Death Yesterday Of Mrs. Norman Wright The death occurred at her home on Spring Street, on Saturday afternoon at 5:30, of Mrs. Norman Wright at the age of 85 years. Although she had been ill for the past two months, news of her death comes as a distinct shock to her many old friends in Summerside. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wadman, formerly of Victoria, and she was formerly Margaret Matilda Wadman. After her marriage she resided at Victoria until the year 1900 when her husband, who was a successful general merchant there, moved to Summerside and she has since resided here. Her husband, who died in 1913 and will be remembered by older residents of the Town, conducted for some years a well known business firm in partnership with his brother, the late Elisha Wright. The funeral will take place this afternoon at three o'clock after the remains have been taken from the Compton Funeral Home to her late residence. There will be a short service at the house and burial will be in the People's Cemetery, Summerside. — S.

Skull Makes "Peanuts" of Labor Dispute PROMPT SETTLEMENT of potential labor trouble occurred in Tanganyika, British East Africa, when Wagogo tribesmen were about to down tools while clearing part of the 3 1/2 million acre farm on which the British plan to grow peanuts to help relieve the world fat shortage. Tribesmen's grievance arose when a bulldozer, crashing into a tree, exposed a human skull, buried there according to tribal custom. When the Wagogo employees—fearing the vengeance of the spirit of the dead—threatened to desert, Unit Manager G. G. Watterson acted quickly. He had the skull (arrowed in picture) set up beside him and called a council. The Wagogo liked the idea and decided that all future conferences should be held round the skull so that the spirit of the dead could watch over their interests.
