Ironized Yeast Gives the Stomach Natural Digestive Power!

There's one organ in the human body that "kicks back" when it gets weak and that's the stomach. No stomach on earth can operate without vitamins—vitamin B. The thing is true about the nerves. There is hardly anything that can happen to the nervous system that is not at once reflected to the stomach. Weak nerves, weak stomach! Nature has only one answer; more vitamins ironized! But remember that Ironized Yeast is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This is why Ironized Yeast produces almost immediate results in cases of loss of appetite, aversion to food, belching, gas on the stomach, fermentation, "lump-of-lead" feeling after eating, dyspepsia, indigestion. There is only one ironized yeast in the world. It contains yeast - vitamins with organic-iron, the very natural food-power which every strong stomach and every strong nervous system possesses. The answer is, Ironized Vitamin-Iso! Ironized Yeast is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 10 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto; Sales Agts. Take Ironized Yeast, you'll enjoy eating, and digest thoroughly everything you eat. That's life!

Though a few thousand stocks of late oats, may still be under the weather, it can no longer be truly stated that an abundant crop of grain has been housed or stacked here in this year of grace 1922. It is to be regretted that some fields of oats were visited by a blight of some kind. But, for the most part our fields of wheat, oats, barley and other grains have yielded full crops. From our potato patches, some of which are quite large, an abundant return is assured; and other root crops are yet growing vigorously. Wherever there has been good cultivation, there has, this year been plentiful production. For this satisfactory result of the farmers' labors we are indebted first and most of all to a kind Providence. Men fertilize the land, plow, sow, weed and spray; but now, as in the olden times it is God who giveth the increase. It is nevertheless pleasing and encouraging to note that work on our farms, generally, is better done than in past years, and that improved methods of cultivation are being introduced. The longer period of outlay of each farmer, the farm papers he reads, the ample set at the Experimental Farm Station, the Farmers' Institute, with the thought and discussion they provide together with the demand of the markets for products of high quality, have resulted in a heightening up of the standard of cultivation throughout the province and the better yields obtained even though the population has decreased. The increased yield is also, evidently due in large part to the employment of improved farm machinery and improved farm implements. One person, with the machinery obtainable by all those who have cash, can now do as much work on the farm in some lines, as five or ten or more persons could do when machinery was unavailable. For that reason the loss of the population which has gone to swell the population and increase the production of food products is not so very deplorable as some of our popular writers insist. Nor can it be fairly argued that those food producers, who have gone to the cities to add to the number of food consumers are a loss to this agricultural province. The demand for farm products has thereby been strengthened and prices of farm products have thereby been increased. From the farmers point of view it is good when the neighboring cities are big and that the demand for food products is rather strong than the supply. When the supply is heavy and the demand weak prices will, of course, go down and the farmers' profit will be so much the less. But when the demand is strong, prices are high and profits satisfactory. As soon as we see Moncton, New Glasgow, Amherst, St. John, Halifax and Sydney, etc. considerably enlarged, we shall have cause to lament a decreasing population, and to do what we can to obtain additional workers on our farms. Till then let us be thankful that conditions in this province are not so bad as they would be if the country were full of producers, and their products in excess of demand. Making the increase of home consumers in the town demands attention. There are a few lines of manufacture that may be followed with some profit even in this essentially food producing province. In recent years farmers residing near Charlottetown have profited by the supply of cream to the great makers of cream cones, consumed by all classes of this urban community. If there were a larger population in Charlottetown they would profit to a still greater extent, not alone by the sale of cream but by the sale of other articles of consumption that would be needed. If we had also, a few factories for the making of pickles, preserves, etc., a demand would thereby be created for the vegetable and fruits products of our farmers—than which there are none of finer quality in all the world; and if we had a good large cannery for fruits, vegetables, meats, fish, etc., requiring the labor of many employees the profits of farmers round about would be increased by the sale of both the food consumed by the employees and the products they manipulate in this way profitable work could be given to a greater number of tillers of the soil. It is pleasing to learn that the Brick and Tile Factory at Richmond in Prince County is this year satisfactorily filling large orders for bricks. There is, it is stated, an abundant supply of clay excellent in quality. It is to be hoped that this industry will be encouraged and developed. The great wealth of Great Britain is due in large part to the utilization of the clay and other raw materials found in the earth and their manufacture into articles required by the people at home and throughout the world at large; and the people of this island will do well, if we could clay and the excellent building stone beneath their feet are utilized in like manner. No doubt there will be a demand for the tiles made at Richmond as the urban population of Eastern Canada increase and a wider area of farm lands of assured productivity is required for the production of food for citizens. But the attraction of tourists to our shores should be a prime object of the people of both towns and country in this Island Province. Markets for their products are for the most part, found outside the province and money has to be paid to reach these outside markets. But tourists bring markets to our doors. With money gained elsewhere they gladly pay profitable prices for all that they live upon while here, and they purchase things that meet their requirements and please their families. So they bring profit alike to the farmers and citizens. Encouragement of the tourist trade by every means possible, is there-

"I Was a Fright!" "Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fatter." "Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most miserable and unhappy girl that ever lived. Honestly, I was a sight. I was the most ungainly looking creature you ever saw, was thin and scrawny—straight up and down. My height was five feet nine inches and I weighed exactly ninety-one and three quarter pounds. No matter what kind of clothes I put on I looked like a fright. I was clumsy and awkward. I used to stand before the glass and study my features. I found I had a good nose, good eyes and a good mouth, but my cheeks were sunken and my face looked like a skull with a piece of parchment stretched over it. But nothing I could do or take made me any fatter. Men rarely even glanced at me. When they did, they merely gave me a casual, amused or pitying look—an expression which I am sure meant, 'why is a being like that allowed at large?' I used to lie awake at night for hours at a time wondering why there were so many beautiful girls in the world and I was so hideous. I met a friend of mine one day, Elsie W. and I hardly knew her. While she had never been as thin as I was, a year or more ago she ran me a close second, but when I met her she had taken on flesh and had developed the prettiest figure I had ever seen. She said she had never seen me since she had begun to put on flesh. I had begun to get to the druggist last month. I bought a bottle and since then I have been taking it regularly. It has made the greatest change in the 308 ever saw. I now weigh 166 pounds and all my friends tell me what a wonderful figure I have and I know that I am admired!" Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.
