetown, visited several country schools where he gave the children candy. Santa Claus arrived in Charlottetown at 2:30, met the small children with their parents from 2:30 to 3:30 in Holman's playground. At 3 o'clock he mounted his sled again, remaining in front of the store amusing 1500 children, ranging in years from two to ninety-two years of age. After some time of this, Santa motored about and viewed the city and was no doubt favorably impressed with the splendid appearance of Charlottetown.

St. James

This troop meets regularly under Scoutmaster John A. Lawson, and at the Friday night meeting the Scouts were receiving Tenderfoot and second class tests. This is a good practice and all troops should review their test work regular as it is easy to forget knots and signalling.

The St. James Scouts are to be the hosts of the 2nd Annual Patrol Leaders' Conference to be held in their hall Saturday, Dec. 5th.

The Cub pack of this Church are enthusiastic and are entering into the games with lots of pep. Good games form a large part of the Cub program and in playing these, the boys learn fair play, sportsmanship and co-operation.

Mrs. Preston MacLaine, who instructs the boys in the games has several new ones each night. The Minister visited the pack and taught the boys some new songs.

Cubs are a junior branch of scouting and as soon as a boy learns the Cub law and signs he is invested, then he can begin work on his 1st Star Test.

Eleven scouts were present, including several new boys. After inspection and collection of dues, a talk was given on the first five Scout laws, signs and salute. All the scouts of this troop tied the Bowline knot blindfolded. The Bowline knot is a life saving knot, and is used to tie a secure loop about a body, which will not slip and is easily untied. Scouts must learn to tie it with one or two hands.

The games for the evening were three races, follow the leader. The troop committee show a real interest in the work, which is a great help to the Scoutmaster.

There was a good turn-out of Scouts Monday night, including several visitors from "King's Own Troop." This troop is very active and a number of boys will soon be invested.

At Church of Most Holy Redeemer
Eleven boys were present at the Thursday night meeting. This troop is making good progress under Scoutmaster Bradley, who has half of the troop passed in 2nd work and several more have nearly completed their tests.

Plans were made to send their patrol leaders and seconds to the Patrol Leaders' Conference.

Troop Leader Matland Owen is keeping this troop going in absence of the S. M. A number of the older scouts have been training at the Drill Shed and the meetings have fallen off in attendance lately, but when these drills are completed, the attendance will increase. This troop will be well represented at the Patrol Leaders' Conference. Scout Owen has been issued his King's Scout Badge, in other words he has passed Tenderfoot 2nd Class, 1st class tests, and besides, tests for 12 proficiency badges. Anyone who is interested enough can borrow or buy a Scout handbook. They will see that Scout Owen knows a lot more than the average boy. Scout Vinicombe of this troop has one more test to pass in order to secure this badge.

There was a good attendance at the regular meeting Monday night, and 1st class first aid work and Morse signalling were studied. The games played were Line Tag-of-War, Circle race.

This troop is to be congratulated on the Scout appearance of their Headquarters. They have a large progress wall chart, a large knot board, and a large picture of the Chief Scout, Lord Robert Baden Powell, and three charts framed in the Scout colors, green and gold.

Chinese Youth Express Views On Manchurian Crisis

First-hand information relative to the respective views of Chinese and Japanese Christian youth with regard to the present Manchurian situation is contained in letters received yesterday by President J. M. McFadyen of the Y's Men's Club of the Charlottetown, Y. M. C. A.

This correspondence, which is an important and timely development of the activities of the International Association of Y's Men's Clubs, now represented in ten different countries and among 160 clubs, has been directed to the Chinese Y's Men by Tsutae Nara, Chairman of the Japanese Y's Men's Club Committee on Sino-Japanese Relations, Osaka, Japan; and to the Japanese Y's Men by President Fuchao K. Wong, President of the Y's Men's Club of Nanking, China.

The communication from the acting president of the Chinese Club is given below. The Japanese viewpoint as presented by the chairman of the Japanese organization will appear in an early issue.

Young Men's Christian Association Nanking, China.

October 15, 1931
Fellow Y's Men affiliated with the International Association of Y's Men's Clubs.
Greeting:—

At a recent meeting of our Club, we were gratified to receive our charter of recognition and affiliation with the International Association of Y's Men's Clubs, and to realize that we are now a regular unit in a great brotherhood. We shall endeavour to live up to the ideals that Y's Men stand for, and though geographically separated by a great distance from most of the Clubs, we hope to participate in the fellowship which our international affiliation may afford.

It is in pursuance of this hope that in this critical hour through which our country is now passing, we wish to share with you some of our thoughts concerning the recent Japanese invasion of our Three Eastern Provinces frequently referred to as Manchuria.

Four years ago our present Nationalist government was established at Nanking after a difficult struggle against militarism and communism. Communism and sectional dissension have continued up to the present time and to be major difficulties with which we have had to contend. Then this summer and fall heavy and widespread rains, unprecedented for nearly a century, created flood conditions which have brought death to thousands and ruin to millions of our people. The task of saving and rehabilitating the eighty million people now in need of relief is an exceedingly heavy burden which the country is now trying to carry.

It was in the midst of such circumstances as these that the Japanese military launched their invasion of our territory on the evening of September 18 in which more than eight of the principal cities, separated by as much as four hundred miles, have been captured and occupied with serious destruction of life and property and the assumption by the invading forces of governmental functions.

Japan has given as the reason for this hostile attack the alleged blowing up of a small section of the railway of the South Manchurian Railway near Mukden. The truth of this alleged fact has yet to be proved; parties familiar with the facts deny that it ever happened.

at all. Were it true, however, the violence and scope of the invasion was out of all proportion to the alleged cause. But lying back of this incident the Japanese government states that there are three hundred outstanding claims for the settlement of which she has been forced to adopt this hostile method. In other words, in order to force a settlement according to her own desires, Japan has deliberately broken her adherence to the Covenant of the League of Nations, the Nine Power Treaty, and the Kellogg-Briand Pact.

By throwing up a smoke screen of three hundred unsettled problems, Japan seeks to lead the world to believe that the entire responsibility for the same lies at China's door, whereas any impartial observer familiar with the story of the last fifteen years of Japan's intercourse with China, will find it hard to reach any conclusion other than that most if not all of these problems have arisen as the result of Japan's aggressive policy by which she has been trying to "muscle" her way into a neighbor's premises in a manner which is unwelcome and with ulterior motives which are decidedly unacceptable.

The development of the invasion since the first attack has been carried on despite the request of the League of Nations that both sides refrain from any further aggravation of the trouble, and in the violation of Japan's promises to the League that she would do so. We are forced to the conclusion that the reasons given by Japan are a mere pretext invented by her as an excuse or signal for the commencement of an aggrandisement in which the penetration, domination and eventual possession of Manchuria and Mongolia is a major part.

Realizing the significance of this hostile move on the part of Japan and with a view to limiting, if possible, the scope and seriousness of the conflict, the Chinese Government as a signatory to the Kellogg-Briand Pact has adopted the policy of no military resistance and have appealed to the League of Nations to bring about a peaceful adjustment. As those who work evil fear the light of publicity, so Japan has done her best to dissuade or prevent the League from concerning itself with the affair. Yet when and where, if the League is ever to service any useful purpose in forestalling serious disturbances of world peace, could there be a clearer case of the League's responsibility? We are happy to note that the reports of the past few days indicate that the Council of the League is taking the matter up seriously; but it is too early, at present writing, to know what the outcome will be.

It has not been easy for the Chinese Government to hold to the policy of non-violence in the face of keen national resentment. Although the people, enraged by the aggression, have put a commercial boycott into telling effect, still to date there have been no recorded instances of loss of Japanese lives in any part in country under Chinese jurisdiction. Yet Japanese merchants, feeling the effects of the boycott, have demanded of their government that it take even more drastic measures to force a complete cessation of all anti-Japanese agitation, which itself is the result of Japan's prior encroachments. In response perhaps to this appeal and it is stated for the protection of its nationals, Japan has already sent additional naval forces to Shanghai and other coastal and Yangtze River ports, which only served to aggravate the situation.

Unless a peaceable settlement is very quickly reached the Chinese Government will be forced to resort to military measures of defence; and Communist elements are likely to increase due to the crippling of the government's efforts in coping with them. If war should actually start, who can say where its ramifications may end. The present situation has all the possibilities of developing this into a terrible world war unless it is nipped in the bud.

It is with this realization that we write to you, Fellow Y's Men, to endeavor to interpret to you the Chinese view of the crisis which is faced not only by China, but also by the world, as to help you if possible in understanding the course of events as reports eventually reach you from time to time. We want you to appreciate the sincerity of our desire for peace and justice.

With stoic assurance of friendship and goodwill.
(Signed) Fuchao K. Wong,
Acting President

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 2.
