SUPREME COURT AT SUMMERSIDE

Lewis Case Before Court all Day. Jury Dis-agreed on Verdict.

In the Supreme Court, Summerside, yesterday, before His Lordship, Mr. Justice Hazard, the case was resumed and concluded of Irving and Archibald Lewis, charged on two counts, with shooting Constables Barbour and Brown.

Mr. Johnston led evidence for the defence and the case was closed at 1 p.m. After the luncheon adjournment Counsel addressed the Jury and His Lordship summed up the evidence. At 4.45 the Jury retired and at 6 o'clock the foreman reported that they had failed to arrive at a verdict and it appeared impossible for them to do so. The Judge informed them that he would have to send them back, telling them that if they could not agree all the case would have to be tried over again. The jury accordingly retired and at the time of adjournment were still in their room.

SUMMARY

(Special to the Guardian.)
LONDON, June 17.—Another twenty-four hours of fighting in Galicia has developed nothing to stem the Austro-German advance toward Lemberg from the west and north-west, and to-night Berlin claims that the Russians are retreating over their own frontier toward Tarnopol, about four miles from the Galician border. This means the invasion of Russian territory at a new point, but, according to military observers here, it may shell out to the ultimate advantage for Russians in that a general Russian retreat northward into Poland would divert General Von Linna's attempt to crush the Russian centre near Souwari, which would effectively sever communications of the Russian army in South-Eastern Galicia and Bukovina. Military writers here say that the real danger zone, from the Russian standpoint is in the Soutwar district and along the Dniester.

According to Berlin, Austro-German forces have battered through Niemenow, thirty miles north-west of Lemberg and are advancing toward Jawrow which is only 25 miles to the west of the Galician capital. The British blow to some extent, and not minimizing the importance of Austro-German successes in Galicia acclaim what is styled the Grand Duke Nicholas elusive strategy in shifting front from north and south to north-west and south-east. This manoeuvre it is stated, has deflected the Austro-German line to some extent, and at the same time denied them full test of strength. Thus the Russian retreat is characterized in London as strikingly paralleling the Allies' retreat in the west last fall, which culminated in the Allies' victory on the Marne. The struggle along the Dniester and before Lemberg it is considered here, must determine which side is more astute in the present manoeuvre.

GERMANS TO RAID PARIS AND LONDON

(Special to the Guardian.)

One of the two Zeppelins destined for operations against Italy was sent away from Friedrichshafen yesterday to replace the dirigible destroyed over Belgium recently by British aviator Warneford. It is reported in Geneva that the German authorities are preparing for an important combined raid of Zeppelins and aeroplanes on Paris and London in retaliation for the recent attack on German towns by aviators of the Allies.

TRAGIC DEATH OF P. E. ISLANDER

Body of Robert Gordon said to be P. E. Islander Found in Connecticut River.

(Special to The Guardian.)
WALEPOLE, N. H., June 17.—Robert Gordon, aged 57, a native of Prince Edward Island, was found a suicide in the Connecticut River. About one thousand dollars in cash were found in his pockets. He was recently left a fortune by James F. Gordon, one of the founders of the Black Silver Fox industry in Prince Edward Island. It was at first thought he was murdered by the presence in the pockets of Gordon's clothing of the money proves conclusively that a murder theory of the man's death entertained by the New Hampshire officials because of suspicious circumstances attending it, was groundless and that Gordon must have ended his life.

A telephone message was sent to the Worcester, Mass., police that the mystery of Gordon's sudden disappearance from Bellows Falls, Vt., had been cleared by the finding of the body. Gordon had been living in Worcester. The body was found floating in the eddy of the Connecticut River near Gold River outlet, about one mile below Tucker Toll Bridge. It was decomposed by its stay of more than two months in the river but was recognizable. In the pockets of his clothing were three bank books, one on the Worcester Savings Bank, another on the Merchant's National Bank, and a third on a bank which the name was undistinguishable. There was also a gold ring and a railroad ticket from Waterbury, Vt., to Windsor, Vt.

William J. Corbett, Chairman of the Selectmen of Walepole, and a brakeman of the Boston and Maine Railroad Co., at Bellows Falls freight yards, saw the body floating in the river. He had been interested in the search because of his official position in the town and immediately notified Chief of Police William S. Severance, and Patrolman Angus McKinnon, both of Bellows Falls; also officials of Cheshire County, in which is Walepole, Vt., and was removed to a receiving vault in Oakhill Cemetery.

Gordon leaves a sister, Miss Catherine Gordon, of West Somerville, Mass. Gordon lived in Hotel Pelham, Walnut St., until a few days before he committed suicide. He had been acting in a peculiar manner and was intensely interested in religion. He drew $700 from the banks with which he did business and said he was going to New Hampshire and Vermont to open business in eggs and butter.

Gordon reached Bellows Falls on April 15 and went to Rockingham Hotel. After he registered he went to the Baptist Church, of School street, and took part in a prayer service. His mother worried him and he gave it to Henry C. Bacon to be left in the safe of W. H. Bodine and Co., overnight.

Next morning he seemed bewildered when he went to claim the money. Harry D. Holland, night clerk of the hotel, saw Gordon standing on Tucker Toll Bridge over the Connecticut River, between Bellows Falls and North Walepole. An hour later Patrick Mc-Nogue, North Walepole, found a packet of letters and other papers belonging to Gordon on the bridge.

On the fly leaf of a diary was written "May God have mercy. I never will be dragged into court. My life has been what I made it through thinking more of others than myself." Gordon also leaves a wife from whom it is alleged he has been separated many years.

The performance of the children in the above programme showed excellent care and skillful training.

The ladies began to serve tea at 4.30 p.m. and from that until 7.30 p.m., there was a steady influx of people, who partook of one of the most delectable and substantial meals ever served at a like function.

There were a number of candy, ice cream and other booths, which were all well patronized.

One of the most enjoyable features of the affair was the excellent music furnished by the League of the Cross Band.

A number of motor cars, kindly furnished by the car owners of the city, brought the people to and from the grounds.

The festival was a most memorable and exceptionally enjoyable one, being a great success in every respect.
