Great Comedy Bill At The Prince Edward

"Stepping Out," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's filimzation of the Broadway stage hit, is creating joy unconfined at the Prince Edward Theatre, with Charlotte Greenwood, Leila Hyams, Reginald Denny, Lilian Bond and Cliff Edwards, at the head of a battery of mirth makers whose antics rock the rafters.

It's a liling romance of Hollywood and Agua Caliente, with golds and troubles, jealousy and gold diggers, angry wives and errant husbands—all woven into an amazing structure of mirth.

Mrs. Greenwood, elongated heroine of "So Long Letty," is teamed with the stout Harry Stubbs as husband and wife, and Denny with the blonde Miss Hyams.

Butler and Eggers They play rich old men who try to back amoving picture and fall into the clutches of gold diggers. From Callente to Hollywood the revel of cross purposes and tribulations goes on.

Cliff Edwards is a riot as the college boy who gets emmeshed in the plot of jealousy and misunderstanding, and Richard Tucker is the suave lawyer who eventually straightens it all out.

Hollywood and its famous swimming pools; Callente and its tinsel pleasures, form a spectacular and colorful background for the comical story of errant husbands and jealous wives.
