INDEPENDENCE OF THE LEGISLATURE

The question has been raised whether lawyers holding seats in the Legislative Assembly can lawfully receive public money for conducting crown prosecutions for the Attorney General as is alleged to have been done. The law, Cap. L. 58 Vlo. (1893) section 22 says: "No person whomsoever, holding or enjoying, undertaking or executing directly or indirectly, alone or with any other, by himself or by the interposition of any trustee or third party, any contract or agreement with Her Majesty, or with any public officer, or department, with respect to the public service of Prince Edward Island, or under which any public moneys of the Province is to be paid for any service or work, or who shall become surety for the same, shall be eligible as a member of the Assembly, nor shall he sit or vote in the same."
 And section 26 of the same Act provides a penalty of two hundred dollars for every day on which a disqualified member sits or votes.

An Engineer writes to the Montreal Herald in answer to the question Can steel rails be produced in Canada? It is not pleasing to record that he reaches a negative conclusion, and for reasons which appear convincing to the intelligent reader. This writer is very firmly convinced that steel rails cannot be produced at either the Sea or Sydney under a protection of $7 per ton such as Mr. Fielding proposes, that the Dominion Steel Company will not attempt to put in a steel rail plant, and that in consequence the steel rail duty will not be imposed. If this view is correct Mr. Fielding evinced a good measure of sagacity in making the imposition of the duty contingent upon the Canadian rail mills being able to supply the wants of our railway.

Senator Carmichael of Nova Scotia has resigned on account of age. He was born in 1819 and appointed to the Senator in 1893.

To-day we give our readers the address of Rev. D. B. McLeod delivered at the Y. M. C. A. meeting yesterday,—the last but not the least in the notable Making of Manhood series. This program, now completed was a most worthy undertaking and it has been sustained throughout with great ability, earnestness and interest. We feel assured that the result will be beneficial and lasting. On behalf of the city we express thanks for this noble and uplifting series. The Guardian also desires to thank the several clergymen and other speakers who by kindly furnishing the manuscript have enabled us to send their excellent discourses over a wider field than could otherwise have been reached.

Harper's Weekly prints an illustrated article showing what is being done to "harness a glacier," or rather the water flowing from one, to furnish the cities of Tacoma, Seattle and Everett with light, heat and traction and industrial power. Mount Rainier lies back of these cities and rises to a height of 14,500 feet, and in winter gathers an immense ice-cap from which, all the year round as it melts along its lower border flows a considerable stream. This stream is being dammed near where it emerges from the glacier, and from the pond thus formed the water is carried through a flume for over ten miles with very moderate descent and then discharged through an immense waterfall into the bottom of the canon through which the river flows. Pipes 1700 feet long set at an angle of forty-five degrees hurt their seams against four giant wheels in the power house. These pipes taper from a diameter of four feet at the top to a five-inch nozzle at the bottom, and the water will issue from them at an estimated speed of three miles a minute, generating 20,000 horse power. It is expected the work will be completed in 1904.

A CURIOUS LEGAL POINT.

A judgment of interest to shopkeepers has just been given by the tribunal of Basle, Switzerland. A woman who kept a linen shop in the town refused to sell to a customer some handkerchiefs which were on show in the window. The customer put the matter in the hands of a solicitor, and the matter came before the court. The shopkeeper justified her action by saying that she refused to sell anything to this particular customer, who had insulted her. The magistrate said he recognized the right of the defendant to refuse to sell her goods to any particular client but he added that such clients must be notified in advance through the police. As this had not been done the shopkeeper was fined 88 and costs. An appeal against this decision is to be lodged.
