BREAKS IN THE PRICE OF CORN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Decided breaks took place today in the price of corn as a result of general selling based chiefly on clear warm weather in all directions. The conditions prevailing were regarded as ideal for ripening the corn. Peace gossip tended also to increase bearish sentiment. Opening prices, which ranged from 5-8 cents to 1 1/2 cents lower, were followed by a material further set back. Further embargo restrictions were taken by some authorities to indicate that neutrals would get no more American wheat for some time. It was asserted that no foreign shipments would be made except on the strictest rationing basis.

KEEP THIS IN MIND—No matter what other lines you inspect always remember that PATON'S trimmed and tailored hats embody snap, style and becomingness. 9095-9-18-3M31

IN MEMORIAM

MR. RALPH CROSSMAN

A large number of our readers will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Ralph Crossman, at the age of thirty-eight, which occurred on September 11th, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Alphonso Connell, Wellington. He deceased had been in the United States for several years, but came home the first part of the summer in quest of health, which had been failing him. He was a favorite, and will be missed by all who knew him. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alphonso Connell, and Miss Helen, and one brother, Samuel. The latter two are residing in the United States. His remains were laid to rest at the Baptist burying ground, Tyne Valley. The service at the house and grave was conducted by Rev. Mr. Young. The pall bearers were Messrs. Edward McCarville, Pernel Cosgrove, Harry Cotton, Spurgeon Day, William Barlow and Edwin McDonald.

THE LATE MR. JOHN DICKIESON.

The passing of the late esteemed citizen, Mr. John Dickieson, removes one who for now almost forty years has been an active figure in the business and social life of Summerside, and throughout the Province, where for many years his business brought him into connection with a great number of the people.

He was born in June, 1848, at Wilnot Valley, being a son of the late Daniel Dickieson and his wife Catherine Ramsay. Being one of a numerous family, he early in life left home, and learned the trade of a manufacturer of farm implements, serving his time with Mr. Angus Gregor at New Glasgow, P. E. I., afterwards locating at Ross's Corner, Bedouque, where for a number of years he conducted a successful business in that line. Almost forty years ago he removed to Summerside and first in connection with the late J. R. Calhoun, and later, with the late Theo. J. Clark, he built up a large and prosperous trade. After the removal of the above named parties, he conducted the business alone, having added quite an extensive agency business in many lines, and the result of his activities enabled him to accumulate a comfortable competence. Later, as the result of changing conditions and unfortunate reverses, the great part of his savings were swept away. With failing health and the additional burden of ill-health among other members of his family, he some few years ago retired from his usual business, and devoted his time and talent to the cultivation of his beautiful gardens, in which, despite his steadily failing health, he achieved considerable success. He was a great lover of nature, and was never happier than when amongst the plants and flowers.

At various times he served the Town as a Councillor and Assessor, in each of which positions he gave his very best service, and was noted for the strictest integrity. Although of a somewhat retiring and unassuming disposition, he could yet be vigorous in denunciation of what he seemed wrong. Quick to resent an injury, he was yet as ready to forgive and behind an ofttime brusque manner there lay the kindest of hearts, the most loyal friendship, the greatest charity towards the erring. His love of little children, of whom there were none in his own home, was a notable feature, all the little ones in the circle of his acquaintance loved him and were beloved by him, and their grief at his death will be the sincerest tribute to his worth.

He was married to Miss Lydia M. MacPhail, who is left in very delicate health to mourn his loss, as also that of a dear sister who for years had made her home with them, and who passed away only two weeks before his death. Of the members of his own family there are left one brother H. R., in Dakota, another, A. E., in Massachusetts, and one Reuben, in Summerside, also four sisters, Mrs. Hardman, Chicago; Mrs. Jennings, Paw Paw, Mich.; Mrs. Bath, Dakota and Mrs. J. Orr, B.C.

And now after a life filled with activities in the exercise of which he experienced the pleasure of success and the humiliation of defeat, respected by all, he sleeps in the little cemetery beside the river, in sight of the home of his childhood, and almost beside the little country school, where as schoolmates the friendship between himself and the writer of these lines was formed—friendship that has grown with the years, and strengthened by an intimate acquaintance throughout a whole lifetime, and now from a distance of thousands of miles, he who is left sends back his weak tribute of respect and love.

Farewell, dear, loyal friend. The world is better because you lived. Your friends and the community are poor because of your passing.

Germany's Planned to Plant Colony in Commonwealth

Germany's designs upon Australia as part of her reputed comprehensive policy of attaining command of the Persian Gulf and control of the sea routes converging upon the Suez Canal have been revealed among certain striking facts just made public by the federal authorities of the Commonwealth. These revelations deal with German espionage—chiefly on the eve of the war.

As northern West Australia is but a few days by steam from southern Asia, and, of all the Australian states, West Australia is the most thinly populated, it would appear that German schemes and spying were directed upon that part of the continent in particular. An intercepted detailed report from a German mis-

Charlottetown's Home of Music

Music the ideal amusement for the home. It is safe and sane, appealing to our finer emotions, binding family influences with a wholesomeness that links young and old together.

Mr. Edison has as through a miracle Re-Created the Music of the world's greatest Artists, Vocal and Instrumental.

It is impossible to distinguish between the Artists in the original and Mr. Edison's Re-Creations of their Art. This is proved daily in Canada and the United States by actual test, that of having the Artists sing or play with their Re-Creations.

The New Edison, or the Phonograph with a soul is Mr. Edison's most sublime gift to mankind. It has been demonstrated this week in Hertz Memorial Hall and the Prince Edward Theatre. Hearing is believing. We feel sure you are convinced Mr. Townsman of the superiority of the New Edison. It will be our pleasure to give you further demonstration at our store. Come in and hear of our easy payment plan.
