CRIPPEN'S SOLICITOR OUTLINES HIS DEFENCE

LONDON, Aug. 23.—From Solicitor Arthur Newton, Attorney for Dr. Crippen, was today secured the first outline of defence. Emotional appeals to jury, such as figure in American Courts, Newton declared, will not be made. From this standpoint, the case appears substantially as follows: Fragments of a human body were dug up in the cellar of the house of Dr. Crippen. The police say the bricks under which these fragments were found had recently been disturbed, but expert evidence will be forthcoming that it is impossible for anyone to determine this point assuming that bricks had been untouched for as much as a month.

Dr. Pepper, Government analyst, has stated that he has identified the remains as those of a woman, but Dr. Marshall, who conducted the post-mortem, testified before the coroner that he could not swear as to the question of sex, and it is doubtful if Dr. Pepper's belief can be substantiated under cross-examination.

At any rate it seems certain that the prosecution will fail to make good its claim that fragments were those of a woman who once underwent an operation, overwhelming weight of medical evidence being that it is sheer impossibility to find such traces in remains in the condition of those discovered in the Hilldrop Crescent residence.

The police expect to make much of the fact that Crippen is known to have pawned jewelry belonging to his wife after her disappearance, but the defence, Newton says, will show that he was for years constantly pawning and redeeming this jewelry.

As to the significance of Crippen's flight will point out that it was perfectly natural for the doctor, in view of his wife's admittedly mysterious disappearance to feel that he was under suspicion, and that it was by no means surprising for him to shrink from police inquiry.

The defence will make the most of the fact that the inspector failed to find enough evidence against Crippen in his first examination of the doctor to warrant an arrest. The finding of human remains and the flight of the doctor are the only possible bits of evidence the prosecution has, Newton contends.

Consensus of legal opinion here is that unless the police have a far stronger chain of evidence than has yet been indicated, the court will actually order the release of Crippen. Some criminal lawyers are even betting five to one that Crippen will be acquitted.

Newton will not say who is furnishing the money for Crippen's defence, but he says he is liberally supplied with funds. Crippen is counted fortunate in his selection of Newton, who is generally considered the cleverest criminal lawyer in England.

The engagement is announced of Miss Nora Lefurgey, daughter of the late Thomas Lefurgey, St. Eleanor's, now of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, to Edmund Ernest Campbell, M. Sc., of the Granby Copper Company, Phoenix, British Columbia.

There are very becoming garments in the tight-fitting and semi-fitting styles, made after the most correct models. The tailoring is perfect. All the new colorings and new cloths are represented. The new diagonal weaves are particularly stylish.

While driving from his father's farm on the outskirts of the town to his home yesterday afternoon, Ralph, the seven-year-old son of Levi Silliphant, Summerside, was badly cut about the head and face, caused by the horse running away. When near St. Paul's R. C. Cemetery, a bolt worked out of one side of the shafts and dropping struck the mare on the legs causing her to run. The little fellow pluckily held onto the reins and was dragged over the dashboard but managed to hang onto the lower part of the wagon. The mare ran from opposite the Cemetery to near the residence of C. W. Strong, where the wagon caught between the fence and the telephone poles and it was about there that the little fellow was thrown to the ground. He was picked up and taken to his home and after having the wounds washed and dressed was able to move around. The carriage was completely demolished and the mare badly cut about the legs.

The use of a little judgment or "horse sense" will tell any person that the coal with the greatest amount of heat-producing qualities is the most economical coal to buy. Inverness is properly screened coal—every particle of foreign matter is extracted, leaving nothing but a good, uniform standard of clean, screened coal.

Advertising is the keynote of Success. Many a huge business structure has toppled down for the want of judicious advertising. It just reaches out and gives the public that hearty handshake that begets warm-hearted confidence. But if you are not an adept at advertising you are using the very means to break down your business that should build it.

Good advertising is not expensive. The publicity that will build a business brick by brick, is profitable advertising. Proper publicity is a study of human nature—an analysis of your business, methods and presenting the strong points of your business attractively and forcibly.

Advertising is the concentration of forces that unite and compel attention. Let us talk advertising. Phone 123 or call if more convenient.
