Says Man Always Afraid of Women
 (AP)—"Our civilization has been featured by a struggle of man to keep woman in her place because he is afraid of her," an all-male audience at a greater Buffalo audience club luncheon was told today by a woman.

Mrs. Maxine Bertha Volmer of Fullerton, author, linguist and lecturer, said the savage feared his woman because of magic—he was afraid he would catch her weakness.

"In early Christian times, he feared her as a temptation and during the Renaissance, the historical phenomenon of the 'lady' appeared."

Mrs. Volmer added: "I think it's a high time we drop the artificial term 'lady' for they earned the right during this war to call themselves 'just women' without apology."

Constitution of Yugoslavia

By WILLIAM B. KING
 (AP)—The Federal Republic of the Yugoslavians has discarded its traditional monarchy along with the monarchy as it moves into the area under a near-Russian constitution. The new constitution is being drafted and carefully considered documents provide a control far in excess of those western democracies. At the time it guarantees the rights of citizenship and private property, it also provides for a "revolutionary" dictatorship. George Stone reverently walks into the office wearing his round white clerical collar, the Sarnia Observer's city editor knows he is to be given a story on a wedding or a funeral. It's about the only time Mr. Stone wears his professional collar to work. Mr. Stone, rector of Point Edward and three Anglican churches in the district, also is part-time reporter on the Observer and has been for the last three years. It is "an ideal sideline for any minister," says Mr. Stone. "It gives a wider interest in life and a tolerance toward human weakness. I have learned to understand people."
