They came by plane through Cairo, Egypt and Geneva to New York, thence to Montreal and P. E. Island. They are both studying the Persian language, for which cash prizes are given by the oil company. Mrs. O'Brien has already won $300.00 for proficiency. They have many examples of Persian handicraft in their household effects including a grand Persian rug woven around an arbor vitae (tree of life) which permeates the whole fabric—to the weaving of which there is attached a mystic Mohammedan ritual. It has been suggested that the rug be exhibited in the arts and crafts department of Old Home Week exhibition.—K.

Word has been received by Mrs. Joseph Wadman, telling her of brother, Mr. Colin Thomas, Everett, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian MacGregor and family, accompanied by Lorna Crossman are spending a few days visiting friends here.

The 50th anniversary of Our Lady of Mont Carmel Church, Mont Carmel, was observed yesterday by the ordination of three young men to the priesthood and the blessing of a new statue of Our Lady of Mont Carmel in the Church yard. His Excellency Most Rev. James Boyle, Bishop of Charlottetown officiated at both services. Later there was a program of speeches from a platform erected on the lawn of the church. Hundreds of people from near and far were in attendance.

The Church of Our Lady of Mont Carmel, which is possibly the finest Catholic Church in the Province next to the Basilica in Charlottetown, is located on a point of land overlooking Northumberland Strait. The many stone arches that beautify the grounds and the adjoining cemetery are the work of an old gentleman of the parish, Mr. Gageton Arsenault.

The new priests that were ordained at mass at 10.30 by the Bishop of the Diocese are: Rev. Emanuel Richards, son of Mrs. Richards and the late Cyrus Richards, Mont Carmel; Rev. Sylvere Gallant, on of Mrs. Gallant and the late Anthony Gallant, Egmont Bay; Rev. Joseph LeClair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LeClair, Tignish. Bishop Boyle was assisted by Rev. R. F. C. Cormier and Rev. J. W. McCardle while Rev. P. McMahon was master of ceremonies. Assistants to the newly ordained priests were: Rev. Andre Arsenault for Father Richards; Rev. V. N. Poirier for Father Gallant and Rev. Charles Gallant for Father LeClair.

The sermon at the mass was preached by Rev. Emanuel Gallant of the Eudist Fathers, a professer at Sacred Heart University, Bathurst and a native of the parish. Father Gallant pointed out that the church is the house of God. He reviewed the history of the parish from its founding in 1812, the erection of a small log cabin church in 1820, the second church in 1827 and finally the beautiful church of today, built in 1899. He referred to the work of the late Rev. P. P. Arsenault, who built the present church and who lies buried in the church yard.

Father Gallant said that the soul is also the house of God and to work with our souls God sends Divine labourers who are priests. On the occasion of this 50th anniversary God has sent three new priests, the speaker said.

The following clergymen were present in the sanctuary: Revs. J. W. Pineau, J. P. E. O'Hanley, John Sullivan, Bernard Gillis, J. C. Pitre, P. F. MacDonald, M. J. Francis, John A. McDonald, Michael Rooney, Leonard McDonald, W. D. McDonald, J. D. Kelly, H. Wight.

The following visiting clergy were also present: Rev. Clement Cormier, C.S.C., Rev. Remi Rosignol, C.S.C., Brother Francois Doucet, C.S.C., Brother Omer Cormier, C.S.C., all of St. Joseph's University, Memramcook, N.B., Rev. Francois Boudreau, Havre Aubert, Magdalen Islands, Rev. Andrew Arseuanlt, Magdalen Islands, Rev. Desire Allain, Bouctouche, N.B., Rev. Oswald Parelle, Moncton, Rev. Gavin Monaghan, Oaklahoma.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the new statue of Our Lady of Mont Carmel was blessed by Bishop Boyle who later addressed the gathering in French on his recent trip to Rome. He also spoke in congratulatory terms to the people of the parish.

The pastor, Rev. J. F. Buote, who arranged the celebration, presided at the afternoon program. He expressed his appreciation to the Bishop for being present and also thanked the members of the clergy who had assisted. He thanked the people of the congregation for the cooperation given in arranging and carrying out the program.

The three newly ordained priests spoke briefly expressing appreciation for help they had received particularly from Professor J. H. Blanchard and the St. Thomas Aquinas Society.

Others who spoke were Professor Blanchard, Mr. M. A. Robichaud, K.C., of Bathurst, N.B., Mr. Euclid Daigle, Moncton, editor of L'Evangeline, and Mr. Leonce Gallant of Egmont Bay, president of the Acadian Students of P.E.I. His Honour Lieutenant Governor J. A. Bernard was present at the morning service.—S.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. KENNETH C. HOLM

—Her memory to us is a keepsake,
With which we shall never part
Though God has her in His keeping,
We still have her in our hearts.

Such lines as these apply in a beautiful way to the memory of the late Mrs. Kenneth C. Holm who very recently departed this life at her home in Victoria after a brief illness. She was one of those charming people who though well past the four-score mark never seemed to grow old.

To her living meant more than to the average person and to be in her company one was quite unaware of the many years that were hers for she possessed a buoyancy of spirit, and an alertness of mind that was truly remarkable for one of her years.

She was very greatly interested in beauty and a walk through her old fashioned flower garden was quite convincing that she was a lover of nature and she was never happier than when she was working amongst her flowers preparing bouquets to send to shutins and sick neighbours and friends. Her hands were never idle for like Dorcas of Bible days she delighted in using her needle to fashion garments of many kinds, but her greatest joy was in the service of her Master whom she loved to serve and whom she was unafraid to meet when the summons came. That time for her was to be no more.

She will be greatly missed by her loved ones in the home, her brother Cyrus Mallett who survives her and a sister, Mrs. James Henderson of Sydney, N.S. who for a number of years has been spending her summers with her, and who tenderly cared for her during her short illness, a neice Mrs. Clayton Miller, Victoria, who was reared in her home from early childhood, besides a number of other neices and nephews and relatives and a host of friends who will mourn the loss of a kind neighbor and friend. She will be much missed in the community where she was always ready to lend a helping hand, and in the house of God where her place was seldom vacant.

Her funeral on Sunday, July 17th from her late residence was largely attended after which her remains were gently laid to rest in the Crapaud Cemetery beside those of her husband and infant children who had gone on before, there to await the glorious Resurrection when the dead in Christ shall rise first. Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; they do rest from their labours and their works do follow them.—V.

Campbell-Paynter Wedding

—St. Mark's Church, Kensington, was prettily decorated with bouquets of cut flowers on Tuesday, June 28th, 1949, when the Rev. S. J. Davies was the officiating clergyman at a double-ring ceremony, when Gladys Irene, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Paynter, became the wife of John Clair, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Irishtown.

The ceremony took place at two o'clock in the afternoon, and was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride was lovely in light blue crepe with eyelet embroidery, and hat in matching color. Her corsage was of red roses and she wore black accessories. Her only attendant was Miss Eileen Campbell, only sister of the groom, who was becomingly dressed in shell pink crepe with lace trimming, and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. Ingham MacNeill was best man for his cousin.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bridal party motored to Read's Studio, Summerside, where photos were taken.

The wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents at Kensington, where beautiful flowers adorned the rooms, and the dining-room was festive in pink and white with wedding bells.

The beautifully decorated wedding cakes, topped with miniature bride and groom, were cut in traditional manner by the newly wedded pair. Serving were Miss Lorna Warren and Mrs. George MacLeod.

The bride's mother chose figured crepe with white accessories for her daughter's wedding, while the groom's mother wore navy and white jersey with navy accessories. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a gold compact, and to the groom, a leather billfold. The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace and matching earrings, and to the groomsman a Ronson lighter.

The happy young couple left later in the afternoon, to cross to the mainland, where they spent several days touring the Maritimes. They will reside at Irishtown where the groom is a highly esteemed and progressive young farmer.

For her wedding trip the bride wore a grey gabardine coat over floral silk jersey.
