"After The Thin Man" An Irresistible Blend Of Merriment And Mystery

With all the entertaining points of its predecessor, and a number of new ones, Dashiell Hammett's mystery story, "After the Thin Man," opened at the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday, starring William Powell and Myrna Loy. This is a sequel to "The Thin Man" which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios produced in response to public demand.

The same director, W. S. Van Dyke, was responsible and there was no doubt that the sequel picks up in high where the original one left off.

An excellent supporting cast includes James Stewart, Elissa Landi, Joseph Calleia, Jessie Ralph and Asia, the intelligent wire-haired terrier which played a clever part in "The Thin Man."

The new story presents the ace detective as he returns from New York to his home in San Francisco determined to abandon sleuthing activities forever. The first thing that slaps him in the face is an A-1 mystery, with a murder and another series of irresistible adventures.

The Prince Edward Program also included the News which, this week, shows the exciting running of the Grand National.

Romantic Team Makes Hit Film Of Post Story

Francis Lederer has never been given a better screen role than his current one in the Paramount film romance, "My American Wife," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre. Lederer has the star ever been provided with a better screen mate than his co-star in the present picture, Ann Sothern.

"My American Wife" is light-footed romance, brought to the screen with a flair which only Lederer and a star of Miss Sothern's type could provide. The story itself, from a Saturday Evening Post feature by Elmer Davis, is refreshingly unique, and the cast lined up behind the principals is unusually capable. Heading the list is Fred Stone, veteran player who appears as an old Arizona pioneer with a Western contempt for the spangles and airs of foreign nobility. Billie Burke, Ernest Cassart and Grant Mitchell are outstanding among those that follow.

In "My American Wife," Lederer is a foreign Count who marries an American girl, Miss Sothern, purely for love. They return to Arizona, where the girl, prompted by her mother, begins to capitalize on the social prestige lent her by the Count's title.

Reversing the family scheme of things, the Count himself rebels. He wants to be a real American, a cowboy and ranch operator. He takes Stone as his best friend, and starts learning to roll his own cigarettes and wear a ten-gallon hat. The conflict which follows heads the couple toward divorce, but they are reunited by a bit of deception staged by Stone.

Col. K. S. Rogers Addresses Rotary

"Of its past the general public knows little. Of its future, who can say. As one who has followed its development for thirty years and participated actively in its local application, I can only say that I am still thrilled with the possibilities of the future. I know that radio will be, if anything can be, a contributory factor in that much desired international understanding which alone will banish the horror of war from the world of the years to come."

This was the concluding statement made by Rotarian Col. Keith S. Rogers, in his address before the Rotary luncheon yesterday on the Science and Practice of Radio Present and Future.

A tremendous change and development have taken place during the five years when he last addressed the club on this subject.

Radio has entered the homes of the people, stimulating their thought processes, educating them musically and providing entertainment of the highest value at an infinitesimal cost. Radio is about seven years of age. Some form of radio broadcasting may be found in every civilized country. Apparently insoluble problems of finance, interference and program material have been conquered. In England, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, a broadcasting service has been financed by license fees alone these fees not only bearing the entire cost of the service but in some cases providing a surplus to the general revenue of the country, no commercial advertising being necessary.

However, listeners hear advertising on the air from neighbouring countries with their systems based on the commercial sale of time. While it is possible for a government to dictate what shall be broadcast within its own country, the horizon of radio is not bounded by any national frontiers. As it is primarily a medium of entertainment, if it is employed as a medium of enlightenment or education

Report Throws Cold Water On Bridge Projects

Premier Campbell has received from Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, Ottawa, the following report from D. W. MacLachlan of the Department, relative to the proposed bridges across the North and West Rivers.

A proposal has been received to build two highway bridges, one across the Elliot River, and one across the York River, both of which are westerly arms of Charlottetown harbour.

About thirty years ago a railway and highway bridge was built across the Hillsborough River, an easterly arm of Charlottetown harbour. This bridge cost $1,361,988 according to departmental records. At the Hillsborough bridge surface conditions appear to be very like those at the Elliot River crossing proposed, excepting for the width which is greater, that at Hillsborough being 4496 ft., while the width at North Point on the Elliot River is 3100 ft. The depths in the deeper parts of the river are about the same and there is no reason to expect better foundation conditions at the proposed site at North Point than at the west arm than were found at the Hillsborough crossing of the east arm. Though no accurate estimate of a large bridge can be made without borings, yet it is evident a bridge for highway traffic at north point could not cost less than $800,000 and might cost much more if solid rock or other suitable foundation were not found close to the surface.

The area of country which the above bridge would serve is not more than 8 miles long by 2 1/2 miles wide. In this area not more than 150 families can possibly reside as there are only 1130 people in the whole of township 65 which includes the above and much other territory as well.

If each of those families went to Charlottetown twice per week, they might save $1.00 per trip by use of the bridge across the Elliot River at North Point. This saving in a nine month season might amount to $12,000 per year but this could not be any stretch of the imagination justify the building of the bridge in question.

The second bridge proposed, via that across the York River at York Point would be shorter than that at the sites discussed above and the depth of the water at the site would also be less. Costs, however, would still not be less than $400,000 and the distance saved on a round trip to Charlottetown would not be more than six miles. The families affected might reach 400 and the yearly savings might reach $10,000 per year but even this would not justify spending more than $200,000 and certainly it is plain the bridge cannot be built for that sum no matter how favorable borings show the foundation conditions to be.

Canadian Red Cross Executive Meets

The Executive of the Prince Edward Island Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society held a meeting on Thursday, April 15th. Mr. R. H. Rogers reported on the meeting of the Central Council which Mr. Tweedy and he had attended at Toronto on the 7th and 8th. The reports submitted to Council from all the Provincial Divisions showed that the Red Cross has had a most successful year and had carried on a vast amount of humanitarian work in all parts of Canada. The Society had collected about $350,000.00 in money and goods for the relief of the sufferers from drought in the Prairie Provinces. A great work had been done in Outpost Hospitals maintained by the Society in places remote from the ordinary means of communication in northern Ontario and the western provinces. These have been the means of relieving a great deal of suffering and saving many lives in frontier settlements, mining camps and other remote places.

The Junior Red Cross movement is advancing all along the line in Canada and every year larger numbers of school children are being brought under the influence of this organization. About seventeen million children in fifty-four countries are enrolled in the Junior Red Cross, wherein they acquire good health habits, and have instilled into them the principles of good citizenship and international goodwill. The cultivation of mutual understanding and respect between the children of fifty-four nations is one of the most hopeful influences making for international peace at the present time.

In our own province, certain classes of service which elsewhere are performed by the Red Cross are now carried on under the Department of Health and other branches of provincial and civic government. Our Society concentrates chiefly on the promotion of Junior Red Cross and the work for crippled children. Upward of 90 per cent of the schoolrooms in our province have organized Branches of the Junior Red Cross. For several years the work for the relief of crippled children has been done on an ever-increasing scale and very large numbers of children have been relieved of handicaps which otherwise would have rendered it impossible for them to take their places in normal life. A new departure in the year under review was the Camp for crippled children carried on last summer under the supervision of Miss Mona Wilson. This was an innovation in Red Cross work in Canada. It is hoped to develop this service during the coming summer.

Mrs. Catherine MacLeod is spending the month of April with our Division and will return to her work in New Brunswick the first of May. Miss MacLeod is carrying on a very effective work in the sister province in promoting the Red Cross. It has been arranged that in the ensuing twelve months she will give ten months service in New Brunswick and two months in Prince Edward Island. The Assistant Director, Miss Bessie MacLeod, has been re-engaged for the year commencing May 1st. Miss MacLeod has done excellent work in promoting Junior Red Cross since she entered the service last August. The Annual Campaign for membership and financial support will be carried on during May and June. A Committee is engaged in the work of organization and the canvas in Charlottetown will probably be made about the second week in June. In the rural districts the Campaign will be carried out a little earlier.

Evangelistic Services

will begin at the

Central Christian Church

on Wednesday Evening of This Week with

Geo. W. Titus, Secretary-Evangelist of the Maritime Provinces doing the preaching assisted by the pastor, Rev. Samuel C. Cooper

These services have been planned for some time, and special features have been decided upon in the way of making the meeting not only interesting but most instructive. Mr. Titus who has held some of the largest pastorates of the Christian Church in the middle west of the United States has had a very wide experience in evangelistic work in nearly every state and in six of the Canadian provinces. He has introduced a very novel feature known as the Question Card which contains one hundred of the most important questions that come up in a series of meetings. These questions are asked and answered each evening from the teaching of the Bible. The sermons throughout the campaign will be short and on the most timely questions.

Special music will also be featured each evening by members of the choir and visiting singers.
