heart action was for the moment at least, not giving any added anxiety to his attendants.

The evening bulletin was timed at 8:15 p. m. which was about one hour after the physicians had arrived at the palace. It was signed by the regular doctors, Sir Stanley Hewett and Dr. Dawson of Penn, and also by H. Graham Hodgson who made today's X-Ray examination. He had also conducted the first radiological test of the royal patient.

The bulletin said: "The King has not had a restful day. A radiological examination was carried out this afternoon. Neither this nor the exploration of the needle previously carried out has disclosed any appreciable amount of pleural effusion. The general condition remains unchanged."

Maintaining Strength LONDON, Dec. 7.—King George's powers of resistance today were serving him well in his battle with the severe and persistent illness which attacked him more than a fortnight ago. His illness, however, was still causing anxiety to his subjects and to countless well wishers throughout the world.

Several recent medical bulletins, and particularly the one issued shortly before noon today, indicated how well his powers of resistance were serving his Majesty. Today's bulletin reported that he was maintaining his general strength, to the point where he was able to sleep a little more restfully than he had during the night doubtless contributed.

The bulletin, signed by Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn, said: "The King had some restful sleep and his general strength is maintained. Further investigation of the right side of the chest, will be undertaken during the day."

In Capetown CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Dec. 7.—The Duke of Gloucester, en route to the bedside of his father, King George, arrived in Capetown this morning. He will sail on the mail steamer "Balmoral Castle," late this afternoon for England.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The night bulletin issued on King George's condition stated that His Majesty has not had a restful day.

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—A marked feature of the regular monthly meeting on Wednesday of the national executive committee, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was the observance of a two minute silent prayer for the recovery of His Majesty the King, and the following message was dispatched through His Excellency the Governor-General to Her Majesty the Queen: "The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire would ask you to convey to Her Majesty their love and loyalty at this anxious time. Every member of the order shares keenly in the Empire's anxiety at the illness of their beloved sovereign. Acknowledgment of letters of greeting to Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain and of the Minister of France in Canada, M. Knight were received."

(Canadian Press) MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—The port of Montreal will definitely be closed tomorrow with the departure of the last steamer, the lake carrier Kristine, for Europe. The steamship Kristine is one of twenty six lake vessels in port, but the other twenty five are going to remain in port for the winter.

The women in this scene were as follows: Winnifred Burns, Olive Mulrow, Marion Harris, Maude Harris, Vera, Found, Mabel Calbeck.

The scene of the Philippian jailer was particularly stirring. Paul and Silas were represented by Rev. Mr. MacWalker and Hammond McCall. Robert Parent was the jailer with his several assistants. Others took the part of the imprisoned jailers.

The scene opened with an earthquake, chains rattling, and prisoners frightened yet endeavouring to escape while their lives. The group is held together by Paul, who teaches the jailer the meaning of conversion and baptism.

Coming down to more modern times, there was shown the founding of the Home Mission Society at Chester, N. S., 1814. The parts of "Capt. Baker" and "Joseph Chalmers" were played by Lloyd Prouse, Percy Proude, and Rev. W. R. MacWalker respectively. Joseph Dimock was presented in the person of "Arthur Affleck."

Rev. R. W. Lindsay was the preacher of the Association Sermon. The other characters in the scene accredited themselves well as members of the Association.

In the "Indian Scene" Rev. R. W. Lindsay impersonated the "Rev. S. T. Rand" the pioneer of Baptist Home Mission work among the Indians.

The scene represents an Indian encampment with the preacher teaching them to sing a Gospel hymn.

The next scene is called the Marriage Ceremony between the Regular Baptists and the Prewill Baptists, which took place in the Main Street Church, Saint John, N. B., Oct. 1908. The final tableau was ensemble of the various characters grouped around "Michael and his Angels, with the demons flying bound at his feet depicting the victory of righteousness over evil.

A grand climax was reached in the singing of Coronation Hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name." Particular mention should be made of the musical selections rendered by Miss Roberta Spencer on the organ and the various hymns sung by the choir. The solo, "The Holy City" was sung very acceptably by Miss Barbara McNeill. This solo was accompanied by lantern slides. The solo, "Paul and Silas" rendered by Mr. Roy Quigley made a very fitting prelude to the jail scene.

The duet "Whispering Hope" was sung by Mrs. H. E. Henderson and Miss Barbara McNeill very beautifully.

The electricity effects for the evening were made possible by Rev. J. H. Copeland of Fairmount, N. S., who is assisting the Home Mission Board in the production of this pageant.

Council at Jerusalem. This shows the principle of democracy in the church. Questions in dispute are determined by the believers themselves and not by someone in high office.

Scene 2: A similar Council six sixteen years later. Here is presented the principle of complete liberty of conscience in religion.

Scene 3: The representation of Paul and Silas in the prison, and the conversion of the Philippian jailer, showing the principle of personal faith in and experience of the Grace of the Lord Jesus as the basis of the Christian Church. It also shows the ordinance of baptism to be, not a vehicle of grace but a symbol of a work of grace in the participant.

Scene 4: A meeting of the Baptist Association at Chester, N. S., in 1814, where Home Missions first became an effort of the general body previous efforts having been entirely local and individual.

Scene 5: A meeting at Cornwallis a year later when the Cause of Home Missions was formally organized by the Association.

Scene 6: Similar work among Indians.

Scene 10: This shows the consummation of this union in 1905 between Baptist and Free Baptist in N. B., which was followed by a similar union in N. S. in 1906 from which time such Home Mission work has been one.

Act III Scene 2: Final tableau in which all participants in the pageant unite to ascribe praise and honor to the World's Redeemer.

So well was the portrayal of the various characters done, it would be rather unfair to particularize any given due credit to all. It may be mentioned, however, that the following took some of the leading parts: Rev. E. S. Mason, D.D., the Superintendent of the Home Mission Board was present to take the part of Interpreter. E. D. Stern, M.A. took the part of "Pilgrim." J. A. Clark represented "Michael," leader of the angelic hosts. Evelyn Simmons, Florence Baker, Haze Malone and Kathleen McCall. These four were the Angel Spirits of Love, Faith, Purity and Hope. Robert Parent impersonated Lucifer the fallen angel, who had as his support three demons, Lust, Unbelief, Rebellion, which parts were taken by Ralph Cameron, Jack Forsythe, and Lorne Calbeck.

In the Early Church scenes Rev. R. W. Lindsay assumed the soul of Peter; J. A. Clark was the Apostle John; Holden McLeure portrayed James; Henry Calbeck, impersonated Earnabas; Rev. W. R. MacWalker, of North River, was the impersonator of the Apostle Paul Arthur Affleck was Nicodemus Percy Proud, Joseph of Arimathea Ralph Cameron, Titus; John McCall, Matthew; Warren Burns Judas Lebbaeus. The other Apostles and Deacons' places were assumed by Lorne Calbeck, Jack Forsythe, Nelson Robinson, Lloyd Froude.

The women in this scene were as follows: Winnifred Burns, Olive Mulrow, Marion Harris, Maude Harris, Vera, Found, Mabel Calbeck.

Saint Dunstan's Defeat League of Cross 54-48

A very exciting and close game of basketball was played on the L. O. C. gym floor last night when the Saint Dunstan's University boys won from their opponents, the League of the Cross team by a slight margin of 6 points.

The game all through was fast and very exciting and both teams showed an excellent brand of basketball from start to finish. When the teams left the floor after the first half the L. O. C. team were in the lead by the very narrow margin of 2 points.

In the second half the Saints got their machine-like combination working perfectly and were soon in the lead, but were soon brought into danger again by the strong bid made by the League team so even up matters in which they failed to succeed, losing the game by a close margin of 6 points, the score being 54 to 48 in favor of the saints.

who have been well represented here ever since the campaign opened.

Victoria electors are players, in a political game of wider scope than most of them realized. While they are thinking of the concrete issues before them, the national politicians of both parties are thinking of the effect of tomorrow's poll on their own fortunes at the next general election, expected within eighteen months or so.

Conservatives want to hold Victoria as a traditionally Conservative seat, so that in the words of D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate, the Liberal press may not be able to say after the poll, "B. C. returns to Liberalism."

The loss of the seat to the Conservative party would not affect its position materially in Parliament, any more than its capture would vitiate the Government numerically after an unbroken series of Conservative victories, would have an infortunate effect throughout the province and the West generally, the politicians think.

On the other hand the Mackenzie King Government seems to want Victoria more than it has wanted any seat in many years. A victory here now, it thinks, would drive the narrow end of the Liberal wedge into the hostile province of British Columbia. Such a victory, of course, would be hailed all over Canada as the turn of the tide in the Far West. With this possibility in view, the Government has thrown all its resources into the campaign, sent three or four leading cabinet ministers to speak, and offered all its experienced counsel to its local followers.

The issues of the campaign are simple. Dr. J. D. MacLean, Liberal candidate, says they are purely local and have nothing to do with national affairs. He asks the voters to return him so that he may give Victoria part an industrial development. Conservatives call this an attempt to bribe the electors, and assert that Victoria is to decide between a Liberal policy which is delivering Canada up to the United States and a Conservative policy which will make it economically independent.

Address By Bennett Creation of an economic independence for Canada was urged in an address delivered here last night by the Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party. Mr. Bennett, speaking in the interest of D. S. Plunkett, Conservative candidate in the Victoria by-election, appealed to the citizens of the country to solve problems which he declared, must be faced if the Dominion was to become economically independent.

Mr. Bennett referred to the prospect of the country, and said that an analysis of the sources from which it sprang showed other than a healthy view, looking to the future greatness of the Dominion.

Mr. Bennett said he was appealing for the future. It was, he said, a question of whether the young people of the country should remain in a foreign country. It was, he declared, a question whether they should have to follow the raw material to a foreign country and become citizens of that country. There was, Mr. Bennett continued, a sharp division of opinion between the two parties in Canada, on these matters, and the appeal now being made was for a decision on which opinion should prevail. Mr. Bennett said: "Vote for the national life of Canada," Mr. Bennett urged, in appealing for the election of Mr. Plunkett.

The Australian treaty does not permit any butter to come into Canada, because they put the dumping clause on customs. An Australian butter, Mr. Bennett said, "This was done by an Order-in-Council in 1925 which extended the provisions of the Australian treaty to New Zealand, thus making a treaty that was not negotiated by any one here you ever heard our Liberal friends declaim against Order-in-Council? Yet this was done by Order-in-Council and the Parliament of Canada was never consulted," said Mr. Bennett. "So while we buy practically no butter from Australia we have on order today some 250,000 cases from New Zealand."

Referring to lumber exports from Canada to Australia, Mr. Bennett said that Australia buys 300,000,000 feet of lumber a year, but of this total only 50,000,000 comes from Canada. He said that lumber, however, was not in the treaty which so there was no preference for Canadian lumber. Dealing with meat, he said that during the last three years sales of meat from Canada to other countries had been decreasing while imports had been increasing. Raw cotton importation had decreased from 135,000,000 in 1926 to 130,000,000 pounds last year, because Canada was now buying more manufactured cotton.

"After all there has never been a time when our volume of trade was greater. Yet, every man who analyzes conditions will see that every effort is being made by the Government to reduce our economic independence. Every thoughtful man should ask himself the question, where are we going and what is the tendency of our economic life? It is not the question of how much we buy or sell, but what we are giving up for our future."

HON. R. B. BENNETT ON HIS WAY EAST VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 7.—After two strenuous days in Victoria by the by-election campaign, Hon. R. B. Bennett, K. C., M. P., leader of the Federal Conservative Opposition left for the east this morning.

The Conservative leader plans to stop off at Calgary between trains and then continue his journey eastward. He is accompanied by his sister, Miss Mildred Bennett.
