P. E. Island Hospital

The management wishes to thank the School Trustees, Secretaries and Collectors in the different districts who have made the collection asked for on November 1st. We regret to say however that a very large number of school districts have not yet been heard from and we would respectfully ask the trustees in these districts to have the collection made during the coming week. Please do not forget that this is your institution as much as ours, that it is an absolute necessity in the community and that it can only be maintained by receiving the financial support of every person in Queens and Kings counties. The fees charged are only about half what it costs to take care of each patient while in the Hospital so we must receive additional revenue or raise the rates or close the doors to patients who are unable to pay, neither one of these steps need be taken if every person will help a little. The majority of the people are quite willing to give when the collectors call. Trustees please see that your district is finished this week.

CHARLOTTETOWN COLLECTION

MOTHER COUNTRY MUST UNDERSTAND CANADA

Prince of Wales in Speech Says Old Country Must Understand the Ideas and Aspirations of the Dominions.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Discussing the visit of the Prince of Wales to the city yesterday, the Times remarks that it is almost a year ago since he spoke at the Mansion House after his return from Canada.

The burden of his speech at that time was the change the war had made in the mutual relations between the various states of the Empire and he insisted that the Old Country must understand the ideas and aspirations of the dominions.

These truths, says the Times, have made their way into the consciousness of the British people, during the past year, but they are not yet understood here in their full significance even by some leading statesmen of these islands, as witness the antiquated ideas of what "dominion status" means, which have been evident in recent contributions to the Irish question.

The Prince, says the Times, is still far ahead of public comprehension here, even in circles which should know better. If he had devoted a part of his speech yesterday to a fresh exposition of this theme, he would have done a valuable public service, but doubtless his visits to the dominions have made dominion ideas about their national position and future so much commonplace to him that it is difficult for him to appreciate the slow progress they are making here.

The Times continues: "We are bound to say, too, that the Prime Minister showed once again yesterday that this reproach of lack of understanding and sympathy with the ideas, faiths and visions of the dominions does not lie against him as it lies against too many of his contemporaries."

The Daily Telegraph remarks that the disillusionment and depression which have weighed us down during the last two years have had their counterpart in the dominions. The credentials of every institution have been challenged anew. Among these we may be sure that the Crown and the Imperial connection did not escape. These have been questioned afresh, especially in Australia, where the Labor party has been in the ascendant for some years. Many Australians were genuinely anxious to know what reception would await the Prince of Wales. The event showed that their anxiety was needless, but it was the Prince who controlled the event. Democracy, especially young democracy, is fiercely jealous, not so much of the monarchy as of the traits and characteristics traditionally associated with it. The Prince appeared amongst them and gave a new conception of what a prince might be, and won them by his naturalness and his manifest sincerity, by his indifference to old-fashioned ideas of protocol and desire to please and rather a son by willing adoption than an heir by divine right.

The Prince's final words yesterday were:

"The dominions want population. We have population to spare, but a purely business method of emigration is no good nowadays. Flaming prospectuses will not draw emigrants steadily from this country. What is wanted is to plan human co-operation. We should not feel that we are populating places that will be lost to us, and they on their side should welcome our immigrants as friends, feel above all, that they are at home and really wanted there. There is no worse type of immigrant than the immigrant who fails; there is no better advertisement than immigrants who succeed."

"Success depends upon the way and spirit in which both sides tackle the subject. British population is a very valuable thing, and we must see to it that it remains all British. The closer and more human the understanding, the easier becomes the movement of men and, I may add, of capital, which the Empire requires. We want to make that understanding wider and deeper, so that it is never swamped with jealousy, either local or other. I hope the longer I live, the more I may see the steady strengthened and multiplied until the bond of fellowship which unites us is unbreakable."

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make it ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes of the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine pine-needle extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "Pinex" or "Pinex" brand. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

NEW FLAG

C. G. M. M. will do away with beaver on flag.

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—The Canadian Government Merchant Marine has adopted a new flag. The former emblem was a beaver on the ordinary Canadian red ensign, but because this was not clearly distinguishable at a distance, and perhaps because the sailors had begun to call the Canadian ships "the Rat Line," the emblem has been changed to a cross within a circle.

A Backyard Chat

"GOOD gracious! Is your washing really done so soon? I have hardly begun mine. What time did you start?"

"Why, it was a little after eight, I think, when I switched on the BLUEBIRD."

"BLUEBIRD, did you say? Oh, an electric clothes washer, eh? How does it work?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, I hardly know. But it's very simple. I get all my soiled things ready, just as you do, except that I don't boil them beforehand. Then I put scalding hot water in the tub of the BLUEBIRD, with plenty of soap. I switch on the current, and go on with my other chores. Then I come back in fifteen minutes, and put that tubful of clothes through the wringer (it's part of the BLUEBIRD and runs by electricity too, you know). That's about all. As a matter of fact, I hardly think of my washing now, because it's really no trouble."

"But don't you find it very expensive? I have thought of getting a BLUEBIRD, but it seems such extravagance."

"Extravagance! It's just the opposite, my dear—it's economy. Do you know, I really never realized until I got my BLUEBIRD that it was the rubbing on the washboard that made my clothes, tablecloths, and so on, wear out so fast."

"But how about your delicate things—georgettes, and laces, and things that you have to be so careful about?"

"Oh, you needn't worry about that! The BLUEBIRD doesn't rub things. In fact clothes last five times as long—so this economy alone soon saves the price of the machine. The BLUEBIRD simply rocks them back and forth, the soapy water goes through and through the things, carrying all the dirt with it. As a matter of fact, the BLUEBIRD uses the same method of washing as you do with your most delicate things—dipping them up and down repeatedly to let the water run through them. I find there's nothing too delicate or frail to be trusted to the BLUEBIRD."

"It must be a wonderful help?"

"Help—why, my dear, if I were you I simply wouldn't try to get along without a BLUEBIRD. I used to start on Sunday afternoon to dread without a BLUEBIRD. I was just a pack of nerves. I was wash day. After a day's washing, I was fairly snapped the heads of the children, cranky with my husband and fairly snappish in the least. And one of the greatest pleasures I get from my BLUEBIRD is that I always have heaps of clean things. I don't look at the children's clothes, the tablecloths, or the bed linen two or three times before deciding whether to 'put them in the wash'. If I think they would be better washed—in they go! The knowledge that I can do that is what makes me love my BLUEBIRD most, I think."

"I really never thought of that side of it, or the economy of it. Well, excuse me, I must get back to my washboard—but, believe me, as soon as I get through with to-day's bunch of trouble, it's the last—I'm going to own a BLUEBIRD too!"
