Veronica Lake And Alan Ladd In "Glass Key"

That combination of movie personalities which made an indelible mark in the minds of countless film fans when Paramount's "This Gun For Hire" was released — Veronica Lake and Alan Ladd —is again brought together by the same studio in Dashiell Hammett's "The Glass Key, which comes today to the Prince Edward Theatre.

Ladd sprang up from nowhere to storm into a place in the film firmament with his character-ization of the cold-blooded killer in "This Gun For Hire." In "The Glass Key" he is still very much the strong, silent man but this time his role is on the right side, for Lake, she of the very blonde hair and the very magnetic personality again is said to prove the perfect romantic vis-a-vis for him.

The third member of this triple-starrer, and the third corner of the romantic triangle, is Brian Donlevy who has just thrilled thousands with his performance in Paramount's "Wake Island." Others rounding out the excellent cast are Bonita Granville, Richard Denning, Joseph Calleia and William Bendix, the latter also having done his bit in "Wake Island."

"The Glass Key" is known to be one of Dashiell Hammett's most exciting mysteries. As a movie, rumor has it that it follows in the illustrious footsteps of Hammett's "The Thin Man" and "The Maltese Falcon." The story deals with the efforts of Donlevy, as uncouth, shady political boss, to win the love of Veronica Lake, blue-blood daughter of the man who runs for Mayor on the reform ticket. Ladd, Donlevy's "trains"- and right-hand man knows that Veronica loves him and is just pretending to care for Donlevy so that he will help get her father elected.

New Federal Parliament In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 20—(CP Cable)—The new Federal parliament opens at Canberra Thursday and today the new labor caucus, consisting of members of the party in both houses--now totalling 72—will meet to select the men who will form the cabinet.

Labor took office by unprecedented majorities in the general election last month, largely as a consequence of the leadership of Prime Minister John Curtin. But Curtin himself has only the same voting power as any other member in choosing the ministers.

This method, by which the votes of party members decided the cabinet ministers, leaving the Prime Minister only the duty of allocating the portfolios, has had some bad results on past occasions. One was the exclusion of Curtin himself from the Labor ministry of James Scullin, Prime Minister from 1931 to 1935.

On Wednesday the two sections of the opposition, the United Australia party and the United Country party, meet separately to appoint their own leaders and to decide whether they will continue their fusion under a single leader of the opposition chosen by the combined parties.

Tells Congress U. S. Army Has Need of Men

By JACK BELL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—Sketching a picture of well-trained American armed forces poised to strike powerful blows at Japan and Germany, Gen. George C. Marshall told the United States Congress today in a discussion of the father draft that it would be dangerous to throw Allied offensives off stride by interrupting the flow of inductions for the army.

The chief-of-staff's warning was echoed by Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the United States fleet, who declared a reduction in the draft might "adversely affect the conduct of the war" and delay putting ships and aircraft into action.

The two, with Mayor La Guardia of New York set forth their positions in testimony before the senate and House of Representatives military committees on a bill by Senator Burton Wheeler (Dem.-Mont.) postponing until Jan. 1 the drafting of men who were fathers before the United States entered the war.

While repeatedly saying that the drafting of fathers remained a question for manpower officials and the Selective Service, Gen. Marshall insisted there should be no disruption in the schedule of inductions calculated to place 1,200,000 additional men in the armed forces before the end of the year.

Briefly, Gen. Marshall said the army is fully trained for the first time, that it has the equipment it needs and that it has now reached the point where it is ready to take the offensive on far flung battle fronts.

Gen. Marshall's stand, as developed during more than three hours of questioning, is that the army must have 700,000 men, including 300,000 replacements, by Jan. 1. If that means the drafting of fathers, then fathers ought to come in. If young, qualified men can be obtained elsewhere, he has no objection to excluding fathers from induction.

But Gen. Marshall reiterated it would be "dangerous" to assume that the army's strength could be reduced below the 7,700,000 goal set for Jan. 1.

"If our quotas are cut," he said, "some of our planned divisions would not sail in the fall of 1944. We would be accepting that hazard. You'd be speculating on an early termination of the war and that would be dangerous.

"Certainly," he declared, "if you cut us now, we suffer a much greater loss than we anticipate from the Germans and the Japs."

T H Bussell Somers officiating.

The beautiful church was gay with flowers as the winsome young bride walked up the aisle with her father who gave her in marriage, wearing a soft green tailored suit with brown hat and accessories and carrying an exquisite bouquet of Blair Cliff Roses. She was attended by Miss Annabell Lawson who was smart in a mustard color two piece wool costume, with black accessories and bouquet of Talisman roses.

The groomsman was F O Gregory R. A. F while Ft Lieut. Ovide Boadley R. A. F. ushered, the church being filled with many interested friends of the popular young couple.

Miss Lilian MacKenzie who played softly during the service, chose as her selection while the register was being signed Mendelssohn's On Wings of Song.

Mrs Andrews, the bride's mother were a becoming two piece dress of black crepe with fox fur and corsage of Better Time Roses.

After the cermeony and the extending of happy congratulations Flt. Lieut. and Mrs Jenkins left by plane on a honeymoon in Boston.

The Guardian joins in happiest congratulations.

New Milk Subsidy Payable Only Under Set Conditions

OTTAWA, Sept. 20—(CP)—The Agricultural Food Board issued today an explanatory statement on increased subsidies for milk production specifying conditions under which they had been paid.

The subsidies were announced Sept. 10, and the initial statement did not specify the conditions given in the statement today.

The Board said:—

The Board is authorized to apply the subsidy of 55 cents per 100 pounds on milk for fluid consumption in all areas where such subsidy is considered necessary to maintain production. In other areas where the previous rate of subsidy viz. 25 cents per 100 pounds is considered adequate this subsidy will apply.

The subsidy of 30 cents per 100 pounds for milk which is concentrated will be extended to apply on milk used in the manufacture of skim milk powder provided that the milk or butterfat is not otherwise subsidized. The granting of such subsidies will be considered on receipt of recommendations from provincial milk boards or commissions.

Under authorization granted to the Agricultural Food Board, distributors and manufacturers of milk or milk products are required to obtain permission from the Agricultural Food Board before purchasing milk or cream from producers other than those from whom they were obtaining supplies at the date the order became effective, which was Sept. 9.

Archbishop of York Welcomed by Russian Churchmen

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 — (AP) — The Archbishop of York, wearing a purple cassock and four-peaked mitre, arrived at a Moscow airport Sunday as the representative of the Church of England to visit the hierarchy of the Russian Orthodox Church.

A delegation of the Orthodox Church, including the Metropolitan Nikolai of Kiev and the Archbishop Sergei of Gorky, met him at the plane in the name of the Metropolitan Sergei of Moscow, the newly-elected Patriarch of all Russia.

The Archbishop came at the invitation of the Patriarch, with whom a series of conferences is planned.

Emerging from the passenger plane in flowing robes at the central airport, the Prelate embraced the representatives of the Orthodox Church and heard an address of welcome by the Metropolitan Nikolai.

The visit was the latest in a series of indications of revival of the Orthodox Church, including the restoration of the Synod election of a Patriarch with the sanction of the Soviet Government.

Enemy Efforts To Close Halifax Harbor Foiled By Minesweepers

Enemy submarines mined the approaches to Halifax harbor in early June in an are intended to close the port to all shipping Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services, announced yesterday.

Minesweepers of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Navy cleared a six-cable channel (1200 yards wide) within one day to permit a convoy to sail, a feat which drew the congratulations of the Admiralty, he said. Mr. Macdonald paid a tribute to the units of the Royal Navy which were in Canadian waters and participated in the sweep.

Mr. Macdonald said the information that mines had been laid was kept secret for security reasons.

No lives were lost as a result of the enemy action, although a small freighter—2,000 tons— which was sunk in June is believed to have been mined. She was, however, a convoy straggler and was four miles inside an area which the navy had declared dangerous.

The mines, he said, were doubtless laid by an ocean going type of submarine fitted for minelaying.

Mines were first discovered and reported by ships of a convoy escort force. Plans which had been made long in advance were immediately translated into action.

The first task of the minesweeping fleet was to clear a channel for incoming and outgoing ships, and to maintain this swept route so that convoys might continue to move safely. The second was to make exploratory sweeps to determine the extent of the minefield and the third was to clear the whole mine-infested area in "mopping-up" operations.

Mr. Macdonald had high praise for the officers and men of the minesweeping fleet, who since the beginning of war had not relaxed their vigilance in a tedious and monotonous job. They discharged their duty when faced by enemy action, he said, with a thoroughness and efficiency which could not have been excelled — without a single casualty, a greater degree of success than the most hopeful, knowing the hazards, could have expected.

SHEEP IN FALL

The urgent demand for more high quality wool for war purposes is a strong argument for dipping sheep twice a year, for it is a well known fact that sheep free from external parasites grow more and better wool. Dipping sheep in the fall is as important as in the spring. However, owing to the fact that in the fall ticks are more difficult to see than when the sheep have just been shorn, fall dipping is often neglected, under the impression that the flock is free from these pests. A few ticks in the fall will multiply many times before spring.

September and October are the best months for fall dipping, and, if the weather happens to be unreasonably cold, the flock can be housed for a night or two until the fleece dries. A clean flock requires less feed and is more easily kept in good condition.

For a small flock, it is not necessary to construct an elaborate dipping plant. A large barrel or trough large enough to hold sufficient liquid to immerse a sheep will answer the purpose. A small draining platform can easily be built, so that a sheep when dipped may be allowed to stand for a few minutes until the dip drains out of the fleece and runs back into the dipping utensil. Detailed information on the dipping of sheep is given in "Sheep Dipping" issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture.
