OPERATION AVOIDED

EXPERIENCE OF MRS. GLENN

She Was Told That an Operation Was Inevitable. How She Escaped It

When a physician tells a woman suffering with ovarian or womb trouble that an operation is necessary, the very thought of the knife and the operating table strikes terror to her heart, and our hospitals are full of women coming for ovarian or womb operations.

There are cases where an operation is the only resource, but when one considers the great number of cases of ovarian and womb trouble cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after physicians have advised operations, no woman should submit to one without first trying the Vegetable Compound and writing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is free.

Mrs. Robert Glenn, of 434 Marie St., Ottawa, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so well and widely known that it does not need my recommendation; but I am pleased to add it to the many which you have in its favor. I suffered untold agonies from ovarian troubles for nearly three years, and the doctors told me that I must undergo an operation; but as I was unwilling to do this, I tried your Vegetable Compound, and I am only too pleased that I did so, for it restored me to perfect health, saving me the pain of an operation and the immense bills attending the same."

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women. If the monthly periods are very painful, or too frequent and excessive—if you have pain or swelling low down in the left side, bearing down pains, leucorchœa, don't neglect yourself: try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SPICY SKETCH OF WINSTON CHURCHILL, M.P.

He Dares to do Anything and His Audacity is Incarnate—Outline of His History.

To-day says a contemporary writer, Winston Churchill is the centre of the British political arena. He is the most conspicuous and in many respects the ablest of British rising statesmen. He has gone from the Unionist to the Liberal benches in the House of Commons and it is safe to predict that in the near future he will be Liberal leader in the House. Speaking of his career, an particularly of his military adventures Lord Dufferin once remarked. "On every occasion he has shown that chivalrous courage which becomes a high minded gentleman, and what is just as important, that capacity, that skill and that resource that bear testimony to his intellectual ability."

Mr. Winston Churchill is audacity incarnate. He does dare and never ceases to dare. In this he is the true son of his father. Both the Churchills entered Parliament at the same age. To be an M. P. at twenty-five and a prospective party leader at thirty is a lot which has befallen to them, and to them only in our generation.

Winston Churchill's grandfather was the seventh duke of Marlborough and at one time lord lieutenant of Ireland in a Tory administration. The present

CHURCHILL WAS BORN IN 1874.

Educated at Eton and Cambridge, Winston finished at Sandhurst, with honors, in 1894. The next year he was appointed lieutenant in the Fourth Hussars. Soon, however, he obtained leave to visit Cuba, which was then in the throes of her ten-year war with Spain. His father had been correspondent for the Daily Graphic in South Africa; the son was special correspondent for the same journal in Cuba. He saw service under Martinez Campos, and was decorated for his bravery. No sooner had he reached home than his regiment was ordered to India. Although through the frontier he was in Malak and he fought with the Thirty-first Punjab Infantry and wrote for the Daily Telegraph. For his valor he was again decorated. When he returned to London he immediately joined the force of Lord Kitchener, for the reconquest of Khartoum all the time acting as correspondent for the Morning Post. His stay with Kitchener was one of adventure, and he was on the march from Atbara to Khartoum, and in the battle of Omdurman, which he described as an eye-witness. In his book, "The River War," he told the story of the conquest of the Soudan, and in his despatches to the Morning Post he criticizes the work of his commander-in-chief so lavingly and so truly that

HIS POLITICAL REPUTATION WAS MADE.

He however, soon concluded that he could be more useful out of the service.

It was not until the Boer war however that Winston Churchill rose to the first rank of war correspondents. He was the luckiest and smartest, and certainly the most picturesque personality of the newspaper writers during that conflict. He was taken prisoner in the early part of the war, escaped, and told all about it in his newsletters home. His correspondence marked him as a man of distinction—a man who was not only a keen observer and a bright writer but who had the political instinct in his blood. At first he was certain that the Boers, considering their courage and the strength of their religious conviction, would surely win, and it was some time, he says, before he could believe in a British triumph. In March, 1900, he published in the Morning Post his famous appeal dealing with the Boers in a reasonable spirit of conciliation.

Mr. Churchill entered Parliament as a Tory Democrat, and a Tory Democrat he remains to this day, although he sits on the Liberal benches. Toryism, however as interpreted by the Churchills, is often indistinguishable from Radicalism as interpreted by men like John Burns who have the historical insight and keen sympathy with the traditional glories of their country. He gave Parliament a taste of his quality in his scathing analysis of Mr. Broderick's new army scheme, in May, 1901, and was the only unionist who voted against it. Of his speech on that occasion, Mr. Missingham, whose "Pictures in Parliament" are perhaps the best contemporary chronicle of proceedings at Westminster, said:

"Its threads were not, of course, woven with the skill that comes of long practice and here and there were missing stitches. But in its elevation of purpose, its broad conception of national policy, and in

THE DIRECT MOVEMENT OF ITS CLOSING SENTENCES.

I recall nothing like it since Mr. Gladstone died. I will make no criticisms upon it—the first is, that it is the speech that should long ago have been delivered from our benches the second is, that in the years to come its author should be prime minister—I hope Liberal prime minister—of England."

Always a Conservative. Mr. Churchill remains a free trader, and in this fact is to be found the cause of his desertion of the Unionist ranks. He could not remain a Jingo and a militarist, so he became a supporter of the Liberals. His first serious administrative speeches were made against financial expenditure and the policy of protection. His first field for retrenchment is in the army, he upholds, but he is unalterably opposed to the attempt to convert England to a military power. There are two other questions upon which he differs from the old Conservative forces—he has Radical ideas on the Irish question and on education; he is against the National Education Act. It may be said that he is a born demagogue. Perhaps he is but this young man, demagogue though he may be, before he is thirty, has already won the ear and aroused the enthusiasm of the great majority of his countrymen.

LADY'S PRINCESS WRAPPER.
(No. 3132.)

Whether for evening dresses or for morning wear the princess gown takes the palm for elegance. In a wrapper it is without any superfluous fullness to hamper the movements or to catch on odd corners, and as an evening dress it may be plain or may serve as a foundation on which to drape other fabrics.

The darts and seams should all be carefully feather-boned and darts adjusted to the curves of each individual figure.

The style lends itself admirably to all kinds of trimmings, such as fancy collars of lace or embroidery, ruffling applied in various ways, bands of velvet, etc., or it may be perfectly plain.

The pattern is in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The 36-inch size will require 7¼ yards of material 42 inches wide, and two yards of lining.

HOW TO CURE A TERRIFIC HEADACHE

Many people suffer with an aching head week after week, occasionally getting relief from so-called headache powders and nerve-stupefying drugs. They never get cured because they start wrong. Such people should do a little common-sense thinking. Headache is simply the result, a warning signal, of a far more serious trouble. Usually it means bad blood, poisoned by an inactive or sluggish liver. Headache sufferers are often nervous, cross and irritable. Their sleep is disturbed and digestion impaired. The liver doesn't do its work right, and the bile elements poison both nerve and brain. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills cure headache by removing the cause. They are Nature's true laxative, and give tone to liver activity, are a positive specific for biliousness and a torpid liver. Get your liver right by using Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills and your head won't ache, your nerves won't weaken, nor your food distress you. They cure headache, constipation, and biliousness in one night. Price 25 cents at all dealers.
